The all-seasons recreation building appeared to be going down to defeat last night, according to early returns.

The building proposal was losing 246-80 at 9:30 p.m. in precincts 1 and 8, while the proposal for park improvements was also losing 199-166 in the same precincts.

New Pattern For Warning Sirens

The outdoor warning sirens in Elk Grove Village will be sounded an additional time when a tornado has been sighted within a 30-mile radius of the community.

Previously, the sirens were sounded when the U.S. Weather Bureau issued a tornado warning for a much larger area of which the Elk Grove Village area is a small portion.

Allen Hulet, fire chief and civil defense director, said the sounding of the siren when "warnings" were issued by the weather bureau has led to some confusion.

There have been occasions when warnings were issued when skies were clear and the sun was shining, he said, adding that the tendency for residents may be to ignore the warning sirens under such circumstances.

HULETT SAID the sirens will continue to be sounded whenever the weather bureau issues a warning, whether the sun is shining or not, but that in addition the sirens will be sounded when "our sources spot a tornado."

Reception Attracts VIPs

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., are among the Illinois political figures expected to attend a May 2 reception honoring Elk Grove Township Republican Committeewoman Mrs. Florence Luckner.

GOP Committeeman Carl R. Hansen yesterday said he expects Ogilvie, Percy, U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, and Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott to help observe Mrs. Luckner's 30th year as Republican committeewoman.

The reception will be held at the Navarone Restaurant in Elk Grove Township between 2 and 5 p.m.

Mrs. Gordon Raindin, reception chairman, announced formation of a reception committee which includes top political figures from the Northwest suburbs.

Among them are Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington; Rep. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect; Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights; and Cook County Commissioner Floyd T. Fullilove, Des Plaines.

This Morning In Brief

The State

Democratic leaders in the State Senate introduced legislation providing a 4 per cent increase in the state aid formula for public schools and changing factors involved in distribution of the aid.

Cook County Assessor's Office told a group of anti-pollution activists that it stands by its tax assessment of the U.S. Steel South Chicago Works, which allegedly got a tax break of $12 million annually from Assessor P. J. Cullerton.

An asphalt roofing plant in Joliet was fined $149,000 for polluting the Des Plaines River and has been ordered to post a $2.6 million security bond to assure completion of waste treatment facility.

The Nation

A unanimous Supreme Court armed federal judges with a board arsenal of legal weapons, such as busing and pupil pairing, "to eliminate from the public schools all vestiges of state-imposed segregation."

Anti-war protesting in Washington, D.C., was spurred on by Sens. Mark Hatfield, R-Oreg., George McGovern, D-S.D., at the hearings of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Vietnam veterans carried anti-war protests throughout the city.

Communist China has accepted an invitation to send a group of table tennis players to the United States, according to the U.S. Table Tennis Association.

(Call 394-2300 for final results)

IN THE RACE for three 4-year terms as a trustee the three incumbents were winning with unofficial totals in from precincts one and eight.

Edward Kenna had 230 votes; Ronald Chernick had 230; and James O'Brien had 161. Challengers Robert Lindahl had 161 and Alvah Stone, 88.

For the two 2-year terms on the village board, Nanci Vanderweel had 201 votes with two precincts reporting at 9:30 p.m. She was followed by George Spees, 195; Gerald Smiley, 134; and John Ehlebracht, 92.

In the race for a 2-year term as clerk Richard McGrenera was leading with two precincts in with 127 votes, followed by Margreth Schwellenbach, 116, and Sandra Todd, 91.

Several of the candidates spent the better part of election day campaigning near the polling places. Sandra Todd, a clerk candidate, was wearing a bright red coat and an orchid as she handed out literature near the Daniel P. Cook School.

NANCI VANDERWEEL, dressed in a yellow outfit, campaigned with her husband, Leonard, outside the Admiral Richard E. Byrd School. She had the distinction of being the first woman candidate for trustee.

The polling place at Byrd School was the scene earlier in the day of a mild controversy over the placement of campaign posters. Election judges insisted the posters, stuck in the ground in front of the school, were too close to the polling place.

Election laws require that they be 100 feet away.

The judges insisted that they be moved further back from the school building and they were.

Loretta Tomaselli, a judge at Byrd School, predicted 800 voters would turn out when the ballots were finally tabulated. There are 1,165 registered voters in the precinct, believed to be the largest of the eight precincts in the village.

Students Spend Easter Sunday At Mayan Church

Sixteen students from Elk Grove High School celebrated Mass on Easter Sunday in a Catholic Church like millions of other Christians, but the resemblance ends there.

The students were celebrating Mass in a Mayan Catholic Church more than 2,000 miles away, with the decor done in typical Mayan carvings.

The most unique part of the church was the blue floor, according to instructor Ronald Benes, who supervised the trip to the Yucatan Peninsula.

"The church is a beautiful example of the Mayan Indians combining their own religion with the Roman Catholic one," Benes said.

THE FLOOR IS blue as a representation of the Mayans' ancient religion which has the purpose of searching for rain, Benes said. He added, only the Mayan church has blue for a floor because it is the residence of their God, Chac, who lives in the underworld.

The church was only one of many places the students visited in the Peninsula. They left April 7, visiting the State of Yucatan and the State of Campeche, and returned April 16.

The purpose of the trip was twofold, according to Benes. They went to visit the ruins of Mayan civilization to visit with living Mayan Indians in the homes and villages, and to see a mixture of Mayan with Spanish culture, especially in the cities.

The students, 12 boys, four girls, and four faculty members, also did exploration of ruins on their trip, and obtained artifacts of Mayan pottery and tools.

The samples will be on display for Parent-Teacher night at 8 p.m., Thursday.

THE HEAT WAS at least 115 degrees every day, but the students didn't complain because they were staying in "posh" hotels with swimming pools, a welcome retreat at the end of the day.

The trip was very successful, according to Benes, who had been teaching the students about Indian cultures and traditions in his anthropology class.

For $260 each student received an education in meeting a different people, living a different way of life, and visiting the past.

Pat Paulsen To Ask Question At Harper

Is S-E-X A 4-Letter Word?

Comedian Pat Paulsen will take a satirical look at issues ranging from politics to the sexual revolution at 8 p.m. Friday, April 29 in the College Center at Harper College.

His lecture, "Pat Paulsen Looks at the 70's," is sponsored by Harper Cultural Arts Committee. The college's campus is located at Algonquin and Roselle Roads in Palatine.

Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for non-Harper students. Harper students, staff members and faculty with ID cards will be admitted free.

Paulsen rose to prominence in 1968 when he launched his presidential campaign on the Smothers Brothers television show. Although he was defeated, he had been known as the unchallenged favorite of the Straight Talking American Government (STAG) party.

In his Harper lecture, Paulsen will discuss "Astrology, Zen, Occult and Things That Go Bump In The Night" and "How To Survive The Next Ten Years."

Paulsen is expected to ask, "Is S-E-X a four-letter word?" Maps, films, drawings and a stork will be used as visual aides during his talk.

The comedian was raised in San Francisco where his "sacred cow" satirizing became popular in coffee houses. Prior to this success, he had worked as a photostat machine operator in San Francisco and at a Nevada gypsum plant.

He was hired by Tom and Dick Smothers for their comedy hour in 1967, after he had sold them a song titled "Chocolate."

His weekly editorials on the Smothers show led to his tongue-in-cheek presidential campaign, despite "warnings from veteran political observers that America was not ready for such dynamic and decisive leadership."

The comedian's own television series "Pat Paulsen's Half a Comedy Hour," was shown on ABC-TV last season. He has also made several guest appearances on television.

Paulsen, who has been described as "a comedian with sad eyes and body to match," claims he recently led a physical fitness campaign by climbing the highest mountain in Kansas and running the 26 mile Boston Marathon in 71 hours and 35 minutes.

First Ecology Movement Dates Back To April 1872

by MARY JO TAKACH

Remember Arbor Day? You know, the last Friday in April when your teacher took you to the playground or the local park and your class planted a tree.

You were probably participating in the first ecology movement.

The tree planting idea originated in Nebraska, where it was first observed on April 10, 1872. It started with J. Sterling Morton, then a member of the Nebraska board of agriculture and later U. S. secretary of agriculture. The idea grew and the celebration was turned over to the schools about 1882.

Teachers took advantage of the exercise in tree planting to teach the importance of forestry and of the planting of seedlings to reforest otherwise waste lands.

TODAY THE "save-the-environment" theme is putting new life into the occasion. New York City schools, for example, have been leaving it pretty much up to the individual schools to "plant trees and things where there is a little plot." But this year, "we will probably do more because of the ecology movement," says a spokesman for Manhattan's District One.

Americans in both the city and country, are beginning to realize just how valuable a tree is.

"Everybody loves the healthy tree for its sheer beauty. And trees are essential — particularly healthy young growing trees — because they recycle the carbon dioxide in our atmosphere into oxygen; they guard against erosion," says George H. Weyerhaeuser, president of Weyerhaeuser Company, one of the largest tree nurseries in the world.

"But the tree is also a versatile and renewable resource that helps to underpin our entire economy," he continues. "It yields lumber, plywood and composition materials essential to provide adequate housing for millions of Americans. And it yields the fiber for paper and other products necessary to the functioning of modern civilization."

SAVING AND replanting trees is not only necessary to keep nature natural, but also to keep the country going.

Even in the city, trees have special uses, according to Edward P. Cliff, chief of the U. S. Forestry Service.

"Trees in the city are being increasingly recognized as a vital asset in soil and water conservation and in upgrading the quality of the whole environment. The potential benefits are many — cooling shade, better air to breathe, less street noise, protection from winds, habitat for birds and wildlife, a pleasant and serene environment and an increase in natural beauty," he says.

Arbor day is a simple idea, but think of the shadeless sidewalks and barren hillsides if school children hadn't planted trees.

Hearing Date Set For Accused Killer

Le Roy R. Shafer, 26, of 433 Singapore Ln., Carpentersville, charged with the April 10 murder of Daniel Gallagher, 28, of 207 N. Hickory St., Bartlett, will appear in Niles County Court May 18 for a continued preliminary hearing.

The state attorney's office asked for a continuance from Tuesday's hearing scheduled in Niles Court.

Shafer, who is asking the state to appoint legal counsel, has not been indicted or bound over to the grand jury.

Shafer was arrested in Hammond Ind., where he works. Evidence accumulated by Bartlett police and the state attorney's office, was submitted to the Illinois Crime Laboratory for study.

Gallagher was shot and killed in the kitchen of his Bartlett home. Police working on a report from Gallagher's five-year-old daughter, Colleen, apparently the only witness to the murder, at first sought a "mystery woman" who allegedly entered the home to use the telephone, and according to the girl, "shot daddy."

Helford Raps Park Board

Irwin Helford, an Elk Grove Village Community Service board member, has criticized the park district board for its reasons in denying the committee use of the teen center.

Helford youth services committee chairman was joined in his criticism by Chris Cannizzo, a teenage girl working with Community Service, and Howard C. Lundgren Jr., a 21-year-old volunteer.

Last month the youth services committee requested a room in the teen center 180 Kennedy Blvd., as its base of operations. The request was denied by the Elk Grove Park District Board of Commissioners April 8.

The request to house the youth services personnel, hotline and group meetings in the teen center was denied because it would be contrary to policy, which is to provide parks and recreation, not "social, mental health services," according to the park board.

COMMUNITY SERVICE is a social service agency funded by the village which works in the areas of early childhood, adult and youth services.

The concern seemed not so much the denial but the apparent feeling behind it.

Helford said, "We say people need to get along, fight prejudice and promote mutual understanding — and then we hear park district staff and board members say 'our' kids and their' kids must not be allowed to mix. It would be the 'biggest mistake.' Yet in the same park district conference room we heard a sincere teenage girl say 'We can get along and do 'We want to try'."

He added that Neil Cooney, a board member, stated a member of the Community Service Board of Directors advised him not to "permit us into the teen center. If this is true, I demand the identity of this board member at once. Mr. Cooney's public statement requires this disclosure now."

Cooney, verbally attacked Community Service before voting against the request.

MISS CANNIZZO said, "You fail to see what not only the community of Elk Grove needs, but all people (Community Service board members and staff, park board members and staff, and all the rest of the 'common people,' including the taxpayers, parents and youth) need to work together as a community of humans to grow physically, mentally and spiritually."

She added that she could understand the difference in approaches between the two groups, one being physical growth and the other mental health, and asked "Is there absolutely no effective way to combine these two needs of us all?"

Lundgren said he felt the park board was not thinking of the youth of the community when it made its decision, and that the two groups should work together in providing youth activities.

Lundgren is in the U.S. Navy based at Great Lakes and returns home to Elk Grove Village each weekend, when he supervises the hotline.

Harvey Elected To Lead Board Of Education

Harold Harvey was elected president of the Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59 Board of Education Monday.

Harvey of 200 Marshall, Des Plaines, had served on the budget committee for both of his years on the board, serving the last year as committee chairman.

Allen Sparks, who nominated him, said "He has worked to see that the model of every school board candidate becomes a reality."

Harvey president of the North Point State Bank in Arlington Heights replaced Richard Hess of Elk Grove Village who had served on the board for six years. He did not seek reelection.

Judith Zanca of 81 Roxbury, Des Plaines was elected board secretary.

The board also canvassed the April 10 board election showing Sparks with 1,650 votes, Albert Domonich with 1,452, Erwin Poklaski with 1,428 and Theodore Stadler with 967. The canvass showed a total of eight additional votes over the unofficial tally.

Votes on the referendum for a new junior high school were canvassed showing 1,940 "yes" and 1,295 "no."

In other business the board president, appointed Sharrice Hildebrandt of Elk Grove Village representative to the Northwest Educational Cooperative with Poklaski as alternate.

Hansen New Harper Chairman

Milton Hansen, reelected last week to the Harper College Board, was elected Monday as chairman.

Jessalyn Nicklas was elected vice chairman and Joseph Morton was elected secretary.

Hansen a Palatine attorney, was elected chairman over Mrs. Nicklas by a 4-3 vote. Mrs. Nicklas was elected vice chairman by a 6-1 vote over past secretary Larry Moats.

Morton was elected secretary by a 6-1 margin over Moats as board secretary.

Hansen said before the vote that he did not want to be chairman and that he would cast his ballot for Mrs. Nicklas.

The election of officers followed the seating of the two newest board members, Ross Miller and D. Eugene Nugent.

PRECEDING THE election of officers the official vote canvass of the Harper College election confirmed the election of Hansen, Miller and Nugent.

William Mann, vice president in charge of financial affairs, read the official tally sheets to the six board members present. There were no major changes over last week's unofficial results.

On April 10 the three men out-talied five other candidates seeking board seats. Hansen, one of the board's original members, tallied 6,769 votes to lead the winners.

Anti-Pollution Talk Is Slated

William L. Blaser, newly appointed director of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, will discuss the state's efforts toward combating pollution at next Monday's meeting of the Elk Grove Township Republican Organization.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Mount Prospect Country Club, 600 S. See Gwan. It is open to the public.

Blaser's appearance in the area is his first in the Northwest suburbs since his controversial appointment to the post by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie earlier this year.

Ogilvie nominated Blaser after firing former director Clarence Klassen and the executive committee of the Democratic-controlled Illinois Senate at first rejected the nomination.

Shortly after however the committee reconsidered and Blaser was confirmed for the position.

Blaser is a former management consultant and his Springfield firm, Blaser, Anderson and Co., was under contract to provide consulting services on management and organizational problems in the state government.

He also served a two-year term in the Illinois General Assembly and currently is president of the Lincoln Republican Forum of Sangamon County.

Plans Finalized For Service Unit

Plans were finalized Monday to build a service center in Elk Grove Township Elementary Dist. 59 behind the administration building at 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd. Arlington Heights.

A bid for the center was accepted by the board from Chapple Co., Elmhurst, to construct the center for $81,744.

Currently the district is leasing a building at 2525 S. Clearbrook Dr. near Algonquin Road for a service center. However, the lease expires June 30 and the new service center is expected to be built by then.

It will consist of an 80 by 32-foot office area plus an 80 by 100-foot warehouse area in a pre-fabricated steel structure.

The administration pointed out that Dist. 59 would be investing at least $19,000 a year in rental of the present facility and that a building owned by the district would offer the most economical long-term solution.

The building will be financed from remaining funds from previous bond issues, with $29,000 of it earmarked at one time for improvements at the administration building.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am constantly bothered with discharge, which is both embarrassing and annoying. I have been to several doctors but none seem to help, other than telling me to douche. This doesn't help. Could you tell me why I have this problem and what to do about it? I've had six children, plus one miscarriage and am 48 years old.

Dear Reader — About 30 per cent of all women of childbearing age have trouble with a vaginal infection, causing a discharge. Unlike the normal secretions of the vagina, the discharge usually has a bad odor and may or may not be associated with itching — depending on what causes the infection. Some infections are caused by fungus or yeast and others by bacteria. Most of these infections can be cured or controlled if properly treated.

There are many causes for failure in treatment of vaginal infections. Too often it is because the right treatment has not been used. A large number of infections are best treated by medicines taken by mouth as opposed to medicated douches. Some infections involve the urinary tract as well as the vagina and local treatment of the vagina doesn't solve that problem. Even certain yeast infections that are properly treated by douches and medicines applied to the infected area sometimes require medicine by mouth to reduce the amount of yeast organisms in the digestive tract — a common source of reinfection.

Another common cause for treatment failure is not continuing the medicine long enough. Prolonged treatment well after symptoms are relieved is usually necessary or the problem recurs.

In a good many of the common vaginal infections, the male also carries the infecting agent and a successful cure requires simultaneous treatment of both sexual partners in most cases. Treating the woman alone merely sets her up for reinfection.

THEN THERE IS the problem of changing the normal bacterial content of the vagina, causing it to be more easily infected by yeast or fungus. This happens when a woman is taking antibiotics. A woman with recurrent vaginal infection should take preventive medicine when on antibiotics, if the cause of the infection is a yeast or funguslike organism.

Taking too many douches, particularly medicated ones and using antiseptic soaps on the vulva all destroy normal bacterial growth permitting harmful organisms to spread in an uncontrolled fashion and causing a vaginal infection.

If a woman is having recurrent problems, oral contraceptives should be discontinued.

DuBrow On TV

by Rick DuBrow

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Justice In America," a three-part investigative series focusing on the nation's courts, begins on CBS-TV tonight with an impressively human hour about legal treatment of the poor and other disadvantaged groups.

"Some are more equal than others" is the name of the hour, and it is a program well worth making time for. In addition, followers of this season's television shows will undoubtedly note the lesson of how a professional journalistic effort can be 'relevant' in a much more effective way than entertainment series handling the same subjects.

Part of "some are more equal than others" deals with legal service offices — sometimes known as neighborhood, storefront, law practices — which, of course, aid needy persons who can't afford attorney fees, or at least very much. And video watchers will naturally recall that two entertainment series this season — "The Storefront Lawyers" and "The Young Lawyers" — were built around similar legal help offices.

The difference, of course, is that these series, which failed when viewers rejected message-laden "relevance" offered by scriptwriters, unfortunately had to fall back on numerous dramatic clichés to be salable. This diluted the effect of what was good and true. Documentaries like tonight's "Justice In America" are immediately more trustworthy.

It is ironic, though, that the premiere episode of "The Storefront Lawyers" dealt effectively with a man threatened with loss of his home because a minor bill was escalated exorbitantly by parasitic middlemen — and tonight's documentary touches on the same subject. If "The Storefront Lawyers" hadn't tried to be "Mod Squad Goes To Law School" — and had been more adult in the way of "The Defenders" rather than crassly aiming at the young audience, it might have been a fine series. It finally changed its title to "Men At Law," but that didn't help much.

Tonight's documentary explores the American concept of equality under the law for everyone — and, to no one's surprise, finds that the reality is much less pleasant than the beautiful theory. Said the program's producer, John Sharnik, "One of the most devastating effects of court congestion is the degree to which it has prejudiced the first principle of American justice: Equal justice under law."

We are shown some of the problems concerning bail, jury selection and detention. In a superbly human section, we hear nine of 12 persons who served on a jury during a Black Panthers trial discuss their experiences during the deliberations — and their individual reactions and soul-searching. In the words of the narrator, Eric Sevareid, the program tries to "cut through the rhetoric and get to the issues." It does this in first-rate fashion.

The Channel Swim: The entire final playoff series between pro basketball's Milwaukee Bucks and Baltimore Bullets will be carried live by ABC-TV, starting with Wednesday night's first game... "Southern Exposures," a half-hour of visual impressions of the American South by famed French photographer Henri Cartier-Bresson, will be broadcast by CBS-TV May 4.

Here is another problem hand from "Popular Bridge." South finds himself in a diamond slam after rebidding three diamonds over his partner's Stayman three clubs. He is sure of his contract if either the spade or diamond finesses works, but he wants to give himself some extra chances.

You can see that the diamond king is singleton, but South cannot and should not play for it.

The correct play is to win the first heart in dummy, lead a heart to his king and ruff his last heart. Then try the diamond finesse. It loses but since the king of diamonds is a singleton, West has to make a losing return.

A spade lead takes South's finesse for him. A heart lead allows South to ruff in dummy and discard his jack of spades. After that he takes his two black aces and claims the rest of the tricks on a cross-ruff.

The best defense is for West to lead a club and East to play his nine, but that fails also. South gets rid of one of dummy's spades on that club trick; a second on the ace of clubs and a third one on the fifth club which sets up when the suit divides 4-4.

This is the line of play given by the magazine. It would lose if West's king of diamonds were guarded, but in that case no line of play would bring the slam home.

The Lighter Side
by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Picked up a phone the other day and dialed a number. Don't remember the digital combination, but let's say it was 555-5555. At any rate, nothing happened. No busy signal. No squawking noise. Just dead air.

There may be another explanation for that type of phenomenon, but it is my belief that somewhere on its premises the telephone company maintains a large dead air machine.

The company, as you know, leases circuits to the television networks, where dead air is abhorrent. So it uses the machine to pump out any dead air that might be in the TV lines.

Occasionally, this dead air backs up into some of the other circuits and when that happens, you might as well dial again. Which I did.

The second time I dialed the number there was a pregnant pause, by which I mean a pause long enough for the operator to have a baby, and then a female voice said:

"What number are you calling please?"

Beautiful! The telephone company has some of the most sophisticated, computerized equipment known to man, yet there are times when it can't keep track of a simple seven-digit figure.

"555-5555," I replied. Clicking noise.

Another pregnant pause followed by a recorded announcement saying, "The number you have just called 555-558 is in service. Please hang up and dial again."

Dialed again. Got busy signal. Progress! Dialed another time.

Heard squawking noise. Figured must be closing in on it. Redialed and rejoined the pregnant pausing operator.

"What number are you..."

Whereupon was reconnected with recorded announcement which advised me that 555-558 was still in service.

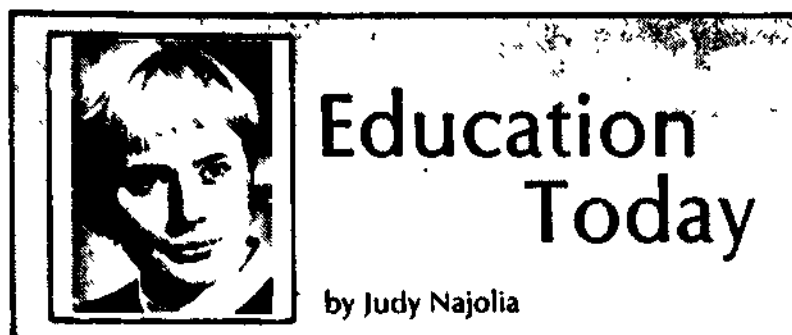

So I dialed 555-558 instead of 555-5555. I knew it was the wrong number but when one is in the clutches of a couple of robots bent on destroying one's sanity, one is grateful for any contact with the outside world.

All of which is why I am not in agreement with certain congressmen who recently have criticized the FBI's wire-tapping operations. By me, the more wire-tapping the better.

Given a free hand, the FBI and other intelligence agencies will put together a nationwide wire-tap network that probably will work better than the telephone system.

And then, the next time the phone company's dead air machine starts backing up, perhaps you can reach your party through his tap-in.

Education Today

by Judy Najolia

A $10.5 million bond referendum will go to High School Dist. 214 voters May 15 for approval. In essence, the board is asking voters to let it build another high school for $10.5 million.

Topping the $10 million mark for the eighth high school, planned for the district's site in Buffalo Grove, was not unexpected. Rising construction costs dictate the building, if approved by voters May 15, must cost more than the $9.4 million Rolling Meadows High School now under construction.

Construction costs are an important factor. Going out for bids this summer or next fall could mean a difference of $500,000 in the final contract.

Besides construction costs, the board has had to consider other factors in determining to ask voters for $10.5 million for the eighth high school.

ARCHITECTS' FEES and square foot space in the building have to be curtailed to fit a dollar amount acceptable to the voters. Board members feel $10.5 million will build a good high school for the amount of money voters feel they can afford.

Before the $10.5 million figure was selected Monday night at the Dist. 214 board meeting, board members discussed a figure of $10 million and turned it down as being too restrictive. Projecting construction costs for duplicating Rolling Meadows High School, the same school would cost $10.8 million if bid out today rather than a year ago.

THE $500,000 difference in construction costs for a high school, which may mean the difference of cutbacks in educational services, is easy to absorb in a school district which covers two townships.

Board members and voters alike are more likely to shrug their shoulders and accept a $500,000 increase in a bond referendum when the cost is spread over an assessed valuation of almost $1 billion than they are over a $500,000 increase in their local village or city services.

For example, $500,000 could buy five snorkel fire engines for local fire departments or pay 50 employees $10,000 salaries.

In Buffalo Grove, where the school will be located, $500,000 is two-thirds of the village budget. Arlington Heights, the largest village in Dist. 214, has a public works budget of $719,000, about 40 percent more than the referendum increase approved by the Dist. 214 board.

TO THE INDIVIDUAL voter, $500,000 is more than he will cumulatively earn after 40 years of work. Ten voter families could buy $50,000 homes for the difference in cost.

The educational advantage of a $10.5 million high school over a $10 million one, is hard to dispute. Local school administrators, board members, and state representatives of the Illinois School Building Commission have determined, after many hours of study and evaluation, that the extra $500,000 is a necessary cushion to protect educational opportunity.

Board members, administrators, and voters could probably support either a $10 million or $10.5 million building program with little thought of the difference in cost.

In this day of tight money, however, a $500,000 difference in the price of education should not pass unnoticed by the voters.

Rock Dance Classes Planned For Adults

The seven week course is open to everyone 16 and over, including non-members. The latest rock dances such as the cold duck, cottage cheese and Tom Jones, will be taught by Grace V. Hansen. Partners are not necessary. For further information, call the YMCA at 296-3376.

Mr. and Mrs. Club 'Mystery Night' Set

Members of the Mr. and Mrs. Club of Beth Tikvah are in the dark concerning plans for Saturday's "Mystery Night," outing being planned by members of the committee and chairman Babe Schwartz and Les Seligman.

Seligman said "if you missed the last mystery bus ride join us for this one. It's a night of surprises."

The Beth Tikvah group is composed of members from Hoffman Estates, Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Niles and other neighboring Northwest communities.

Mrs. Joyce Roteman, membership chairman for the Mr. and Mrs. Club, may be contacted for information about the club or further information concerning Saturday's affair.

The groups last social function, a Scotch Bowl held in the Elk Grove Bowling Lanes was run by Steve and Anne Shere of Hoffman Estates.

A prize for high series was won by Anita and Jack Chimerofsky of Niles, and the high game award was given to Joyce and Jerry Roteman of Hoffman Estates. Marsha and Sheldon Field of Hoffman Estates won the booby prize for low series.

Ponder The Constitution

by ED MURNANE

Members of the Illinois General Assembly apparently have decided now is the time to start thinking about the state's new Constitution, which goes into effect on July 1, only 70 days from now.

When voters in the state gave resounding approval to the new charter on Dec. 14, 1970 — 127 days ago — there were estimates that as many as 2,500 or 3,000 bills would have to be introduced in the General Assembly to implement the Constitution.

The legislators were well aware of that when they began a new legislative session on Jan. 6, 104 days ago.

In fact, in the half-hour before the 77th General Assembly was called to order, the holdover members from the 76th General Assembly voted themselves a liberal pay raise and one of the arguments voiced in favor of the new $17,500 a year salary was the fact that this would be the busiest session in the state's history, due to constitutional implementation, legislative and congressional redistricting and enactment of a record state budget.

Well, the truth of the matter is that Charles Dickens could have had the 77th General Assembly in mind when he wrote "Great Expectations" because that's all the session has had so far.

THE 2,500 OR 3,000 bills estimated for constitutional implementation were expected to be fewer than half the bills introduced during the entire session. Everyday arithmetic says there should be somewhere in the area of 6,000 bills introduced.

But as of April 2, when the two houses of the legislature adjourned for Easter, only 2,246 bills had been introduced, 1,563 in the House of Representatives and 663 in the Senate.

The legislature was back in session last week and the total of bills increased by several hundred but is still far short of the precession estimate.

There is considerable concern over the inaction by the legislators because this week was scheduled to be the final week for introduction of bills. That would have given them slightly more than two months to analyze, discuss and take action on pending legislation prior to the June 30 adjournment date.

Before the legislators returned to Springfield yesterday, it appeared likely that rules would be waived and deadlines extended. That means they will have less time to study legislation and, as a result, their performance is likely to be sloppier.

Fortunately, two Northwest suburban legislators have decided to take some initiative and offer implementation bills. Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington, has already introduced legislation to create a state board of elections, and Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, will enter similar legislation this week to create a state board of education.

Scattered other implementation bills also have been introduced but the pace thus far indicates that June will be a typical closing month for the legislature, with hundreds of bills passed and neither the legislature nor the residents of the state knowing exactly what happened until weeks later.

'Intervention' Is Seminar Topic

"Family crisis intervention" is the main topic today at an all-day seminar at Forest Hospital in Des Plaines.

Police and court officials, marriage counselors, social workers and psychiatrists will all join in the seminar, which will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the psychiatric hospital, located at 555 Wilson Lane.

The event is being sponsored by the hospital's postgraduate center for mental health in cooperation with local police departments and the Illinois Association of Marriage and Family Counselors.

DR. MORTON BARD, professor of psychology at the City University of New York, will deliver the keynote address entitled, "Training Police as Specialists in Family Crisis Intervention."

In addition to Bard's speech, the seminar will feature a psychodrama, in which members of the audience will play the various roles involved in a family crisis.

Parents, Teachers Congress Scheduled

More than 3,000 PTA members are expected to attend the 69th annual convention of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers on April 29, 30 and May 1 at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

The members will be coming from local PTAs, Councils, Districts and Regions and representing a membership of nearly 550,000 persons.

Mrs. Sydney R. Raikes of Chicago, president of the Illinois PTA, will preside throughout the convention and will present the theme, "All Children — Our Now Task."

The delegates will have the opportunity to meet in conference with the officers, chairmen and directors, to deliberate and decide on the programs of study and action for the coming year and to vote on revisions on bylaws.

Also, they will have the opportunity to determine allocation of funds, determine special projects and the legislation platform and choose five of the officers to be elected this year.

Speakers at the convention will include Judge G. Bowdon Hunt, Polk County Juvenile and Domestic Court of Bartow, Fla., and Ila Huff, a teacher, welfare worker and lecturer from Memphis, Tenn.

A Wake- Upper

by Ed Landwehr

I don't know if Landwehr's Home Appliances will be in the position to service a new electronic "stay-awake" alarm or not. It will operate off the steering wheel. A metallic antenna is bonded to the rim and coupled to a touch-sensitive relay switch. Should both hands relax as would be the case with a driver's falling asleep, the horn will blast away, hopefully waking the driver. Special order options are already available for some trucks because truck accidents caused by sleepy drivers are on the rise.

Anyway, you can be sure that the phone number 255-0700 will get you prompt TV, stereo and radio service from a wide-awake TV technician. We're wired up so you'll never find us falling asleep behind your TV set.

We have a wide-awake display of TV's on our floor, too. Stop by at 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, and see them.

Suburb Power Base For GOP?

We didn't fully realize it four years ago when we opposed the entrance of national political parties in local elections, but it apparently was a losing cause.

In yesterday's village elections in the Northwest suburbs, Republican slates of candidates ran in three communities and a Democratic slate was on the ballot in one village. Despite the success or failure of their efforts, it appears certain that the national parties will be directly involved in future local elections.

We didn't like the idea in 1967, when the Palatine Township Republican Organization ran a slate of candidates in the village of Palatine, and we don't like it now.

Many of the arguments raised by the Herald and by others who opposed the national party involvement in 1967 are still true.

In the absence of a reasonable balance between the two national parties, it moves a Republican oriented area perilously close to one-man rule by giving the township committeeman extraordinary power to determine who will hold what local office. Many suburbanites moved from Chicago because of distaste for one-man Democratic rule; they find it equally distasteful under a Republican boss.

Partisan control enables local government decisions to be made with prime consideration for partisan effect. The way is cleared for patronage abuses and appointments may be made with party, not community, welfare in mind.

Too many voters will be tempted to cast ballots from blind loyalty to a national party label; a non-partisan campaign is more likely to result in consideration of candidate qualifications and an intelligent meaningful discussion of pertinent issues.

We think the fears of 1967 were justified.

After the Palatine Republican ticket won a commanding victory in 1967, the party was unopposed in 1969. It is possible that the party was unopposed because it had achieved an outstanding record in two years, but we think the lack of opposition was more the result of the Republican label and the frustration candidates would feel by challenging it.

This year, Republicans had opposition in Palatine but it was not because the party's strength has declined since 1969. The challenge this year was posed by the three candidates who ran on the Republican ticket in 1967 and who were dumped by the party this year.

Hoffman Estates Republicans also ran a slate in 1969 and, as in Palatine, they were easy winners, largely because of the party label.

Our concern with the national party involvement in local elections is not directed at the candidates themselves. In many cases, the candidates have been qualified and we have endorsed those candidates who we felt were the best, regardless of party label.

But we are concerned that local government in the suburbs could become the power base for one party, with the candidates for that party selected by a handful of party leaders.

This is the image the Democratic Party in Cook County has had for years and Republicans have justifiably criticized the Democrats for it. We do not think the Republicans would be wise to adopt an "if you can't beat them, join them" philosophy.

It is unlikely that the Republican Party will quickly forget the taste of victory it has enjoyed in local elections in the past four years and decide not to run in future elections.

But we must remind the party that the image of political bossism has been a millstone around the necks of suburban Democrats for years. The Republican Party would be doing the Democrats a favor, and itself a disservice, by transferring that millstone to its own neck.

Hand On The Vote Faucet

Hubert Humphrey has chided his fellow Democrats for thinking they can defeat President Nixon in 1972 on the issue of the Vietnam war.

The President is in control of the situation. He can pull out 100,000 troops in the middle of one of our speeches. He controls the spigot.

But Nixon will still be vulnerable.

Timely Quotes

"If we had heard that 50,000 people were marching around the headquarters in Hanoi calling for peace, we would think the war was over. And it probably would be." —Former Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

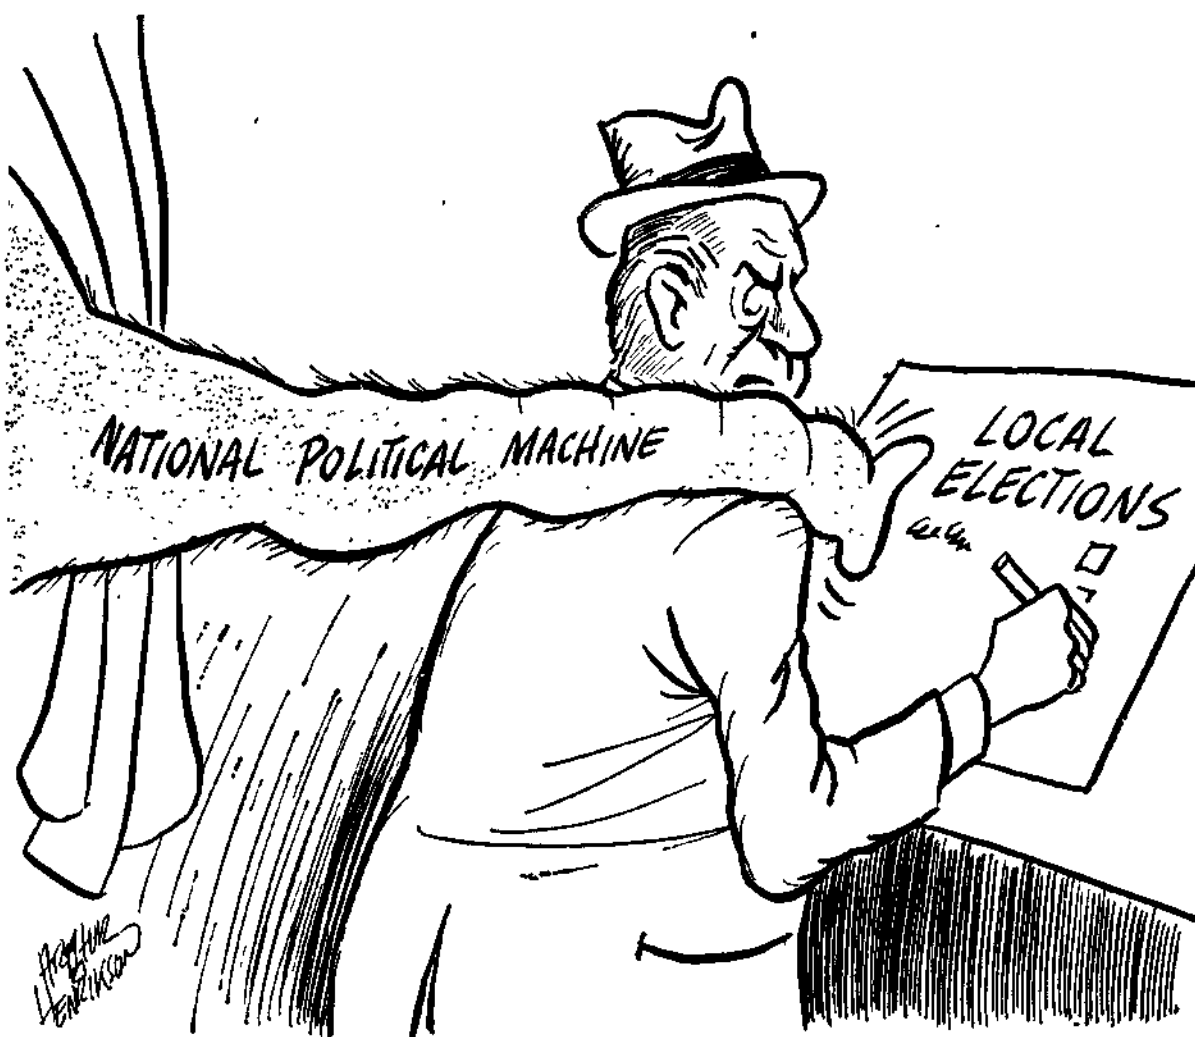

"It's just a lot of talk about taking existing funds and redistributing them in a different manner." —Rep. Bella Abzug of N.Y. on President Nixon's revenue-sharing proposal.

"We feel we're the largest minority in the country after blacks. We have been resolutely ignored in the entire political process." —Franklin E. Kameny, a homosexual, running for the District of Columbia's nonvoting seat in Congress.

"You can call it by any other name you want. You can call it Chanel No. 5 or My Sin, but underneath the perfume it's still welfare." —Robert E. Netzel, Ohio legislator, to a colleague's suggestion that the term "welfare" be done away with.

Drug Abuse Crisis Grows

Metropolitan Editor

When Cook County Coroner Andrew J. Toman last week warned that the drug-abuse problem was approaching "crisis proportions," we all would have done well to shudder a bit.

If anything, his warning was a bit understated in light of the frightening statistics he released to back it up. In his annual report, Toman disclosed that 277 persons died in 1970 from drug overdoses. Compare that with six fatalities in 1968 and you come up with a 4,600 per cent increase during the last three years.

County Line

Equally alarming was the fact these fatalities were no longer confined to the inner-city. Toman stressed the problem had become prevalent throughout the county, thereby suggesting suburban residents might take a long look in their own backyards.

None of us in the Northwest suburbs likes to think of "our own" might be the next drug victim to wind up on a cold slab in the county morgue. Yet, no one would deny it's a very real possibility.

Toman's office deals with the ultimate and most grisly aspect of drug abuse. But, for the most part, drug abuse is a problem of the living. And it has grown to such proportions over the past several years that it threatens to shred the very fiber of society.

Though many of our social institutions are painfully aware of this threat, the courts probably feel it the most.

Not too long ago, I joined a group of suburban editors on a tour of the Criminal Courts Building in Chicago and saw first-hand the extent of Cook County's drug problem. We were permitted to join Circuit Court Judge Fred Suria on the dias as he heard a few of the hundreds of narcotics cases that come before his bench each day.

Standing there, I was stricken with the unhappy realization that drug abuse transcends every segment of society and affects so many lives. The courtroom was flooded with a small sea of humanity — black and white, young and old, rich and poor.

Judge Suria presides over one of two narcotics courts where as many as 400 cases have been heard in one day. The incredible caseload is probably the best measure of the problem we face in Cook County alone.

Yet, the majority of cases — approximately 75 per cent — involves marijuana. It follows that the greatest share of time spent by courts and law-enforcement agencies is devoted to marijuana-related offenses. Meanwhile, the use of far more dangerous drugs continues to grow relatively unchecked.

Judge Suria personally regards legal efforts to control "pot" as a series of mistakes, because the laws are "unenforceable." In fact, the judge contends society could more effectively deal with the problem by legalizing marijuana and restricting its over-the-counter sale to adults.

No longer hamstrung by so many relatively minor offenses, courts and law-enforcement agencies would be free to concentrate efforts on far more serious drug problems, according to Judge Suria.

He may have a good point. Certainly, the way in which we currently are dealing with drug abuse is failing miserably. At least, it seems some set of priorities, focusing first on "hard" drug offenses, needs to be established.

One thing seems clear. If society's preoccupation with enforcing marijuana laws, indeed, is sidetracking efforts to control more serious drug abuse, little will be gained.

And the coroner's report on the number of drug fatalities will continue to grow.

Politicians 'Profiting' From War

Today I would like to use an example which will make the situation in Viet Nam a little easier to understand.

My best friend and I set out on a fishing expedition and after rising early for several days my friend decides to sleep a little longer. However, I decide to catch a few fish for breakfast. After spending several hours I return and to my horror I find a large Rattlesnake which has advanced to within six inches of where my friend is sleeping — hurriedly I take my hunting knife from its sheath and immediately chop an inch from the Rattlesnake's tail. The snake doesn't seem very interested in withdrawing so I cut another inch from its tail. I know that if this snake puts his deadly fangs into my friend he will die in a matter of hours. Without wasting any more time I advance and cut the snake's head off saving the life of my best friend.

Today we hear more and more of our present administration's plan to continue the withdrawal in Viet Nam and also the continued bombing of the Ho Chi Minh Trail when actually the head of the war must be cut immediately and that is the supply line with its head being Haiphong Harbor.

Our military has said time and time again this war could be won in 90 days if they could do it their way — then why in the name of God, family and country doesn't our administration let them win it? Is it that the administration is afraid to cut the snake's head off, namely the supply head, Haiphong Harbor? The present administration shows little concern about our men who are dying as it were in vain — our POW's are suffering ungodly torture — all this because the politicians are running the war and profiting from it. The blood of our husbands, fathers, brothers, uncles, sons is crying from the soil of Southeast Asia — who will help them and who really cares? Our Governor of the State of Illinois has declared this day April 28, 1971, as "Prisoners of War Day in Illinois" and he has admonished each resident of the state "to pray for the men who are held prisoners, and to cooperate in every effort to call attention to their plight." Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie also said only a "massive national protest could gain the attention of their captors and perhaps influence the North Vietnamese in their release."

The FENCE POST Letters to the Editor

lease and in fulfilling their obligations as a signatory of the 1949 Geneva Convention concerning treatment of prisoners and releasing of their names."

Today the American cannot even influence the present administration on this war in Viet Nam, how in the world can we ever begin to influence North Viet Nam?

This day my prayer to almighty God is: "HAVE MERCY ON OUR MEN IN VIET NAM INCLUDING OUR SUFFERING POW'S AND GRANT CLEMENCY TO OUR PRESENT ADMINISTRATION FOR THEY KNOW NOT WHAT THEY DO!"

Goal Reached For Kidney Machine

I would like to take this opportunity to thank one and all for the generous help they have given in saving Betty Crocker coupons for me and my nephew, Richard Smith. We have reached our goal of 600,000 coupons plus $489.90 in cash which will be used to get a kidney machine for Richard. We couldn't have done it without your help.

I have been asked to keep collecting the coupons to help others who have not reached their goal get a machine.

General Mills has extended the date when coupons will still be accepted to Dec. 15, 1971. That is the deadline. General Mills will accept any coupon regardless of the date on them, so if anyone still wants to be of help you can either drop off coupons at the box at the service desk at the Jewel-Osco food store at Oak Leaf Commons Shopping Center, Lee and Oakton, Des Plaines, or send them directly to me at 551 Lincoln, Des Plaines.

On behalf of my nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith and myself, thank you and God bless you all.

Installment Tax Gimmick

See where the august tax power in Cook County (read that the Daley steamroller) are going to convert our present real estate tax payment system from two semi-annual installments to a bi-monthly format — six times a year instead of two.

Going to make it easier for us to pay, they say. Baloney. That "easier" bit just means we won't notice the increases.

The FENCE POST Letters to the Editor

they'll soon slip over on us, since the six chunks will each be smaller than the two we pay now.

Think about this in terms of our monstrous federal income tax withholding system. Instituted by that power-mad chief executive, Franklin D. Roosevelt, the withholding plan was intended to cushion the ballooning taxes needed for World War II.

Instead of being discontinued, it has remained to become the perpetual millstone around our necks. Its effect has been to swell an army of tax-supported payrollers and an ever-increasing tax burden propping up this monstrous bureaucracy in Washington.

You can be sure that if we had to pay our income taxes in one lump sum each April 15 there would be a hue and cry so deafening that it would sweep those tax-and-tax, spend-and-spend office holders out of their jobs almost overnight. For how many of us would put aside the sums that are forcibly withheld from us each payday?

Our present income tax withholding system is just one of many tragic experiments foisted upon the American people by that supreme egotist, FDR. Don't let the small fry imitators down in Chicago slip a similarly structured real estate tax payment system over on you.

Election Retrospect

In the recent Board of Education election in School District 23, I wish to express my appreciation and gratitude to Mr. Alan Akerson, and Miss Betsy Brooker, and Paddock Publications for the time, effort, and endorsement of your publication. It was after numerous hours of interviews and research that the above people made their decision on what people they would endorse, for that interest and public service to District 23. I thank you.

Although I cannot agree with the outcome of our recent election, I cannot disagree with the vote count; apparently Prospect Heights residents felt it was time for a change of a Board Member for whatever reason.

In the future, I wish Mr. Roy Weinberg the best of luck in trying to help solve the many problems facing the Board of Education of Prospect Heights District 23, for this is my children's district, same as every other resident.

At this same time I wish to thank the District 23 Caucus, for their time, effort, and again for the numerous hours of interviews, and work of Caucus Members distributing literature endorsing me for the District 23 Board of Education.

In summary, I wish to thank the 179 people who took the time and effort to cast their votes in my behalf. If I had one wish, looking back on the election with 20/20 hindsight, it would be that people voted out of knowledge of their candidates, and what their platforms were, and not simply, through lack of knowledge putting an X in any box on the top of the ballot, in the middle, or on the bottom.

Value Of Education

Thank you for your assistance in my recent campaign for the District 57 school board.

I refer not only to your endorsement, which made me very proud since I am familiar with your high standards, but also to the many articles you carry about the various phases of that complicated thing we call "education" in today's world.

Of special interest in my "talks" with voters were items such as the IEA convention review of Uniserv, the estimated length of the teacher surplus (1985), and the various articles about funding.

I found during my visits to various parts of the district that most people in the suburbs consider spending for elementary education one of the best buys they can make, even though they may no longer have children in the public schools. Much of the quality of village life — from the behavior of our young people to real estate values — depends on the quality of our schools.

Your articles reflect this strong interest in education and I appreciate the information they provide. I would especially like to compliment Karen Rugen, who has done a fine job of reporting "issues," not personal in-fighting, in recent weeks.

Business Today

by LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) —Despite the recent clamor for more control of firearms, the sale of guns is proving to be one of the nation's more recession-proof businesses.

Total sales are expected to be $650 million this year, up 5 per cent on the heels of an 8 per cent rise in 1970.

Sportsmen and hobbyists will spend nearly all the money. An undetermined proportion of an expected $110 million in pistol and other sales will go to lawmen. There also is a feeling that some newly manufactured pistols are finding their way into the hands of criminals and militant activists.

Manufacturers think that diversion is tiny. They say the big surge in handgun sales is in fancy target models, too bulky to appeal to the criminal or the terrorist. The sale of cheap pistols, the kind that are just good enough to "get their owner a ticket to jail," is expected to fall again this year as it has for the past decade.

According to James F. Thompson, general manager of Leisure Group in Los Angeles, the sporting gun market is increasingly a luxury-hobbyist market. Leisure Group makes Lyman gunsights, ammunition reloading equipment and replicas of old fashioned black powder muzzle loading rifles and fowling pieces.

Winchester, Remington and large retailers of sporting firearms such as Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward agree.

As proof, Thompson said the sale of cheap shotguns and the rimfire .22 caliber rifle, the "boy's rifle" of the days when farmers and villagers did a lot of meat hunting for rabbits and partridges, are going down at the rate of around 10 per cent a year. Sales of the rimfire .22s, which used to quite large, probably will drop to $40 million this year, he said.

But sales of shotguns are expected to be up 7 per cent to $135 million, largely the result of trading up, autoloading, "over and under" models and fancier ventilated rib double barrel guns.

Sales of expensive centerfire rifles will be about even with last year's $80 million, industry leaders believe. They are the firearms used by the real game hunters and target competitors.

Sales of replicas of the old Kentucky flintlock rifle or of late 19th century percussion cap muzzle loaders still are small but are expected to hit $20 million a year by 1975 as more gunsmiths tap the market, said Thompson. Some states give the muzzle loader enthusiasts special hunting areas and special seasons as they do for archers.

As Elusive As Howard Hughes

Unicena May Be Top Clothing Firm

by JOHN F. SIMS

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — Unicena NV LTD, the holding company controlling the world chains of C&A and Ohrbach department stores, may be the biggest clothing retail business around.

Only the 19 directors of Unicena, 11 of whom bear the name Brenninkmeyer, know for sure. Like the elusive Howard Hughes, the Brenninkmeyers don't like to talk about themselves or have their pictures taken.

Mark Klausner, public relations director for Ohrbach's in New York, was asked about Anthony Brenninkmeyer who heads up the Unicena interest in the United States. What could he tell about him? "Not much, really," said Klausner, "except that he's chairman of our board." How could he be reached? "I don't think he can. I think he lives in Manhattan, and I understand he's married with several children. I'd like to be helpful, but he won't authorize any publicity; he's most reluctant about that. I don't even have his biography."

PRIVACY IS important to the Brenninkmeyer family the owners of Unicena and its 175 retail outlets in the United States, Britain, West Germany, Belgium and Holland.

The secrecy has its roots in the 17th-century beginnings of C&A. In the late 1800s, when the first Brenninkmeyer linen traders laid the foundations of the family business, the male members kept their accounts in code and talked to each other in a special slang that customers could not understand. They did not even explain the code to their wives or daughters.

Even now the holding company's name — Unicena — hides its connections with the retail shops: Uni C. En and A. The initials themselves stand for Clements and August, the first two Brenninkmeyer brothers to open a shop in 1841.

Two years ago, when company law threatened to force the British subsidiary C&A Modes to make its accounts public, the Brenninkmeyers converted the company into a partnership. A partnership does not have to disclose its accounts.

THE RESULT of the Brenninkmeyer "privacy" is that any guesses about the company's total wealth and profits remain just that — guesses.

C&A is a family business. And the Brenninkmeyers are the business.

The Unicena regulations are 23 pages of statutes designed to build a juridical bulwark around the family. The four kinds of shares carry various types of rules on ownership, special positions of next-of-kin and age limits. The shares remain at Unicena. Owners can have written confirmation of their ownership but only on condition the letters themselves are not used for trading purposes.

General agreement in business circles is that Rudolf Wilhelm Brenninkmeyer, 37, a doctor of economics, currently heads up the Unicena board. But a Unicena executive commented: "Officially there is no chairman of the board. Nor is there one unofficially."

IN EACH COUNTRY where the business has branches, a member of the ruling family is in charge. In Germany it is Cornelius, 40; in Britain, Karel Ludger, 42; in Belgium Ludwig, 42; in France, Herman, 46, and in the United States, Anthony, 41.

The major decisions in Unicena are taken when the family members gather at a round table in the company's unpretentious offices — crammed between a toy shop and a travel agency — on four floors of a small building at 113 Weesper St., Amsterdam.

The family is staunchly Roman Catholic. Church officials say they never waste their time when they approach the Brenninkmeyers for support of a church project.

It is at Mettingen that the old family house carries the family's coat of arms carved in stone and the motto "Unity makes Strength."

If reticence helps breed unity, the Brenninkmeyers observe their motto daily.

Management Seminar Set

"Effective Communications for Salesmen and Managers" is the topic for the April 27 spring management training seminar at Harper College in Palatine.

Roland Brown, professor in the rhetoric department at the University of Minnesota, will discuss the listening and persuasion elements of communication.

The seminar will be held from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Cost is $35 for the session, which is one in a series offered by Harper office of evening and continuing education.

The seminars are offered to meet the training needs of business and industry as well as government, health and educational organizations.

Brown has led communications conferences throughout the country. His presentation will begin with the assumptions that communications skills are learned and that no one is always successful. Levels of competence will be covered, and both intra and inter-personal communications will be discussed.

Personal Finance

Elimination of nursing home care, as a Medicare benefit, was reported a few weeks ago to be one of the administration's targets in legislative proposals headed for Congress.

It is now denied that there is any intention to get rid of the benefit. A spokesman for the Social Security Administration has told us that "there is definitely no proposal being considered that would eliminate the extended-care benefit."

If it was a trial balloon that went up, when "public health sources" were quoted on the administration's legislative plans, the balloon didn't stay aloft very long after public reaction made itself felt. Whether that was indeed the case isn't now clear, and the water was further muddied by the language used. News reports quoting the "public health sources" said the legislation to be sought would "decline to pay for custodial care in skilled nursing homes."

It has been difficult even for health-care professionals to understand the extended-care benefit. We're told by the SSA that many patients earlier received paid-for nursing home benefits to which they were not entitled, under the law, because "intermediaries" — local administrators of the Medicare program — couldn't tell what was allowed, and what wasn't.

Today patients in extended-care facilities who thought they were covered are discovering that they have to pay the bill — or part of it — as a result of something called "retroactive denial." This is similar to a restaurant cashier telling you, "No, the dinner didn't actually include salad, dessert and coffee, even if the waiter did think so — and I'll have to charge you for them now."

The general public still tends to refer to the extended-care benefit as any care in a nursing home, but the Medicare law defines it sharply and Washington has been increasingly watchful recently, to deny payment where the line is drawn. If there's a Medicare beneficiary in the family, better understand what extended-care benefits do and don't include, to avoid incurring a whopping bill that you thought was covered.

• A patient must first be admitted to an acute-care facility (hospital) for a condition requiring that level of medical care.

• After three days, and within 14 days, the patient may be transferred to a nursing home. Medicare will pay for up to 100 days of care here — but:

• The patient must require "skilled nursing care on a continuing basis."

Note: for the same condition as treated in the hospital. Social Security emphasizes that nursing care does not include "body care" — even though the patient may indeed be incapable of caring for his or her own body needs, such as feeding, dressing, walking or taking medicine on schedule.

This is where the "retroactive denial" comes in. A patient may spend 60 days in a nursing home, on the judgment of need by local staff. On review of the case somewhere up the line, it may be decided that, using the criteria above, the patient was covered for the first five days only. The patient, or family, bears the charges for the remaining 55 days.

Through its administrative machinery, the administration already has cut the extended-care benefit to what amounts to a life-or-death minimum. If there is any thought of eliminating what's left of it, in the interests of economy, either the country is on the verge of bankruptcy or there is some very low-level thinking going on, somewhere.

National Secretaries Week

A Time For Recognition

This week, April 18 to 24, is the week that National Secretaries Association (International) reminds management of the importance of professional secretaries in business, industry, education, government and the professions.

All secretaries are invited to join in this 20th annual observance of Secretaries Week, theme of which is "Better Secretaries Mean Better Business." Today, April 21, has been designated as Secretaries Day.

According to Mrs. Phyllis Bauer, CPS and the Secretaries Association international president, it's not the time for flowers, lunch or an afternoon off, but rather, she said, "recognition for the job we can do, are paid to do and that we have elected as a service career."

The national president added that the association is using this week to suggest ways to increase the productivity of secretaries.

"A GOOD SECRETARY can perform many tasks that the executive may needlessly be doing himself. This frees his time to concentrate on productive and creative problem solving."

NSA has many programs, three of which Mrs. Bauer said are of immediate benefit to management as it seeks qualified secretaries. These programs are:

1. The Certified Professional Secretary

program which expects to have the largest number of candidates in history for the annual two-day examination being administered May 7 and 8.

2. The Future Secretaries Association which assists business educators to provide realistic training for students who plan a secretarial career through FSA chapters in high schools, business schools and colleges.

3. The NSA Research and Education Foundation which has among its projects working with management on a research project to determine exactly what secretarial requirements will be in future years.

She's Sold On Education

by MARY B. GOOD

What would you do if your boss asked you to take dictation on his lap?

Her response to this question and others won Jeanette Krenk of Arlington Heights, the Secretary of the Year (SOTY) award.

SOTY is to secretarydom what Oscar is to the acting profession. Mrs. Krenk earned SOTY in her 350-member Lake Shore Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (NSA).

The tiny, 33-year-old brunette is the right hand "man" to the right hand man to the chancellor of the City Colleges of Chicago.

This engineer's wife went to work as a board of education stenographer out of Kelly High School. Here and there at night Mrs. Krenk has picked up college credits — Northwestern, Bogan, Wilson, loop and southeast city campuses. This is mostly because she is sold on the company product — education. Slowly, Jan said, she'll get her degree.

"I USED TO BE quite shy," she said, "but career experiences have helped to a point where I really have got to like and enjoy people."

Through National Secretaries, Jan Krenk has had a taste of teaching. "Economics of management" was her subject, directed toward girls working on their Certified Professional Secretary (CPS) exam.

Mrs. Krenk has also coordinated a

Future Secretaries of America chapter at Jones Commercial High School and administered scholarship exams to the budding careerists.

When she tells about some of the NSA workshops, the SOTY award winner makes the occupation sound like a healthy shot in the arm. One such session dealt with sensitivity and awareness. "That one brought all the uppity-types squaring down to earth," she said.

Communications exercises and a secretary think-in are two other ideas dreamed up for workshops.

AND THEN THERE was this problem-solving workshop . . . which brings Jan back to the question about dictation on the boss' lap.

"I know my boss would never ask me to do that, but if I had a boss that did," she said, "I would run over to the closest chair and say, 'I'll take it from here.'"

'A Career Not Just A Job'

by DOROTHY OLIVER

There've been some changes in the world of the secretary since Olive Schumacher entered the field 40 years ago. "Our jobs are much more diversified; we're paid better and are better accepted by management in business," she said.

And without his secretary the boss would not be able to do his job, said the 1971 Secretary of the Year for the Park-Plaines Chapter of the National Secretaries Association.

Miss Schumacher, who is executive secretary to C. H. Keene, central division manager of CIBA Pharmaceutical Co., Niles, looks at secretarial work as a career, not "just a job."

"I've been very interested in secretarial work since I was in high school — I always wanted to be one," she said. "I know I'm happy where I am."

AND SHE PROVED her point when she left a meat-packing firm where she had worked for 22 years to take her present position as an executive secretary. In her former job she had risen to a position where only part of her work was secretarial and the rest in other areas. Her decision to change jobs included the desire to be a full time secretary again.

Olive's preparation for her job consisted of two years training in a business college. Today, however, she finds girls are receiving more diversified training in high school and at the junior college level.

"It's no longer just typing and shorthand. Training in data processing, accounting and a little legal knowledge are important. Since I've been in the field, I've had to keep up with new methods and new machines," she said.

A MEMBER OF THE National Secretaries Association since 1960, Miss Schumacher is currently president of Park-Plaines Chapter. "It's not a social organization," she commented. "Our function is to elevate the standards of the secretarial profession through better education and more diversified training for girls."

Listening to a dedicated career secretary like Olive Schumacher you are convinced of the importance of the job. "A secretary should maintain a friendly business relationship with her boss and always have a sense of humor," she advised.

"After you reach the stage of being an executive secretary, you are not just a secretary or just a stenographer. You are part of the team."

Charles H. Keene of CIBA Pharmaceuticals in Niles.

Mrs. Kitto presented two other awards: one to the Retired Member of the Year, Mrs. Willard Balhatchet of Arlington Heights, formerly with Ekco Products, Inc. of Wheeling. The second honor was awarded to the charter member who had attended all 12 Executive Nights, Miss Virginia Darlington, secretary to James M. Buck, director of Insurance Company of North America, Chicago.

MRS. SHERELY ANDERSON of Des Plaines announced the Boss of the Year, Gordon Terry, president of Rothery Storage & Van Co., Elk Grove Village. He was presented with the traveling loving cup and BOTY Certificate by his secretary, Mrs. Hertel, who also placed the traditional crown on his head.

The evening concluded with a presentation by The Coachlighters, the Arlington Heights Chapter, S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A.

Secretaries residing or employed in northwest Chicago, Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine and Barrington are invited to join the Park-Plaines Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International).

TITLE WINNING SECRETARY. Mrs. Jeanette Krenk, 33, of Arlington Heights is the Secretary of the Year in her Lake Shore chapter of National Secretaries Association.

Pick Your Red Letter Day

by KAY MARSH

My favorite present-of-the-year is a cake-baking pan shaped like the state of Texas. I'll use it at least twice a year: to treat friends on March 2, Texas Independence Day and San Jacinto Day, April 21, commemorating the 1836 battle in which Texas won its independence from Mexico.

A career girl from Kentucky makes May 1 her day to invite friends over to watch the Kentucky Derby on television. Her party plan includes mint juleps, southern fried chicken and other plantation delicacies, along with racing silks and other track mementos that recall the "sport of kings."

A talented Hoosier hostess and her husband will have their annual Indianapolis 500 Brunch this year on May 29, complete with racing car motifs and even a modest betting pool to increase interest in what's going on at the Speedway.

But what if you're not from Texas, Kentucky or Indiana? Well, you Wisconsinites might have a Cheese Tasting Party on May 29 to celebrate your state's Admission Day. And you really don't have to be from Hawaii to have a luau on Lei Day, May 1.

IN SHORT, IT'S FUN to find your own red letter day to celebrate — one that concerns your state, your hobby, your career or simply an historical date or even a promotional event that you find interesting or amusing.

You'll find hundreds listed in Chase's "Calendar of Annual Events" (Special Days, Weeks and Months in 1971), a publication that's probably available at the reference desk of your library. It's fun to read, with all its historical and miscellaneous information. And it's a great reference source if you're looking for some special event to brighten up your entertaining, build a woman's club program or youth activity around, or just to add a little fun and interesting table talk to life at home.

Some events chase lists for May are very brief. Better synchronize your watches if you plan to do anything about the "Press Agents Shining Hour," which recognizes the contribution of publicists to American life through their promotion of special events for business and industry. This momentous event takes place May 5 from 3:15 to 4:15 p.m.

ON THE OTHER HAND, you can bake a sweet potato pie any handy day between May 1 and Sept. 30 in honor of something called "Yams for Summer-time Easy Livin'."

Space doesn't permit listing all the special months you might celebrate in May such as National Tavern, Car Care, Radio, Senior Citizens and International Air Travel. My own favorite is International Play-Your-Own-Harpichord Month.

When you're not playing the harpichord (your own or anybody else's), remember Be Kind to Animals Week (May 2-8) and International Pickle Week (May 2-8), designed to recognize "the world's most humorous vegetable." And save plenty of time for May 9-15. That's the special week for Let's Go Fishing (which starts a day earlier, on May 8) as well as Police, National Public Works and National Hospital. But you may want to ignore National Insectocutor Week, also May 9-15, which promotes the use "of insectocutors for the control of flying insects by means of electricity."

As to special days, you're probably already making plans for Mother's Day, May 9. But why not ask his mother to dinner on Mother-In-Law Day, May 2? Or write somebody on May 6, marking the 1840th birthday of the first postage stamp? Or give your May 21 birthday boy an airplane party in honor of Lindbergh's 1927 flight?

AS YOU SEE, the possibilities are endless. But there's one holiday I refuse to celebrate: Japan's Children's Day on May 5. That's because every day seems to be Children's Day with me.

How about a NO-Children's Day for all us Good Old Moms? If a whole day is too much, perhaps we can send the kids as special guests to the "Press Agents Shining Hour," which also falls on May 5. Then I'll bet those press agents will settle next year for a 15-minute coffee break.

Or maybe just one golden moment of silence.

Wanted: Panty Hose That Don't Sag, Develop Holes

by MARGUERITE DAVIS

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sagging panty hose that wrinkle around the ankles and develop holes or runs are breaking the budgets and morale of millions of American girls.

Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., says they are entitled to better complaints.

"The anguish is real, but solutions seem to be elusive," she said in a House speech. "Many women understandably believe the government should be doing more — or at least doing something — about it."

Manufacturers generally guarantee the product against runs, and it is true that few runs appear. But women who wear panty hose say that holes are fully as unsightly as runs, if not more so.

At $3.50 a pair, a woman wrote Mrs. Sullivan from Oakland, Calif., panty hose are the single most expensive article in her annual clothing budget.

"Do the words constitute misleading advertising if the stockings 'guaranteed not to run' go into holes?" she asked.

She said the reply apparently amounted to, "a 'hole' is not necessarily a 'run' or vice versa," so there appeared to be no violation of the fair packaging law.

Next she appealed to the National Science Foundation, asking that a study of panty hose be included among NSF's research projects. She said success in this endeavor would save money for American women and permit them to be chic when wearing panty hose.

"THE NSF HAS NOT considered this matter one of the most serious confronting the scientific community," she reported. "But perhaps they have not been hearing from or listening to the right scientists. I am sure there are many women scientists who would consider this indeed a serious problem — those who wear panty hose."

Mrs. Sullivan acknowledged a suit against the manufacturers would require proof of a deliberate conspiracy by a group of firms to keep stronger materials off the market. She recommended that her irate correspondents urge manufacturers to finance research on the problem.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: My kitchen linoleum is so old it should have been thrown out long ago. Luckily, I saved a hint sent in by a reader some time ago. Though some of the instructions are highly unorthodox, I had nothing to lose. We stripped the floor completely of every bit of wax, then doing a small area at a time, applied a coat of paste wax and buffed it within 10 minutes. This was followed by a coat of floor wax that is considered so tough it's detergent-resistant. Let that dry for about four hours, then put on another very thin coat. This was followed by a thin coat the second day, and one more thin coat the third day.

It's been a whole year now and the floor still looks good. During the year the floor was washed with a gentle detergent solution, but not often. Spills were wiped up immediately with a wet sponge. When an experiment like this works on a floor that was going to be replaced, it's certainly a plus and the work involved seemed almost minimal, considering the results. —Mrs. Robert S.

Dear Dorothy: We keep a small cassette tape recorder set up in the dining room and some of the family conversations, especially with the 3-year-old, are gems. It is so much more delightful when they don't realize they're being taped. —Maggie.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Their Lucky Number Is 13

Thirteen is their lucky number so Martha Ann McCormick and Robert Allan Wright chose March 13 for their wedding day. The date also marked the 21-year anniversary of the day they met.

Martha is the daughter of the Thomas D. McCormicks, 802 S. We-GO Trail, Mount Prospect, and Robert is the son of Mrs. Frances Wright of Winfield, Ill. The newlyweds are presently residing in Winfield awaiting the groom's naval orders for transfer in June. A graduate of Wheaton North High School, Robert is an airman in the Navy, and his bride, a graduate of Forest View High School, is attending the College of DuPage.

The couple's wedding took place at 5 p.m. in St. Paul Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect, with Pastor Clifford Kaufman officiating. Spiral candelabras decorated each side of the altar for the double ring service and floral decorations were white roses with lavender accents. Greens and white satin bows marked the pews.

FOR HER MARRIAGE Martha chose a white satin gown with pearl-embroidered Venice lace. The Empire gown featured a high neckline and long, bishop sleeves of silk organza trimmed in the Venice lace and an A-line skirt with lace train. Her headpiece was a Juliet cap of lace and pearls; it held a cathedral-length veil. A cascade of white roses, stephanotis and a white orchid completed her bridal ensemble.

Mr. McCormick gave his daughter in marriage

Bonnie Wright, sister of the groom, was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Peggy Overton of Winfield, Barbara Schwabe of Louisville and Kristen Berg of Lansing, Mich., cousins of the bride. Their Empire gowns were fashioned with floor-length skirts and long sleeves and were of pale lavender brocade trimmed with deep purple braid. Their headpieces were in floral petal design and they carried nosegays of Elezance carnations, pink roses, violets,

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Wright

white daisies, wax flowers and baby's breath.

THE 4-YEAR-OLD flower girl, Kim Powers of Winfield, was dressed similarly to the maids and she carried a basket of the same flowers. Jamie Brandt of Mount Prospect was ring bearer.

The groom's brother David of Carol Stream was best man, and another brother, Buddy Wright of Winfield, the bride's brother Mark McCormick of Mount Prospect and Steve Foster of Wheaton were ushers.

The reception for 200 guests was held in the Butler Building in Chicago where Mrs. McCormick received in a floor-length gown of pink chiffon and a corsage of rhubarb lilies. Mrs. Wright chose a floor-length gown of blue antique satin and corsage of white phalaenopsis with stephanotis.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright honeymooned in Acapulco for two weeks.

Tops Doyle's-Striking In Classic Playoff

Lattof Chevrolet Is Women's Champion!

Sportsman's Notebook

by Bob Hobbs

ONLY THREE YEARS AGO, fishermen were heading out into Lake Michigan on no particular course except "trotting at no special speed and fishing, without much regard for depth or temperature, and catching coho salmon. Which are a few of the reasons why you have to classify the coho as one whole of a sports fish.

A few more reasons are that he is dependable in his feeding and spawning habits; he reproduces with fury and passion, and he is none too bright.

But as time progressed, we learned a lot about this fish and his chinook cousin, and while this column does not come to you with a money-back guarantee, I would venture to say that an attentive angler can almost guarantee himself success.

First of all, the coho is a deeply devoted school fish. Any coho you take almost certainly came out of a pack of fish that were pretty much carbon copies of each other. To answer the question before you ask it: the reason you may have caught one fish in a location and no more doesn't mean there wasn't a school. It means that either the school moved on you, or you didn't hit the right spot when you went back for another run. (That's what fish marker buoys are for.)

The nearly exclusive food supply for both coho and chinook salmon in Lake Michigan is the alewife, or shad, same thing. And they don't bother the ones you see floundering on the surface. They want their dinner swimming with vigor and health below the surface. Don't disregard the areas of the lake where you see numbers of alewife wriggling on the surface, however. This generally indicates the presence of a school of alewife below and, therefore, the good possibility of a school of coho below them.

Remember, too, that the coho, as well as the chinook, and all the trout family, are "up" feeders. They swim, when feeding, in a kind of "poised" position on an angle with their tail lower than their head so they can see up. They will never, or hardly ever, find a bait or lure that is below them, because they aren't looking down. That's also why you can't catch a coho from the shoreline by letting your bait sink and lie on the bottom. It must be above him, because he can't look down.

And they are most active, or comfortable, in water that is in the mid 50's, preferably 54 degrees to 57 degrees.

And there are almost no other variables to control the habits of the coho, although at times it seems that everything affects him. Wind in the evening can make fishing dreadful only a day after it has been beautiful. But still, the standards apply, because the wind has purely moved the surface water of the lake, stirred it, and changed all your temperature locations. Westerly winds, for example, blow the warmer shoreline and shallow water out into the deeper part of the lake -- and the fish go with it.

For consistent success on the big lake, you're going to need, in addition to a big, safe, fast boat, a temperature gauge that can make readings at depths to 100 feet. Next you need a good, reliable fish locator sonar so you can accurately read the depths you're fishing. Besides showing you the depths, of course, the better sonars also show you fish as you pass over them.

The value of the depth sounder can't be over-stated. Without it, you are fishing blindly. What's more, without one you can't take advantage of good information that you will pick up information like this: Off Waukegan, the fish are swimming at depths ranging between 3 feet and 18 feet, depending on tempera-

It was only fitting for the playoff race in the Padlock Women's Classic Traveling League to conclude in a photo finish.

After all, Doyle's Striking Lanes posted a 15-length victory in the first round of play while Lattof Chevrolet romped to an eight-point spread in the second half.

And now, the teams engaged in a head-to-head collision course with the overall championship trophy waiting to be claimed at the finish line of a six-game playoff derby.

The two-night suspense boiled down to the final contest as Lattof protected a slim 3-2 edge in games upon entering the climax of the eight-month campaign.

And after the final-game totals were calculated, re-figured and perhaps double and triple checked, Lattof Chevrolet emerged as the 1970-71 Paddock Classic League Champion by a mere eight-pin margin!

The slim difference was all that prevented runner-up Doyle's from forcing a sudden-death one-game shootout since it would have evened the score at three games apiece.

But Lattof, on the strength of Lorrie Koch's pace-setting clutch 200 game in the finale, settled the issue in regulation play.

It marked a sweep by Lattof on their home lanes at Thunderbird and capped a Herculean effort by the quintet since they trailed two games to one after Saturday night's action on Doyle's home grounds at Striking Lanes.

Doyle's, sparked by Bette Laurance's 577 series in the opening night dramatics, appeared headed for the crown as Lattof spluttered to sub-par totals in both the first and last games.

Bette fired a sizzling 212 in the opener and got ample support from teammates Judy Croston (189), Lu Schoenberger (182), Alice Nichols (171) and Eunice Whitmore (154) to hang a 908-829 defeat on Lattof.

In the middle contest, however, Lattof rallied behind Lorrie's 220, Martis Pleickhardt's 177, Rose Kraft's 162, Isobel Kosi's 152 and Donna Reinhardt's 151 to even the series, 862-795.

Doyle's retired with a one-game edge, though, as consistent high scores produced a 918 total as compared to Lattof's 851.

Sunday was a new day and Lattof turned over a new leaf. Lorrie opened with a 232 en route to the playoff's high series of 608 to deadlock the derby at two games apiece.

The magic didn't stop for Lattof as the quintet fired a 918 middle game to offset Judy's 209 for Doyle's, thus swaying the advantage to Lattof's side, 3-2, with one game remaining.

Neither team was able to muster a big total in the finale, so the outcome remained in doubt down to the wire. A recap showed Lorrie's 200 game as the difference, 851-843.

It will be next September before the scratch league rejoins for their 15th season of champion-style bowling.

That gives Lattof five full months to enjoy the trophy they climactically earned.

Lyne Selected As Viator Coach

James B. Lyne, a nine-year veteran head football coach at Hales Franciscan High School in the Catholic League, will assume the reins of the St. Viator varsity gridders, beginning immediately.

Athletic Director Reverend Patrick Cahill made the announcement yesterday following a review of some 25 applications for the position since the departure of former head coach Joe Gliw to Hersey.

Lyne graduated from Notre Dame University in 1956 with a B.S. in Physical Education and received his Master's Degree at Pennsylvania State University before joining the U.S. Marine Corps in 1957.

After a five-year stint in the Corps and an additional five year term with a Chicago Reserve Unit, Lyne left the service with a rank of Major.

He assumed the head coaching position at Hales in 1962 and built, from scratch, a team that gained the semifinals in Soldier Field in 1969 after an impressive 7-2-1 season record.

"Jim was very highly recommended to us by everyone in football," Rev. Cahill said. "We are very happy to have him with us."

Lyne built his Hales teams from an entirely black student body and said that along with a successful season, one of his primary goals was to get his kids interested in a college education.

At St. Viator, his task will be to uphold a winning tradition that has characterized all Lion teams.

—To have your scores in the sports scoreboard the next morning, coaches should call the Herald sports department before 7:30 each evening, Monday through Thursday. This applies only to league track, tennis and golf meets.

THE WORD AT THIRD is "out" as Palatine's John Berley applies the tag to Jim Kass of Wheeling to shut off a third inning rally by the visiting Wildcats. Kass had stolen second moments earlier. # The Racing Scene

by John F. Klusmann

POINTMENOW CAME blasting down the stretch last Saturday at odds of better than 9-1 and the Chicago Thoroughbred racing season was off to a flying start at Arlington Park. The large crowd of 27,375, thoroughly enjoying the bright sunshine, poured $2,201,786 into the mutual machines.

Later in the afternoon, Richard Hazelton, perennially the leading trainer here, sent out the powerful entry of Moon-splash and Honest Effort in the featured Balmoral Inaugural Handicap, and they finished first and second. Hazelton will probably come right back with that dynamic duo in this Saturday's one mile $15,000 Crete Handicap.

Loco Kid and Fleet Wing, also Hazelton charges, were scratched from the Inaugural but are reported ready for the Crete. It could turn out to be the strongest four-horse entry ever witnessed, with Loco Kid insuring a fast pace, while Moon-splash, Honest Effort and Fleet Wing come charging past everyone in the stretch.

Trainer Robert Bailla is preparing Elegant Heir for the Crete. For the past two seasons the horse has been one of the gamest, most consistent runners ever to answer the call at Arlington; however, he will really need a maximum effort Saturday to defeat that group of Hazelton speed demons.

Back East last weekend, Good Behavior won the Wood Memorial at Aqueduct to place the outcome of the 1971 Kentucky Derby deeper in doubt. In his wake were the top two Derby contenders, Eastern Fleet and Jim French. Executioner, who has not been nominated to the Derby, finished third in the Wood.

As time draws near to the first Saturday in May, I will try to keep you posted on some of the events leading to the first leg of the Triple Crown. Meanwhile, it's back to Arlington Park and:

Horses to Watch
Geelong — Six-year-old gelding has speed. Ready for the big run in a $4000 claiming sprint.

Super Change — Fast out of the gate and capable of lasting through the stretch. Ran a nice race last week to finish third. With a favorable post position will be right there next time.

Tasucus — Will come up out of the mile chute and go all the way soon. Runs for a low claiming price but out-classes most other $2500 animals.

War Darter — Very slow starter but comes roaring through the home lane. Made up acres of ground in last start. He's prepared for the score.

Classy Admiral — Bishop charge will run past other $9000 claimers in his next few races. Should win at nice odds.

Nervous George — Oldtimer is being primed for the longshot hit. May need another race but could be there at any time.

Jester D D — High-flying three-year-old can really pour on the coals. Belongs in $6000 claiming class.

Improve Your Racing Knowledge
Information concerning the horses currently receiving treatment from the veterinarians is regarded as a deep, dark secret at most race tracks. No wagering establishments publish a list of sore or injured animals, but they take your money when you bet on one.

The player must learn to distinguish the signs. Watch your horses in the paddock and post parade. When walking, do they nod their heads excessively when pressure is placed on a sore limb? When standing, do they shift their weight to one side to avoid placing tension on another aching leg?

A horse going postward in bandages is the most obvious sign of soreness. Bandages on the front legs are worse than in the back. Bandages on all four legs mean the end of your hard-earned cash if you bet on that animal. Keep your own performance record of horses who run with wrapped legs, they usually finish among the also-rans.

Prospect Varsity, Soph

With juniors Curt Manning and Scott Januzik pacing the field with identical 39's, the Prospect varsity golf team rang up a 159-172 triumph over conference rival Elk Grove.

Knights John von Berg, Art Hagg and Tim Carson carded 40, 41 and 42 to contribute toward's Prospect's impressive sub-160 total.

Sportsman's Notebook

by Bob Holiday

ture, in water that is between 25 and 30 feet deep.

Lure color is a changing fascination for fishermen, but, again, the coho is proving to be a very dependable fish. He likes orange. And if it's fluorescent or "hot" orange, he likes it better. He also likes silver in both metal and plastic and he won't object too much if it's tinged with blue.

This week, and probably for the next two weeks, use a Tadpole, or a Spoon-plug, a Rebel or a Rapala. The first two are available in orange, or you can paint them yourself. The Rebel and the Rapala are best in silver and silver-blue. These you'll have to weight for the next couple of weeks to get them deep enough.

The best alternative to weighting these, or any other lure, is the down-rigger, which is a heavy line with a cannon-ball weight of six or eight pounds that has a line-holder attached. Your line is carried down, to whatever depth you want to cover, in a release gimmick. When a fish takes the lure, the line from your rod releases from the down line and you play the fish without weight ahead of him. These outfits are expensive, but for the serious Lake Michigan fishermen, they are an absolute necessity.

The biggest fish produced so far this year is a 21 pound chinook salmon taken from the electric company warm water pool just north of Waukegan. But day by day the catches from the piers all along the lakefront are growing. Children and adults alike are taking good sized coho right off the shoreline, dangling a big chunk of mitecrawler under a bobber.

For those who prefer to get the guidance of an expert their first time out, there are plenty of charter boats available. In Chicago, call 425-7234. Northern suburbs and the Waukegan area, call 425-FISH. Prices range from $10 per person, half-day, and up. Boat sizes run all the way from 19 footers to houseboats. Charter captains furnish all the equipment and even clean the fish for you.

But most of all, they'll also teach you some things perhaps you didn't know before about salmon.

Palatine's Netmen Tip Conant, 3-2

Two improved tennis squads that expect to make their presence felt in the Mid-Suburban League this spring opened the league season against one another, with host Palatine edging past Conant, 3-2.

It was a snappy affair, with none of the matches extending beyond two sets. Palatine earned the victory with superior doubles play and by winning second singles just as convincingly.

Conant's points came in No. 1 singles, with Marty Oliff downing Kevin McNamara, 6-4, 6-2, and in third singles, with Buddy Edmondson defeating Steve Snyder, 6-3, 6-2.

Matt Borman won No. 2 singles for Palatine with a 6-2, 6-1 breeze over John Endrikat.

The Pirates' No. 1 doubles unit of Scott Dawson and Paul Clapper put away Dave Westgor and Jim Michaels, 6-2, 6-2 and the second doubles duo of Rich Miller and Fred Hoegler polished off the Cougars' Roger Tavenner and Ray Wolf-el, 6-2, 6-1.

Conant's frosh-soph team gained a split for the day with a 3-2 victory.

At Rolling Meadows

The Sapphires rolled a 2036 series and the Onyx a 724 game for best marks in the Thursday Eye Openers Bowling League at Rolling Meadows. Top bowlers were Angie Pitcher with 539-206, Pam Snell with 514-209, Sophie Topp with 487-201, Yvonne Hoover with 468-204, Irma Resler with 483-182, Scotty Cole with 185, Ginnie Smith with 183 and Norine Butz with 181. Grace Lisching received an achievement patch for converting the 5-8-10 split.

Boat And Sports Show At Randhurst

"Summer's Super Sports" . . . from boating, swimming and waterskiing to fishing and camping . . . will be previewed at the Randhurst Boat and Sports Show, Wednesday, April 21, through Sunday, April 25, in the Randhurst Mall.

A 20 ft. by 32 ft. Cavalcade swimming pool for backyard fun is being set up in the mall to demonstrate the newest construction and installation features of family pools, according to Margaret Irwin, promotion coordinator at Randhurst.

"This is a new highlight of our show," Mrs. Irwin said. "We hope it will give interested families a precise idea of the costs, limitations and advantages of family pools."

"Fans of all outdoor sports can get a foretaste of summer recreation at this show, as well as obtaining information about the latest equipment," Mrs. Irwin added.

The Sports Chalet of Rolling Meadows and Randhurst will display dozens of boats, ranging from inexpensive "board" sailboats to sleek "tunnel-hull" racing boats.

"These small Aqua Cats and Sunfish may be the hits of our exhibit," one Sports Chalet spokesman commented.

"The Aqua Cats are 12-foot catamaran sailboats whose pontoon hulls make them doubly safe and maneuverable; and Sunfish are not only inexpensive . . . they're fast, too, because of their shallow depth."

A new part of the Sports Chalet's exhibit will be the introduction of the Arena Craft line of inboard-outboard stern-drive boats in the economy class.

"A full line of Winner boats (from 14 to 23 feet long), Johnson tents, Evinrude motors, dinghies, and all-terrain Max vehicles will also be shown," the Sports Chalet spokesman promised.

"An interesting part of our exhibit will be the Evinrude Theatre, where films of recent boat races will be shown. Also, we will display a tunnel-hull racer to explain the latest design features of these racing boats."

On Thursday and Friday evenings, a demonstration of flycasting techniques will be presented for fishermen from 7:30 until 9:30 p.m.

Ralph Brown, former National Fly-Casting Champion, will also advise individuals about their flycasting techniques after his own demonstrations, and will show a film on fishing.

One of Montgomery Ward's most popular displays is certain to be the new umbrella tent which has largely supplanted the pup tent as a favorite of children.

"The children really flip over this one," a Ward's spokesman commented. "It's a small tent, basically, but they have plenty of headroom and don't feel crowded."

The umbrella tent and others which Ward's will show have a new "self-repairing" zipper flap which only needs to be re-zipped if the nylon track is disengaged.

In addition to its tents, Montgomery Ward is showing its new Sea King fiberglass runabout, a convertible 14-foot semi-V-hulled boat with 35 HP motor; two Western Field capers which can sleep 6 adults on slide-out beds; and a screen house (12 ft. by 10 ft. 6 in.) with new easy-installation features.

Fremd Netmen Win First

Fremd's Rich Hume finally won a nip-and-tuck match at No. 2 singles for both his first win of the year and the deciding point in the Vikings' first victory, 3-2 over visiting Glenbard North in a Mid-Suburban League tennis opener.

Hume's contest against Finn Torgesen was the only three-setter of the day and thus was the last to finish and the one that had the meet riding on its outcome. It finally came out in Fremd's favor, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4 to give the winners a 1-3 record.

The Vikings' other two points came on much easier victories. Second doubles team Chip Jayne and Fred Chin did not allow a point against them, rolling over Steve Crabtree and George Coulomb 6-0, 6-0.

The other point for Fremd was Larry

"The Randhurst Boat and Sports Show is for the whole family," Mrs. Irwin concluded. "Instead of informing only the outdoorsman a summer sports show can now appeal to women and children as well."

The Randhurst Boat and Sports Show will be open from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. on weekdays, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday. There is no admission charge.

Bank Aids Olympics

NEW YORK (UPI) — A unique program to help raise funds for the U.S. Olympic Committee through the sale of its travelers' checks is being conducted by the Bank of America.

Announcing a $130,000 contribution to the USOC to help develop, train and select athletes for the 1972 games in Germany and Japan, the bank also made a commitment to donate part of the earnings it receives on the sale of the checks during the next 18 months.

One Win In Three Meets For Harper

Harper College's tennis team can chalk up its trip to experience.

The Hawks took on three different opponents in two days and emerged the victors once against some pretty tough teams last week.

The first stop was at Eastern Illinois University where the Hawks were stopped, 7-2. Then they had a double dual at Kaskaskia and the hosts defeated them, 6-3, but they nipped visiting Forest Park of St. Louis, 5-3.

The holiday trip left the Hawks of Coach Ray Kearns with a 3-3 overall record. However, they were playing without one of their top netmen — Bill Hitzeman. The locals will be aiming for their first Skyway Conference meet of the season when they go to Triton College on Thursday. They'll follow that meet with a visit to Notre Dame on Saturday against the Irish freshmen.

Deer Hunting Study

SASKATOON, Saskatchewan (UPI) — A study of deer hunting and its importance to the economy is under way at the University of Saskatchewan. It is aimed at finding regional differences in deer productivity, the demand for deer hunting and the income from it.

Prof. John McConnell, who is conducting the study, said the sale of deer hunting licenses rose from 13,000 in 1950 to 77,000 in 1968, and that 41,000 deer were harvested in 1968.

Wheeling Lands Fourth In Golf Invitational

Wheeling's surging golf team rode a balanced scoring attack paced by Bob Winters to a fourth place finish in the New Trier East invitational golf meet at the Winnetka park district course Saturday.

New Trier's strong East and West entries and a Champaign Central unit were the only members of the 15-team field coming in ahead of the Wildcats. Central also topped Wheeling in their own invite meet a week earlier.

The Cowboys, headed up by veteran medalist Sandy MacFarland, were 11-stroke winners with a 384 composite. All five scores registered by each team counted in the meet.

Harper had four singles victories against Forest Park. Seiler opened things up with an easy 10-4 win over Bill Barker. O'Keefe, the only triple winner in the two days for Harper, took Jim Hartman, 10-1; John Meyn stopped Evan Sutton, 10-4; and Cohen beat Perry Domes, 10-5.

Again it was the O'Keefe-Cohen combination accounting for the decisive victory in doubles play with a 10-3 decision over the team of Sutton and Ed Burgess, pick up six point summary

Champaign Central finished at 395 the Indians at 405 and Wheeling at 413. Deerfield, Glenbrook South, Joliet Catholic and Naperville all finished one count behind the 'Cats in a tie for fifth.

Others in the order they placed were Highland Park, Waukegan, Rockford Guilford, Maine South, Champaign Centennial, Peoria Bergan and Kankakee Eastridge.

Winters carded a 77 to tie for fourth four strokes off MacFarland's winning clip. A trio of 'Cats, Terry Nield, Jack Kennedy and Chris Krolack added 83 to the Wheeling cause and soph Dave Mehlig rounded out scoring at 87.

Schaumburg Rolls Past Fenton, 16-4

Schaumburg's rebellious young baseball team combined solid pitching with a 13-hit offensive rampage to dump Fenton 16-4 on the Bisons' home diamond Friday.

Jeff Larson and Randy Anderson spearheaded the Saxon uprising, which evened up the team's slate at 1-1 after barely being nudged out by St. Viator in their opener earlier in the week.

Larson banged out a trio of hits, driving in five runs including one during a five-run outburst that had the hosts on the ropes from the first inning on.

Meanwhile, Anderson, one of the sophomores in coach Roy Haseup's starting lineup, fired a two-hitter at the enemy. He shook off a three-earned-run Fenton rally in the fourth and continued on a no-hitter all the way into the sixth frame.

Anderson was finally tapped for a base hit in the sixth and he also yielded a triple in the seventh which blossomed into the final Bison score. But his control stayed with him all the way, allowing only a pair of walks to go with three strikeouts for the game.

Schaumburg's first three scoring rallies all bore fruit after two were out. In the first the fireworks didn't even start until two were away. Then Dave Marrigan walked, John Gimmier singled and John Blasco blasted one down the power alley in left that went for a triple, but his team on the scoreboard, 2-0.

Larson singled Blasco in. Ken Gast followed suit with a base hit and soph Rich Kuchnia rounded things out with a two-base rap sending both runners in.

In the fourth with two outs and Abraham on via an error and Gimmier on with a free pass, Blasco reached on a miscue sending in one. Larson came up with his second hit to drive across another pair.

And in the sixth there were two out again when Larson stroled to the plate following free passes to Abraham and Gimmier. Another single by the first sacker made it a 10-3 ballgame.

Just about everyone got in the act during a six-run Saxon stampede in the seventh. Marty Hjerstedt singled in two runs, Merrigan doubled in another pair and Tim Tomljanovich knocked in the final two with another one-base rap.

Any Additions Or Corrections?

Area track and field coaches should call the Herald sports department after 1 p.m. Monday through Thursday with additions or corrections to the honor roll or contact the sportswriters assigned to the school involved. The area track and field honor roll will run each Wednesday.

High schools covered in the Cook County editions of the Herald are Fremd, Forest View, Prospect, Hersey, Wheeling, Arlington, St. Viator, Palatine, Conant, Schaumburg, Elk Grove, Maine West, Notre Dame, and Maine East and Maine North.

St. Viator Makes Cards 33rd Victim

St. Viator made their 33rd straight golf victory a nail-biter Monday as visiting Arlington scared the Lions before succumbing, 157-158.

The non-conference match was a classical duel between two of the area's premier linksmen — Chris Marszalek of Arlington and Terry McDonald of St. Viator.

Both carded identical 37's over the par 36 nine-hole course at Rob Roy to share medalist honors. Lion Larry Wittek and Card Gordy Kaser kept things even as each posted 39's.

Arlington assumed a one-stroke advantage when Bill Wold came in with a 39 while St. Viator's Dick Evans recorded a 40, but Lion Frank Fenton shot a 41 while Arlington's John Van Veen posted a 43.

Mike Locascio was Viator's fifth man with a 43 as was Mike Rossi of Arlington with a 44.

On the frosh-soph level, Lion freshman Ray Carroll took medalist honors by firing a 39 en route to St. Viator's 175-181 triumph. Freshman Steve Loughman paced the Cards with a 43.

St. Viator Wins

St. Viator's varsity Lions pushed their Suburban Catholic record to 5-1 Monday afternoon with a victory over Marist. Kenny Martin went the distance on the mound. See details and box score in Thursday sports.

KORVETTES COMES TO ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

Shoppers' Paradise Opening Day Ceremonies April 22

A new adventure in shopping, a new look in Korvettes retailing, and a new shopping center complex will be introduced and launched here in grand opening ceremonies when Korvettes officially opens its new store at 9:45 a.m. Thursday in Arlington Heights at Rand and Arlington Heights Roads.

The community is invited to attend and participate together with various village officials, civic leaders and community dignitaries of the area. This is the 6th Chicago area store - the 49th in the country wide chain - at 10 Rand Road in this booming northwest community. A press preview yesterday preceded the public opening.

In celebration of the new store opening, a special sale will be held in all Chicago area stores.

According to Leonard Blackman, president of the company, this one level store is a new look for Korvettes and represents the most modern and advanced thinking in today's store design layout, merchandising philosophy and customer services and conveniences. Each department will operate like an individually designed boutique shop with its own decor.

Leonard Blackman President

All merchandise in many categories and huge assortments will be easily accessible to shoppers. The latest fashion trends and discount prices will be evident, and credit services will be available.

Contemporary in design, the $3 million building features an imposing front facade and arched portico finished in Georgia pine log and lime stone and contrasted with brick. The store faces toward Rand Road and will be the largest building in a multi-store shopping center complex planned by Arlen Realty and Development Corporation.

The attractive wood and brick exterior reflects the young interior design of this unique department store. From floor to ceiling each shop has its own special colorful atmosphere.

SAID BLACKMAN: We feel that today's shopper appreciates separate settings for separate departments. These individual specialty shops eliminate the confusion of open floor design in which it is difficult to tell where one department stops and another begins.

We feel that this design will be especially convenient for mothers shopping with their children, Blackman noted.

But one constant continues through all the physical changes: top quality merchandise in a vast assortment and

"A NEW ADVENTURE IN SHOPPING" is Korvettes new Arlington Heights store which opens tomorrow at Rand and Arlington Heights roads. Although there are five other Korvettes stores in the Chicago area, this one is a unique one story innovation in which each department operates like individually designed boutique shops with their own decor. The 504 x 275 brick faced structure with a classical white fine stone aggregate as exterior background for an unusual wing shaped portico entrance consists of 138,500 square feet of retailing departments and service areas, plus a 6,000 square foot outdoor lawn and garden center patio. Parking is provided to accommodate nearly 1,300 cars. This is the initial stage of a two stage shopping center complex to be completed in the near future by Arlen Realty and Development Corp. When finished, the complex will include a Korvettes 49th store in the country wide chain. Other Chicago area Korvettes stores are located in Elmhurst, Morton Grove, North Riverside, Matteson and Oak Lawn.

Who'll Win Free Hawaii Trip For Two?

Which of Korvettes customers will be the lucky winner of a free trip to Honolulu, Hawaii during the grand opening celebration?

This trip for two via American Airlines Astrojet plus six nights lodging at Hawaii's tallest resort - the luxurious Ala Moana hotel and $300 expense money will be the top prize of a number of prizes and gifts to be presented to customers during the April opening cel-bration of the new Korvettes store.

Other prizes and gifts will include free tickets to Chicago Cubs home baseball games and an array of variety of items.

The top prize will be drawn and announced and presented in the store about 12:30 p.m. Sunday, May 1 by WMAQ radio personality Kurt Russell and WIND radio personality Larry Johnson. No purchase is necessary for any of the prizes or gifts.

For the top award and the Cub tickets, entry blanks will be provided at key locations in the store, and the winners will be drawn from these entry blanks.

depth at prices to accommodate every family's budget and still giving service and satisfaction as well as maintaining a most liberal refund and exchange policy. Korvettes operates its own quality control laboratory, and all of its private label merchandise must undergo rigid testing before it is made available to customers.

KORVETTES IN Arlington Heights promises to be a dynamic addition to the shopping facilities and convenience of the community.

The boutique shops of the new Korvettes here provide for a true adventure in shopping for men, women, and children, as each merchandise area has its own unique mood.

From the Early American beamed ceiling in the Gourmet Shop, to the Monte Carlo floral prints in the women's shoe boutique, to the Junior World where a feeling of op art is created with dazzling colored hanging sculptures and a bold black and white checkerboard print for the walls of the shop - and where there is an Art Nouveau mural in the popular Beardsley style. Then there are the ships, wheels, lanterns, and nautical flags of the boys' department to intrigue children of all ages.

Browsing through Korvettes in Arlington Heights will also be like wandering in and out of specialty shops in an international village. The Scottish Tartan plaids decorating the Pro Shop are just steps away from the English club atmosphere of Men's Clothing with its Hunter Green leather walls. Between these two shops a man can find his complete outfit for sun and snow sports as well as beautifully styled and expertly tailored suits at a reasonable price.

FOR THE LADIES there is a complete 71 selection of casual and dress fashions, all divided into separate boutiques.

In addition to a full line of the latest fashions for every member of the family, Korvettes will feature separate shops for sporting goods, hardware, appliances, giftware, cosmetics, bedding, carpeting, and photography. Of course Korvettes record and tape selections, already reputed to be the largest in the world, will also be part of a separate department.

JOBS FOR APPROXIMATELY 500 AREA RESIDENTS have been made possible by the opening of the new Korvettes store in Arlington Heights. Applicants for full time and part time positions are still being interviewed by Berle Cohen, regional personnel director for Korvettes. Interested men and women can apply in person in the store located at 10 Rand Road.

Blackman explained that as part of Korvettes broad expansion program, location sites are always under advisement, and the new Arlington Heights location was finally chosen over others because of the many retail and community advantages.

Store hours will be from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. daily and from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday. Store hours during the first Sunday will be from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Huge Lawn-Garden Center Patio Ready For Spring Needs

An expansive lawn and garden center patio at the northeast end of the new Korvettes store will provide customers with an excellent opportunity to shop for all of their outdoor needs.

Entrance to the more than 6,000 square foot patio is possible from within the store and from entrance off of Arlington Heights Road.

On display and available for purchase will be lawn and garden equipment and supplies, swimming pools, swing sets, and lawn furniture.

Midwest vice-president for Korvettes is Jerry Lacher, a Chicago area resident for the past eight years, who, with the addition of the Arlington Heights store, is now responsible for 12 Korvettes stores in the Midwest - six in the Chicago area, four in the Detroit area, and two in the St. Louis area.

JERRY LACHER Area Vice-President

The 32 year old executive's meteoric rise with Korvettes began in 1956 when he started as a salesman at the 42nd street store in New York, and was promoted to department manager six months later.

In 1957 he transferred to the Brunswick, N.J. store as manager of children's wear, and moved up to floor manager in 1959, and sold goods merchandise manager and assistant store manager in 1961.

He transferred to the Midwest in 1963, serving briefly as manager of the Matteson, Illinois store, and soon afterwards was advanced to regional sold goods merchandise manager. In 1967 hard goods was added to his merchandising responsibilities, and he served as general merchandise manager of the Midwest region from then until February, 1970, when he was promoted to Midwest regional vice president.

Manager of the new Korvettes store which opens Thursday at 10 Rand Road here is William Holstein, a 17 year veteran of Korvettes who has been a Chicago area resident for the past eight years.

WILLIAM HOLSTEIN Store Manager

A perfect example of Korvettes policy of promotion from within the company, Holstein began his career with the firm in 1953 as a salesman in the major appliances department in White Plains, N.Y., and worked his way up to manager of that department in record time.

A native of Manhattan, N.Y. who fell in love with Chicago while at Great Lakes Naval Training Station before joining Korvettes, he jumped at a chance to transfer to the Midwest as hard goods merchandise manager for opening of the Oak Lawn Ill. store in 1963, was subsequently promoted to manager of the Matteson Ill. store in 1964, and has been managing the North Riverside Ill. store since 1965, which has been honored with numerous awards.

Holstein attended the Judah School of Music, but left school to serve in the United States Navy. He is married and has three children.

GOP Makes Clean Sweep In Hoffman Estates

Republicans in Hoffman Estates yesterday took a clean sweep of the village election, returning William Cowin to the board for a second term and placing Dyrle Rathman and Diane Jensen to fill two other trustee seats.

Rathman was front runner with 1,440 votes in the unofficial count reported to village hall. Cowin ran second with 1,406 votes and Mrs. Jensen's victory came with 1,270 votes.

Democrat William Brilliant ran a close fourth with 1,203 votes. His running mates were Lawrence Excell, who received 909 votes and Mrs. Barbara Jean Sherman who received 921 votes.

The Hoffman Republicans now hold all positions on the village board, including six trustee posts, village president and village clerk. The winning slate was sponsored by the Hoffman Estates Republican Party, an off-shoot of ROOST (Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township).

With nine precincts reported, Mrs. Jensen and Brilliant were tied with 877 votes each. Mrs. Jensen won her victory in six of the village's 12 precincts and received her most substantial support from Winston Knolls, where she garnered a 3 to 2 plurality.

Brilliant received 69 votes in Mrs. Jensen's home precinct, No. 6, at the Vogel Barn, where residents gave her 109 votes.

From the Democratic headquarters last night, campaign manager Selwyn Schwartz said he will ask for an official recount. Brilliant, speaking for the Democratic slate, encouraged the Republican stronghold to keep in close communications with the citizenry of Hoffman Estates.

Dyrle Rathman

Brilliant wished the Republicans well and said he and his running mates will not leave the scene in Hoffman Estates' community affairs.

Cowin first came to the board in 1967 on a coalition ticket and has served as chairman of the village's building and grounds and finance committees.

Rathman entered politics for the first time in this election, but has been active in church and the athletic association activities.

Mrs. Jensen, formerly a local news reporter, has lived in the village four years with her husband Township Auditor John Jensen and three children.

The trustees elected yesterday will be sworn into office at the May 3 village board meeting.

Vote Shows People 'Were Ready For New Management'

The Republican success in Hoffman Estates and Hanover Park village elections yesterday as "just phenomenal" said Donald L. Totten, Schaumburg Township Republican committeeman.

And most of those present at party headquarters last night agreed.

Totten considered the clean sweep in Hoffman Estates a vote of confidence for his party and an endorsement for past performance of the current Republican trustees and GOP Mayor Fred Downey.

The Hanover Park results indicated dissatisfaction with recent handling of village affairs, Totten and other Republicans said. It showed the people were "ready for new management" according to Frank Dalla Valle Jr. leading Hanover Park candidate.

Totten and party regulars considered voter turnout in Hoffman Estates very disappointing and attributed it to a lack of issues. The Hanover Park turnout was "about what we expected," said Totten.

SPIRITS WERE optimistic, but not outstandingly high at GOP headquarters where returns were slow in arriving from Hanover Park.

Most candidates and party regulars were confident of victory, but unsure as to how high the victory would be.

Dyrle Rathman, the high vote getter in Hoffman Estates, said, "It's very good for your ego when you lead the ticket. I'm very pleased and I appreciate the support of the party organization," he added.

William Cowin, who came in a close second to Rathman, spoke more of the party victory, saying, "The voters obviously feel the Republican party is truly representative of the people."

Diane Jensen, who incidentally wore a Democrat campaign button, and is the second woman elected trustee in Hoffman, called the election results. "An endorsement for the Hoffman Estates Republican in office. I'm looking forward to the next four years," she said.

In Hanover Park, Republicans were predicting Democrats would run a full slate two years from now on the basis of yesterday's proven success of a party campaign. Dalla Valle "was not surprised by the turnout or support of my party."

But William Rietz commented, he was "scared" because the support was so large.

Pool Pass Signup Opens

Hanover Park Park District is accepting registrations for pool passes and membership now until the pool opens June 12.

Mrs. Nancy Neilson, park district secretary, said registration for swimming lessons and the district's summer park programs will be accepted May 17 at the Longmeadows recreation building.

"Residents who wish to obtain pool memberships and sign up for swimming lessons and programs at the same time, may do so on that day," said Mrs. Neilson but until that date only pool registrations are being accepted.

The pool will be open for a 12-week season through Sept. 6. A family pass may be obtained for $25 before opening day. The pass will cost $30 afterward.

Individual adult passes are $15 for residents and $35 for non residents. Individual child's passes are $10 and $25 for nonresidents. A nonresident family pass costs $50. Daily fees established are $1 for children and $1.50 for children 16 and over and adults.

RECREATIONAL SWIMMING is set for 1 to 9 p.m. weekdays, 1 to 8 p.m. Saturdays, and 1 to 9 p.m. Sundays and holidays.

The pool may be rented for special parties, and the fee is $35 for 50 people or less, and $5 for each additional five people.

Splash parties will be scheduled from 8 to 11 p.m. Saturdays.

Swimming instruction is planned from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. with 50 minute classes and a 10 minute changing period. Class size will be limited to 15 to allow individual help. The swim class registration for a 15 lesson session is $5 for residents and $15 for nonresidents.

...And It's The Same Story In Hanover Park

The Republican Party of Hanover Park swept into office on a majority vote yesterday. Frank Dalla Valle Jr., GOP top draw, brought in 908 votes. Thomas Evert, his running mate brought in 790 votes and William Rietz third member of the slate, received 706 votes, for a total GOP sweep.

James Kamradt, Hanover's Own Party (HOP) member drew 565 votes. His running mates incumbent Trustees Louis Barone, 555 votes and James Scheuber, 325 votes.

Highest independent vote getter was incumbent Trustee Gordon Jensen who received 507 votes. Bill Hommowun received 434 votes; write-in Harold Soucie, 371 votes; James Dowling, 167 votes; and John Kluxen, 113 votes.

Election day followed the pattern of confusion complained about during pre-election preparation.

Independent candidates and party members alike were critical of last minute certification of poll watchers and judges appointment.

Anne Fox polling place was packed with waiting voters who were not on the books and had to fill out affidavits. Dalla Valle and Hommowun complained that some tired of waiting and late for morning trains left without voting.

The polling place ran out of affidavits and candidates scurried around other polling places looking for more. Anne Fox accepting voters from all of the village north and east of Barrington and Irving Park Roads intersection is the largest of the five precincts.

Final results followed the pattern of confusion with Precinct 5 and 1 show in totaling.

At 10 p.m. judges were beginning to total the village manager referendum and the question on who would be seated on park district board where three posts were vacant.

GOP candidates were elated over the approximately 50 per cent voter turnout in Hanover Park. Earlier projections showed a very light turnout but late in the afternoon a heavy vote hit the polls.

Larsen, Aigner Win Trustee Seats In Schaumburg Voting

In two contested races in yesterday's Schaumburg municipal election, United Citizens Party candidates Jack Larsen and Herb Aigner were assured of two year terms on the village board of trustees.

Larsen, appointed seven months ago, tallied 1,220 votes with Aigner, a veteran member of the village's zoning board of appeals, capturing 1,123.

Their challengers, Trustee Sigval Thorsen, whom UCP failed to slate this spring, came in with 883 votes and his running mate, Earl Meitzner, a political newcomer to Schaumburg, totaled 826.

Thorsen, who ran for the village board two years ago in a special election with the backing of the current administration, carried only Precinct 9, his home voting area, in the Lancer Park subdivision. He and Meitzner ran on an independent coalition and had backing from a group known as Concerned Voters of Schaumburg.

IN FIVE uncontested village races, Mayor Robert O. Atcher was elected to a fourth term with 1,764 votes and Clerk Sandy Carsello was sent into her second term with 1,697 votes. Senior Trustee Ray Kessell won a third term with votes totaling 1,713; Gordon Mullins came into office for a second term with 1,703; Jame Guthrie was elected to his first full term with 1,706 votes.

In an interview following the vote count, Atcher expressed thanks to people of Schaumburg for "recognizing the merit of those candidates on the UCP slate."

Aigner said his only disappointment was in the apparent apathy evidenced in low voter turnout. "Both sides in this election pointed out that these are crucial years for Schaumburg and much work lies ahead of us. I just hope the residents appreciate the work we are doing."

Larsen described his feelings as "exuberant."

"I am pleased on one hand, but on the other must look at the number of voters who failed to come out today and this I find discouraging," Larsen said.

Mrs. Carsello said, "The total number of ballots cast was somewhat disappointing in view of the 7,830 registered voters residing in Schaumburg."

ACT Slate Wearing Smiles Of Victory

by ANNE SLAVICEK

The Wheeling Active Citizens Ticket (ACT) captured all four seats in the Wheeling Village board election yesterday, despite a strong write-in effort by the Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP.)

Albert Lang, ACT candidate for the single two-year term at stake, led all candidates with 1,321 votes. Close behind was John Koeppe, incumbent trustee and leader of the ACT party with 1,317 votes.

Ronald Bruhn, another incumbent on the ACT slate, got 1,102 votes and Edward Berger got 1,063 votes for ACT.

The highest vote getter on the WHIP slate was Otis Hedlund with 907 votes. Michael Moran got 895 votes, Donald Duncan had 710 and Harold Fagan had 679 for WHIP.

Hedlund, Moran and Duncan were candidates for four-year terms. Fagan sought a two-year term.

A total of 2,192 or about 45 per cent. of Wheeling's 4,887 registered voters cast ballots in the election.

A TOTAL OF 871 persons voted straight ACT tickets while 615 wrote in a straight WHIP ballot.

Lang noted the large number of write-ins in his victory statement when he said, "I'm glad to see so many people took the time to write in candidates." The top vote-getter also said the election means "apathy is over" in Wheeling.

Koeppe termed the results a "vote of confidence" and thanked both Democratic and Republican workers in his campaign. He called ACT a "coalition ticket."

Bruhn said that he hopes to represent "all the people of Wheeling" and to "prove that the people of Wheeling can work together." Berger spoke of completing and expanding flood control efforts.

Moran noted that "900 people walked into voting booths and wrote in names" and Hedlund called the results "a tremendous showing for a write-in campaign."

All four WHIP candidates indicated that they would run again in the next village election, in 1973.

James Stavros, former Wheeling township Democratic committeeman, attended the ACT victory celebration in Koeppe's home. So did Gerald Chapman, the attorney who successfully argued against granting WHIP a place on the ballot.

Chapman had represented Mrs. Dorothy Penix, a Wheeling resident who objected to the WHIP petitions. The village electoral board ruled WHIP off the ballot, but the candidates continued as a write-in slate.

Earlier, Stavros had been involved in an incident at the polling place at the Mark Twain School. Jim Hoolihan, a representative of the Committee in Illinois Government (CIG) challenged Stavros' right to be in the polling place.

The CIG had helped WHIP with its campaign as part of a free service it offers to local parties in non-partisan races.

Stavros reportedly left Twain after Hoolihan challenged his right to be in the polling place without election credentials.

Attending what WHIP called a "victory celebration" at the Hartmann House restaurant was Dan Walker, an independent Democratic candidate for governor. Walker spoke to a WHIP rally last week.

WARM SPRING weather brought this boy and a stray 70s yesterday with similar readings predicted for the duck to the river bank. The temperature rose into the area today, but with a chance of rain.

Board Rezones Home Despite Objections

Residents Charge 'Unfair Hearing'

The Wheeling Village Board approved rezoning of a single-family home to general business district zoning Monday, despite vehement objections from a group of Buffalo Grove residents whose homes adjoin the property.

The home at 3115 N. Buffalo Grove Rd., owned by Mrs. Helen Stavros, borders on the backyards of approximately 12 homes in the Cambridge subdivision of Buffalo Grove.

The unanimous approval of the rezoning by the village board was based on recommendations of the Wheeling Zoning Board of Appeals.

The approval came following a confrontation between the attorney for the Buffalo Grove homeowners and village trustees.

TRUSTEE PETER EGAN told the Buffalo Grove residents that Wheeling doesn't need to consider the property rights of homeowners outside its own village limits.

"All the objectors are residents of Buffalo Grove, not Wheeling," Egan pointed out.

"She (Mrs. Stavros) is giving them a break not going to R-4 (apartment zoning) like the surrounding property zoning in Wheeling," Egan said.

"We don't have any jurisdiction on zoning outside the village... I live near Cambridge and I had water thrown down my back because of that development," Egan said, referring to the drainage problems and resulting lawsuit over the construction of the subdivision.

Trustee Ira Bird objected to comments by the Buffalo Grove resident's attorney that the zoning board took "a cavalier

"There's a good possibility of a suit over this rezoning," one resident from Buffalo Grove's Cambridge subdivision said Monday night after the village of Wheeling approved business zoning on a lot bordering his backyard.

The Buffalo Grove residents charged that the Wheeling Village Board had failed to give them a fair hearing and had "railroaded" through a rezoning approval for Mrs. Helen Stavros, the mother of former Wheeling Township Democratic Committeeman James Stavros.

The residents had hired an attorney and presented detailed written and oral objections to the rezoning. They had pointed out that the real estate office Mrs. Stavros said she wanted to operate disregard for concrete testimony" and "abused its discretion in recommending the rezoning." The attorney, Gene M. Igotka, told Bird that his comments had legal meaning and were not meant to slur the zoning board.

TRUSTEE MICHAEL Valenza asked Igotka to list the "noxious uses" he had referred to in written objections to the rezoning. The attorney pointed out that such things as public garages, printing shops, 24 hour ambulance services, car washes, motels, and undertaking establishments were allowed in the general business (B-3) zoning district.

Valenza noted that Mrs. Stavros only wanted to use her property as a real estate office in her home, not for any of those uses.

Igotka countered that the landowners would not object to the rezoning if the use were restricted to a real estate office.

"You can't tie up a zoning classification to a single use," Valenza replied.

ever gain by the rezoning," another said.

The resident's attorney, Gene M. Igotka, had presented a lengthy written objection to the Wheeling village board pointing out why the rezoning should be denied.

HE CHARGED the rezoning would change the character of the area, would reduce the Buffalo Grove landowners property values, would lead to hazardous traffic for local children and would result in a loss of privacy for the families bordering the property.

Igotka also said public nuisances such as noise and air pollution would result from the rezoning and said the use of the adjoining properties for recreational purposes would be severely inhibited.

The board then unanimously approved the rezoning.

IN AN EARLIER statement to the board Igotka has alleged that Mrs. Stavros' real intention for the property was as a small shopping center. He based the contention on a letter from Atty. Robert Moore which appeared in the zoning file on the property.

He said that B-3 zoning was not the highest and best use for the land, and charged that the village zoning board refused to consider the conflicting testimony as to how the property would be used.

Igotka said the zoning board had refused him a continuance to provide expert witnesses on how the rezoning would affect adjoining homes.

He said the zoning board said a full hearing would be held at the village board level and the village board said a full hearing should have been held at the zoning board level.

"There were 20 objectors and not one of them was rebutted by the petitioner or her counsel. There was no conflicting testimony written or oral to our objections. The zoning board nonetheless recommended approval. Reasons for the zoning board decision are conspicuously absent," Igotka said.

'Slave Sale' Slated

The United Youth of Wheeling youth group will hold a "slave sale" May 1 and May 8, to raise money for the organization's group activities.

Members of the group will "sell" their services to perform handiwork for Wheeling residents from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on the two successive weekends in May.

The minimum hourly rate is $1.

Cadets Tour Navy Base In Norfolk

by SUE JACOBSON

Spring vacation this year took 50 Wheeling High School boys, cadets in the junior naval ROTC program, to Norfolk, Va. for a tour of naval installations.

The week-long tour was financed entirely by the Navy. The Wheeling contingent was only the second in the country, and the first outside Virginia, to visit the Norfolk naval base under this new naval program, which started in December.

"I PUT IN a request for the trip in December when I first heard about the program. I think it gave the cadets a wonderful opportunity to see naval life as it really is," said Capt. Adrian Lorentson, (Ret.) naval science instructor at Wheeling and a 24-year veteran of the Navy.

The itinerary for the 50 boys, all second year cadets or members of the drill team, was a long one.

Some of the excursions on the agenda were to the naval weapons station at Yorktown, Va., the anti-air warfare training center at Dam Neck, Va., and a submarine, aircraft carrier and amphibious ship. Thirty of the boys spent some time at sea on the guided missile frigate U.S.S. J. Daniels. Others saw the Navy underwater demolition team in action.

Cadet Mark Hopkins, a junior at the high school, spent three days on board the frigate, while it cruised in Chesapeake Bay from Norfolk to Yorktown.

"Fantastic, just fantastic," was his reaction to the trip.

"It gave us the chance to see what life in the Navy is really like. We slept with the enlisted men. They don't like it too much; the officers have it better."

HOPKINS AND THE rest of the cadets stood watch with the crew, ate with them, and in general observed life on this Navy vessel, which is slightly larger than a destroyer. Hopkins said he would like a career in the Navy, and plans to apply to the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

Commented junior Doug Broxham, who spent one day on the frigate, "The trip got us used to the regimentation of Navy life. We got up every day about six, and we stood regular watches with the crew. Some of us had the midnight to 4 a.m. watch. They were pretty tired the next day."

Although Broxham said he doesn't plan a career in the Navy, he does intend to enter this branch of the service after college.

A visit to the battlefield at Yorktown where the decisive battle was fought between British and American troops in the Revolutionary War concluded the trip. Thursday the boys boarded a naval aircraft for the trip to Glenview Naval Air Station.

LORENTSON FEELS the trip gave the cadets a "great awareness of the skills and challenges of naval service," and hopes to take the boys on field trips to other naval bases around the country each year.

"I think this program was a tremendous success. The second year cadets, particularly, learned a lot. One cadet told me as he was leaving the plane that the days on the frigate were the best three days of his life. I think most of the boys felt something like this."

"Through visits like this the boys may become interested in many different fields — oceanography, meteorology, electronics — fields that aren't specifically military. Of course, I'm pretty partial to the Navy. I think a career in the Navy offers a great way to live," he noted.

DONKEYS WILL come to Wheeling High School Friday and scenes like this will be common as students, teachers, administrators and Jaycees try to play basketball atop the beasts. Proceeds from the show, which begins at 8 p.m. at the school, will be used to pay for a civic events sign outside the high school.

Election Judges Instructed On Handling Write-In Votes

A list of instructions based on a letter from the county clerk's office was delivered to the election judges in the various Wheeling polling places yesterday afternoon.

The instructions, primarily involving the validity of write-in votes, were to help the judges in making decisions on questionable ballots. Village Clerk Evelyn Diens explained.

The instructions were required largely because the Wheeling Independent Party ran a slate of write-in candidates in the election.

Mrs. Diens had been awaiting a reply from the county clerk's office for more than a week on the questions.

The reply arrived at her office Monday.

The opinions delivered to the judges verified that judges could serve in an election if they lived in the Cook County voting precinct even if they lived outside the village limits.

IT ALSO SAID that lines and boxes for write-in candidates need not be printed on the ballot by the village.

A third point in the opinions told judges that write-in votes written in under the heading for the party on the ballot should be counted.

"If the voter writes in the name of a write-in candidate under the proper heading already printed on the ballot and properly draws a box and marks the box correctly, the vote is valid."

Using the term "trustee" instead of "village trustee" to designate the office for a write-in candidate was also permissible in this election since there is no other trustee office being elected except village trustee.

The judges were instructed that if a person voting merely identifies a party which is not on the ballot and then draws a box for the party without checking the individual write-in candidates the ballot is not valid.

Any ballot on which a voter crosses out a name of a candidate is also invalid, the letter told the judges.

Request Coaches At Stevenson High

Expansion of the coaching staff at Adlai Stevenson High School was recommended to the Dist. 125 school board Monday by Stevenson Athletic Director Kelly Cox.

Cox recommended that coaches be added to the existing football, basketball, wrestling and swimming coaching staffs, in preparation for the schools entering an athletic conference.

Stevenson recently applied to join the Northwest Suburban Athletic Conference, an association of eight Lake County high schools. Currently the Stevenson athletic teams play on an independent basis.

Dist. 125 Supt. Harold Baner reported to the board Monday that the district has not yet learned whether the application has been accepted.

bers, Ross Miller and D. Eugene Nugent. PRECEDING THE election of officers, the official vote canvass of the Harper College election confirmed the election of Hansen, Miller and Nugent.

William Mann, vice president in charge of financial affairs, read the official tally sheets to the six board members present. There were no major changes over last week's unofficial results.

On April 10, the three men out-tallied five other candidates seeking board seats. Hansen, one of the board's original members, tallied 6,760 votes to lead the winners.

Panel Discussions Set

"Drug Abuse," "The School and the Law" and "Modular Scheduling" will be discussed by panels of local, regional and state experts in these fields tomorrow at Wheeling High School.

The three panel discussions will go on simultaneously and will start at 7:30 p.m. A question and answer session will follow each of the discussions.

Appearing on the drug abuse panel will be Ward Iann, of the office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction in Springfield; Sgt. Ted Brakke, of the Wheeling Police Department; and two Wheeling High School counselors. This presentation will be held in the high school cafeteria.

THE SCHOOL and law panel will feature Tom Shirley, principal of Wheeling High School; Kenneth Gill, superintendent of Dist. 21; Dwight Hall, principal of Lincoln Junior High School in Mount Prospect; and Clarence Trausch, police liaison officer at Wheeling High School. This panel will meet in the high school library.

Appearing on the modular scheduling panel will be Clarence Miller, assistant principal at Wheeling High School; and Donald Ring, chairman of the math-science department at Wheeling High School. This panel will meet in the Little Theatre.

The program is open to all community residents. It is being sponsored by the Wheeling High School Teacher Parent Council.

Koester Resigns Bd. Post

Arthur Koester has resigned as a member of the Dist. 23 School Board. His resignation came following a short executive session at Monday's school board meeting.

Koester, who lives at 201 S. Maple Ln., in Prospect Heights, indicated he decided to resign because he did not have enough time to spend on his board duties. "A school board member has no business being on the board unless he can attend the meetings. The best contribution I can make is to step aside."

An American Airlines commercial pilot, Koester said his job forces him to be out of town about 15 days at a time. He handles flights to Mexico and Canada as well as to several cities throughout the United States.

No decision on how to fill the vacancy was made by the board at the meeting Monday. Mel Lacey said the board had two alternatives: to hold a special election to fill the vacancy, or to appoint a replacement.

LACE SAID the decision on how the vacancy would be filled would be made at a future meeting.

Koester, 37, has been a Prospect Heights resident for about 12 years. He was elected to the school board in 1969 after receiving General Caucus endorsement. He is married and has two children.

ished second with 6,602 votes and Nugent, Palatine resident, employed by U.S. Gypsum, was third with 6,497 votes.

Nugent and Miller then stepped to the board table and replaced two retiring board members, John Haas and James Hamill, both of whom did not seek reelection.

Hamill was not present. When Haas stepped down he drew applause from the audience of 25 persons, which included defeated candidates, Hannah K. Wilson and Larry Moran.

Haas said he congratulated the new board members, and told them, "the work is pretty difficult at times but it's very rewarding."

Area Teacher Wins Trip To Scandinavia

Ruth Ann Mowrer, a third grade teacher at Booth Tarkington School in Wheeling, has won a second place prize in the 1971 travel contest sponsored by "Scholastic Teacher" magazine.

Mrs. Mowrer won a set of the 1971 edition of Encyclopedia Britannica for a poem telling how she felt a trip to Scandinavia would enrich her teaching abilities.

First prize in the nationwide contest was a two-week trip for two to Scandinavia.

Mrs. Mowrer said the contest was "the first one I ever entered and the first thing I've ever won."

She said her poem, titled "A Global Place" was about how teachers try to incorporate the world outside the classroom into their teaching in class.

Mrs. Mowrer was one of three second place winners in the contest. The contest winners will be officially announced in the May 2 edition of "Scholastic Teacher."

County Board denied Sloan's request for multiple-family zoning on the site. He was then planning to build 11 six-story apartment buildings and nine townhouses with a total of 254 living units. Plans also included a swimming pool, tennis courts, putting green and club house.

However, homeowner associations objected to the rezoning because 95 per cent of the surrounding area is developed with single-family residences. They also charged development of the site would increase water and sewer problems in the area, add to the traffic problems and overburden School Dist. 26 as well as fire and police.

OBJECTORS TO the development included Camelot, Randwood and Parkview subdivisions to the south and Euclid-Lake and Rainbow Ridge subdivisions to the north and west of the site.

Now, Sloan is seeking approval for an apartment complex without townhouses and recreation facilities. Only two objectors to the development appeared at the public hearing held yesterday in the Wheeling Village Hall.

Planner Resigns

The resignation of Wallace "Bud" Berth as chairman of the Buffalo Grove Plan Commission was accepted at Monday's village board meeting.

Berth's term of office on the commission expired yesterday and he chose not to seek reappointment. The board voted unanimously to appoint plan commissioner Merrill Hoyt as temporary chairman for two weeks.

He was named interim chairman because the board felt that a permanent appointment should be made after the village election by the village president-elect.

2 Youths Charged With Trespass

Wheeling Police charged two youths for refusing to leave the grounds of Wheeling High School Monday afternoon.

Barry L. Wagada, 20, of 1206 Crabtree Ln., Mount Prospect, was charged with criminal trespass, obstructing a police officer, and resisting arrest. Richard Reddish, 18, of 351 Mors Ave., Wheeling, was charged with criminal trespass.

The youths were arrested by police liaison officer Clarence Trausch after they refused to leave the school grounds.

Police had to use force to get Wagada to a counselors office and to handcuff him.

A 15-year-old Wheeling girl was also involved in the confrontation with police but was not charged.

The villages of Wheeling and Mount Prospect requested a 21-day period in which to file objections to rezoning and development of the site. The site is part of an area slated for annexation to Mount Prospect.

The zoning board will make its recommendation to the Cook County Board following the 21-day period. The issue will be taken under advisement until then.

BGA Slate Takes All Seven Positions

by CRAIG GAARE

The Buffalo Grove Alliance (BGA) scored a stunning victory in the Buffalo Grove election yesterday, ousting village president Donald Thompson and electing its entire seven-member slate, including a park district candidate.

Thompson placed third behind BGA candidate Gary Armstrong and independent Kenneth Felten in his bid for a second term.

Armstrong, currently a village trustee, got 1,061 votes nearly double Thompson's total of 536. Felten got 799 votes.

Also elected in the BGA Sweep were Randall Rathjen, Edward Osman and James Shirley, all candidates for four-year trustee terms; Charles Vogt, candidate for a two-year trustee term; Verna Clayton, candidate for village clerk, and Joseph Settanni, park commissioner candidate.

Armstrong and the BGA slate showed their greatest strength in Lake County, where Thompson has been criticized in the school site controversy, and in Cambridge, the scene of flooding and water shortages.

Gary Armstrong

Armstrong picked up well over half of his votes in the two precincts representing those areas.

He got 394 votes in Lake County to Thompson's 81 and Felten's 110. In Cambridge, where Armstrong was also favored because of his vote as a trustee against the condominiums, Armstrong got 235 votes to Thompson's 51 and Felten's 50.

The BGA's decisive victory apparently nullified the effect of challenges to 92 voters in Lake County. The challenges involved a dispute over registration dates. The number of challenged ballots were less than the victory margins in all contests.

The leading vote getter in the election was Vogt. He defeated Henry Cimaglio, a member of Thompson's United Village Party, for the two-year term by 1,712 to 515 votes.

BGA candidates for four-year terms also won easily with the following vote totals: Shirley, 1,502; Osman, 1050; and Rathjen, 982.

Independent candidates for trustee also did better than United Village Party candidates. The totals for independents were: Wallace "Bud" Berth, 883; Gordon Tierney, 694; Allan Thorud, 605.

Totals for United Village Party trustee candidates were: Jack G. Maichel, 292; Donald J. Wilson, 386; and Charles Moodhe, 564.

The closest race was for village clerk, but again the BGA won with Verna Clayton defeating incumbent Rosalie Kaszubowski 1,163 to 997.

In a separate race for Buffalo Grove park district commissioner BGA candidate Joseph Settanni led independent William Russell 1,262 to 756 with one precinct unreported. The precinct has only about 200 votes.

In a victory statement, Armstrong said, "The responsibility and confidence placed in us is awesome and we accept it. We want to put it together as a team effort for Buffalo Grove. The monkey is now on our back."

Armstrong called the victory a "tremendous one in view of the fact that our whole slate won."

Thompson called the results "pretty decisive." He said he was disappointed but added that, "If I had it to do over again I'd do it the same way. I only hope that the progress of the village continues."

Thompson, village president since 1967 had been the center of controversy during the campaign. Two current members of the village board — Felten and Armstrong — chose to oppose him for the presidency. A third trustee, Thorud, ran for reelection as an independent and criticized Thompson.

All three complained about Thompson's "secretive" manner of running the village and about his "high-handed" methods.

Thompson's supporters claimed that the three trustees simply had not worked hard enough on the village board and that Thompson was a strong leader.

A new controversy erupted when Thompson announced a "settlement" of the Lake County school site dispute. Armstrong claimed that Thompson had once more acted without board knowledge and that the timing, just before an election, was politically motivated. Thompson denied the charge.

Armstrong found himself the subject of an attack when he refused to resign from the village board. Felten and Thorud complained that if Armstrong won the presidency he would be able to appoint his own successor on the village board.

Armstrong replied by saying that, if he was elected, he would set up a citizens committee to nominate a successor.

WARM SPRING weather brought this boy and a stray duck to the river bank. The temperature rose into the 70s yesterday with similar readings predicted for the area today, but with a chance of rain.

Election Judges Challenge Registration Of Area Voters

Election judges in the Lake County precinct in Buffalo Grove were challenging voters in yesterday's election who had registered in the last 28 days, contending that they had registered illegally.

The challenges were being made by election judges and not poll watchers for the candidates, contrary to the reports that circulated in the village.

All challenges were made by election judges in precinct 8 at Willow Grove school.

The controversy centers on the fact that the Lake County clerk, Mrs. Grace Mary Stern had not closed registrations 28 days prior to the election.

Mrs. Stern contends that election laws vary from county to county, but Jack Hoogasian, the Lake County state's attorney, says they don't. He believes that the state election law states that registration must be closed 28 days before an election.

VILLAGE ATTY. Richard Raysa agrees with Hoogasian.

"As far as I'm concerned those people are not registered voters. In my opinion it's wrong. The county clerk (Mrs. Stern) thinks it's not wrong. The only one that can decide is the courts. They (the courts) could conceivably throw out the entire election," Raysa said.

However, he added, the only way the courts would hear the case is if the number of voters that have registered in the last 28 days would make a difference in the final outcome of the election.

For example, if the village president were elected by a 50 vote margin and 100 persons who had registered in the last 28 days cast ballots, the election could be contested. But if the village president won by more than 100 votes, there would be no grounds on which to file an objection, Raysa said.

According to an estimate by village presidential candidate Kenneth Felten, there are at least 200 persons who have registered in the last 28 days.

YESTERDAY AFTERNOON, Felten, incumbent Trustee Allan Thorud and Gordon Tierney, another trustee candidate, asked Raysa to institute an action contesting the election. Raysa refused and stated that the village does not have the right to challenge an election on behalf of candidates but told them, "I think you have a perfectly valid challenge."

Raysa said the challenge would have to be filed with the clerk of the Lake County circuit court, possibly through the Lake County state's attorney's office.

However yesterday, no voters were turned away from the polls who had registered. They were asked to sign an Affidavit of Challenged Voter. The affidavit states that the voter has met all of the voter qualifications of age and residence and that "I am a qualified voter in every respect, so help me God."

Although the voters are challenged, their votes go into the ballot box along with the unchallenged ones so there is no way of knowing for whom the challenged voters cast their ballot.

Registration in the Cook County section of the village closed 28 days before the election, so the registration dates did not become an issue in that area.

Buffalo Grove Residents Object

Business Zoning For Home

The Wheeling Village Board approved rezoning of a single-family home to general business district zoning Monday, despite vehement objections from a group of Buffalo Grove residents whose homes adjoin the property.

The home at 3115 N. Buffalo Grove Rd., owned by Mrs. Helen Stavros, borders on the backyards of approximately 12 homes in the Cambridge subdivision of Buffalo Grove.

The unanimous approval of the rezoning by the village board was based on recommendations of the Wheeling Zoning Board of Appeals.

The approval came following a confrontation between the attorney for the Buffalo Grove homeowners and village trustees.

TRUSTEE PETER EGAN told the Buffalo Grove residents that Wheeling doesn't need to consider the property rights of homeowners outside its own village limits.

"All the objectors are residents of Buffalo Grove, not Wheeling," Egan pointed out.

"She (Mrs. Stavros) is giving them a break not going to R-4 (apartment zoning) like the surrounding property zoning in Wheeling," Egan said.

"We don't have any jurisdiction on zoning outside the village. I live near Cambridge and I had water thrown down my back because of that development," Egan said, referring to the drainage problems and resulting lawsuit over the construction of the subdivision.

Trustee Ira Bird objected to comments by the Buffalo Grove resident's attorney that the zoning board took "a cavalier disregard for concrete testimony" and "abused its discretion in recommending the rezoning." The attorney, Gene M. Igolka, told Bird that his comments had legal meaning and were not meant to slur the zoning board.

TRUSTEE MICHAEL Valenza asked Igolka to list the "noxious uses" he had referred to in written objections to the rezoning. The attorney pointed out that such things as public garages, printing shops, 24 hour ambulance services, car washes, motels, and undertaking establishments were allowed in the general business (B-3) zoning district.

Valenza noted that Mrs. Stavros only wanted to use her property as a real estate office in her home, not for any of those uses.

Igolka countered that the landowners would not object to the rezoning if the use were restricted to a real estate office.

"You can't tie up a zoning classification to a single use," Valenza replied.

The board then unanimously approved the rezoning.

IN AN EARLIER statement to the board Igolka has alleged that Mrs. Stavros' real intention for the property was as a small shopping center. He based the contention on a letter from Atty. Robert Moore which appeared in the zoning file on the property.

He said that B-3 zoning was not the highest and best use for the land, and charged that the village zoning board refused to consider the conflicting testimony as to how the property would be used.

Igolka said the zoning board had refused him a continuance to provide expert witnesses on how the rezoning would affect adjoining homes.

He said the zoning board said a full hearing would be held at the village board level and the village board said a full hearing should have been held at the zoning board level.

"There were 20 objectors and not one of them was rebutted by the petitioner or her counsel. There was no conflicting testimony written or oral to our objections. The zoning board nonetheless recommended approval. Reasons for the zoning board decision are conspicuously absent," Igolka said.

New Lifetime Member

The Buffalo Grove Jayceettes, the women's auxiliary of the Jaycees, selected a local resident for lifetime membership at the group's annual membership dinner last week.

Mrs. Betty Osman was chosen as the organization's first lifetime member. She was selected for her "outstanding service to the organization and to the community," according to Mrs. Barbara Sharp, Jayceette publicity chairman.

Also at the meeting, held at Hans Bavarian Lodge in Wheeling, Fern Schneider, a handwriting expert, analyzed writing samples from the chapter's members.

The Jayceettes will elect new officers for the coming year at their next meeting May 20.

Cadets Tour Navy Base In Norfolk

by SUE JACOBSON

Spring vacation this year took 50 Wheeling High School boys, cadets in the junior naval ROTC program, to Norfolk, Va., for a tour of naval installations.

The week-long tour was financed entirely by the Navy. The Wheeling contingent was only the second in the country, and the first outside Virginia, to visit the Norfolk naval base under this new naval program, which started in December.

"I PUT IN a request for the trip in December when I first heard about the program. I think it gave the cadets a wonderful opportunity to see naval life as it really is," said Capt. Adrian Lorentson, (Ret.) naval science instructor at Wheeling and a 24-year veteran of the Navy.

The itinerary for the 50 boys, all second year cadets or members of the drill team, was a long one.

Some of the excursions on the agenda were to the naval weapons station at Yorktown, Va., the anti-air warfare training center at Dam Neck, Va. and a submarine, aircraft carrier and amphibious ship. Thirty of the boys spent some time at sea on the guided missile frigate U.S.S. J. Daniels. Others saw the Navy underwater demolition team in action.

Cadet Mark Hopkins, a junior at the high school, spent three days on board the frigate, while it cruised in Chesapeake Bay from Norfolk to Yorktown.

"Fantastic, just fantastic," was his reaction to the trip.

"It gave us the chance to see what life in the Navy is really like. We slept with the enlisted men. They don't like it too much; the officers have it better."

HOPKINS AND THE rest of the cadets stood watch with the crew, ate with them, and in general observed life on this Navy vessel, which is slightly larger than a destroyer. Hopkins said he would like a career in the Navy, and plans to apply to the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

Commented junior Doug Broxham, who spent one day on the frigate, "The trip got us used to the regimentation of Navy life. We got up every day about six, and we stood regular watches with the crew. Some of us had the midnight to 4 a.m. watch. They were pretty tired the next day."

Although Broxham said he doesn't plan a career in the Navy, he does intend to enter this branch of the service after college.

A visit to the battlefield at Yorktown where the decisive battle was fought between British and American troops in the Revolutionary War concluded the trip. Thursday the boys boarded a naval aircraft for the trip to Glenview Naval Air Station.

LORENTSON FEELS the trip gave the cadets a "great awareness of the skills and challenges of naval service," and hopes to take the boys on field trips to other naval bases around the country each year.

"I think this program was a tremendous success. The second year cadets, particularly, learned a lot. One cadet told me as he was leaving the plane that the days on the frigate were the best three days of his life. I think most of the boys felt something like this."

"Through visits like this the boys may become interested in many different fields — oceanography, meteorology, electronics — fields that aren't specifically military. Of course, I'm pretty partial to the Navy. I think a career in the Navy offers a great way to live," he noted.

DONKEYS WILL come to Wheeling High School Friday and scenes like this will be common as students, teachers, administrators and Jaycees try to

Village May Object To Sloan Plan

George Martin Sloan is again seeking apartment zoning for his 10-acre tract near River and Euclid roads in Prospect Heights.

Sloan, owner of the property, appeared before the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals yesterday with a new set of plans for the site. This is the second attempt in two years to have the site rezoned from single-family residential to multiple-family.

Sloan is currently seeking approval for construction of eight three-story apartment buildings with a total of 192 living units. Approximately one-third of the units, 64 apartments will be one-bedroom. The remainder will be two-bedroom apartments.

ESTIMATED RENTAL fee is $175 per month for one-bedroom apartments and between $265 and $285 for two-bedroom units. About 1½ parking spaces per unit will be provided.

A little more than a year ago, the Cook

County Board denied Sloan's request for multiple-family zoning on the site. He was then planning to build 11 six-story apartment buildings and nine townhouses with a total of 254 living units. Plans also included a swimming pool, tennis courts, putting green and club house.

However, homeowner associations objected to the rezoning because 95 per cent of the surrounding area is developed with single-family residences. They also charged development of the site would increase water and sewer problems in the area, add to the traffic problems and overburden School Dist. 26 as well as fire and police.

OBJECTORS TO the development included Camelot, Randwood and Parkview subdivisions to the south and Euclid-Lake and Rainbow Ridge subdivisions to the north and west of the site.

Now, Sloan is seeking approval for an apartment complex without townhouses and recreation facilities. Only two objections to the development appeared at the public hearing held yesterday in the Wheeling Village Hall.

The villages of Wheeling and Mount Prospect requested a 21-day period in which to file objections to rezoning and development of the site. The site is part of an area slated for annexation to Mount Prospect.

The zoning board will make its recommendation to the Cook County Board following the 21-day period. The issue will be taken under advisement until then.

Regatta Set May 2

The race, which attracted 2,500 people last year, will be held from 12:30 to 4 p.m. at Sandy Point Beach on Lake Zurich. Admission will be $1.50.

Election Judges Instructed On Handling Write-In Votes

A list of instructions based on a letter from the county clerk's office was delivered to the election judges in the various Wheeling polling places yesterday afternoon.

The instructions, primarily involving the validity of write-in votes, were to help the judges in making decisions on questionable ballots. Village Clerk Evelyn Dien, explained.

The instructions were required largely because the Wheeling Independent Party ran a slate of write-in candidates in the election.

Mrs. Dien had been awaiting a reply from the county clerk's office for more than a week on the questions.

The reply arrived at her office Monday.

The opinions delivered to the judges verified that judges could serve in an election if they lived in the Cook County voting precinct even if they lived outside the village limits.

IT ALSO SAID that lines and boxes for write-in candidates need not be printed on the ballot by the village.

A third point in the opinions told judges that write-in votes written in under the heading for the party on the ballot should be counted.

"If the voter writes in the name of a write-in candidate under the proper heading already printed on the ballot and properly draws a box and marks the box correctly, the vote is valid."

Using the term "trustee" instead of "village trustee" to designate the office for a write-in candidate was also permissible in this election since there is no other trustee office being elected except village trustee.

The judges were instructed that if a person voting merely identifies a party which is not on the ballot and then draws a box for the party without checking the individual write-in candidates the ballot is not valid.

Any ballot on which a voter crosses out a name of a candidate is also invalid, the letter told the judges.

Request Coaches At Stevenson High

Expansion of the coaching staff at Adlai Stevenson High School was recommended to the Dist. 125 school board Monday by Stevenson Athletic Director Kelly Cox.

Cox recommended that coaches be added to the existing football, basketball, wrestling and swimming coaching staffs, in preparation for the schools, entering an athletic conference.

Stevenson recently applied to join the Northwest Suburban Athletic Conference, an association of eight Lake County high schools. Currently the Stevenson athletic teams play on an independent basis.

Dist. 125 Supt. Harold Baner reported to the board Monday that the district has not yet learned whether the application has been accepted.

Koester Resigns Bd. Post

Arthur Koester has resigned as a member of the Dist. 23 School Board. His resignation came following a short executive session at Monday's school board meeting.

Koester, who lives at 201 S. Maple Ln., in Prospect Heights, indicated he decided to resign because he did not have enough time to spend on his board duties. "A school board member has no business being on the board unless he can attend the meetings. The best contribution I can make is to step aside."

An American Airlines commercial pilot, Koester said his job forces him to be out of town about 15 days at a time. He handles flights to Mexico and Canada as well as to several cities throughout the United States.

No decision on how to fill the vacancy was made by the board at the meeting Monday. Mel Lacey said the board had two alternatives: to hold a special election to fill the vacancy, or to appoint a replacement.

LACEY SAID the decision on how the vacancy would be filled would be made at a future meeting.

Koester, 37, has been a Prospect Heights resident for about 12 years. He was elected to the school board in 1969 after receiving General Caucus endorsement. He is married and has two children.

Planner Resigns

The resignation of Wallace "Bud" Berth as chairman of the Buffalo Grove Plan Commission was accepted at Monday's village board meeting.

Berth's term of office on the commission expired yesterday and he chose not to seek reappointment. The board voted unanimously to appoint plan commissioner Merrill Hoyt as temporary chairman for two weeks.

He was named interim chairman because the board felt that a permanent appointment should be made after the village election by the village president-elect.

2 Youths Charged With Trespass

Wheeling Police charged two youths for refusing to leave the grounds of Wheeling High School Monday afternoon.

Barry L. Wagada, 20, of 1206 Crabtree Ln., Mount Prospect, was charged with criminal trespass, obstructing a police officer, and resisting arrest. Richard Reddish, 18, of 351 Mors Ave., Wheeling, was charged with criminal trespass.

The youths were arrested by police liaison officer Clarence Trausch after they refused to leave the school grounds. Police had to use force to get Wagada to a counselors office and to handcuff him.

A 15-year-old Wheeling girl was also involved in the confrontation with police but was not charged.

Wheeling Girl Hurt In Bicycle Accident

A 15-year-old Wheeling girl, Judith M. Gerschelske, was in good condition at Holy Family Hospital with head lacerations yesterday after a car struck the bicycle she was riding.

Miss Gerschelske, who lives at 172 S. Wolf Rd., was struck by a car on the west side of Wolf Road 55 feet south of Dundee Road about 4:30 p.m. Monday.

The driver of the car, Elsa J. Sample, 48, of 1500 Barberty, Mount Prospect, was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision in connection with the accident.

She will appear in Arlington Heights district court on June 1 on the charge.

Wheeling Police estimated damage to the car at $100 and to the bicycle at $25.

Hansen Elected Harper Board Chairman

Milton Hansen, reelected last week to the Harper College Board, was elected Monday as chairman.

Jessalyn Nicklas was elected vice chairman and Joseph Morton was elected secretary.

Hansen, a Palatine attorney, was elected chairman over Mrs. Nicklas by a 4-3 vote. Mrs. Nicklas was elected vice chairman by a 6-1 vote over past secretary, Larry Moats.

Morton was elected secretary by a 6-1 margin over Moats as board secretary.

Hansen said before the vote that he did not want to be chairman and that he would cast his ballot for Mrs. Nicklas.

The election of officers followed the seating of the two newest board members, Ross Miller and D. Eugene Nugent.

PRECEDING THE election of officers, the official vote canvass of the Harper College election confirmed the election of Hansen, Miller and Nugent.

William Mann, vice president in charge of financial affairs, read the official tally sheets to the six board members present. There were no major changes over last week's unofficial results.

On April 10, the three men out-tallied five other candidates seeking board seats. Hansen, one of the board's original members, tallied 6,760 votes to lead the winners.

Miller, a Mount Prospect attorney, finished second with 6,602 votes and Nugent, Palatine resident, employed by U.S. Gypsum, was third with 6,497 votes.

Nugent and Miller then stepped to the board table and replaced two retiring board members, John Haas and James Hamill, both of whom did not seek reelection.

Hamill was not present. When Haas stepped down he drew applause from the audience of 25 persons, which included defeated candidates, Hannah K. Wilson and Larry Moran.

Haas said he congratulated the new board members, and told them, "the work is pretty difficult at times but it's very rewarding."

Area Teacher Wins Trip To Scandinavia

Ruth Ann Mowrer, a third grade teacher at Booth Tarkington School in Wheeling, has won a second place prize in the 1971 travel contest sponsored by "Scholastic Teacher" magazine.

Mrs. Mowrer won a set of the 1971 edition of Encyclopedia Britannica for a poem telling how she felt a trip to Scandinavia would enrich her teaching abilities.

First prize in the nationwide contest was a two-week trip for two to Scandinavia.

Mr. Mowrer said the contest was "the first one I ever entered and the first thing I've ever won."

She said her poem, titled "A Global Place" was about how teachers try to incorporate the world outside the classroom into their teaching in class.

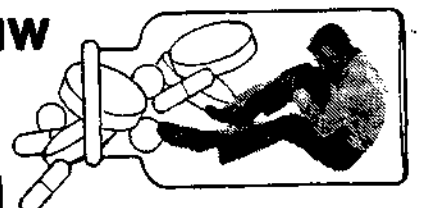

Mrs. Mowrer was one of three second place winners in the contest. The contest winners will be officially announced in the May 2 edition of "Scholastic Teacher."

Ballots Split— Soper, Zajonc, Brown Are Victors

Surprise, gloom and happiness filled both party headquarters in Palatine last night as a majority of voters split their ballot and elected two VIP candidates and one Republican.

Top vote-getter of the three winners was Merwin Soper running as a GOP candidate. The two Village Incumbent Party candidates, Fred Zajonc and Clayton Brown trailed him by less than 200 votes.

But neither group could enjoy a total victory party.

The looks on faces at Republican headquarters showed the loss of Dennis Collins and Donald Phares as they did at VIP headquarters when Tom Kearns' defeat became apparent.

But later in the evening incumbent winners and Mayor John Moodie reflected their joy with the victory.

A key issue of the campaign had been the VIP's alleged unresponsiveness while the incumbents accused Republicans of trying to take over the village.

"Now, in the final analysis, the people have spoken," said Brown.

He added, "It is my proudest day in the 19 years I have lived in Palatine. I have seen independent citizens from throughout the community come to help us in this campaign. In doing so they have spoken out against the system perpetuated by a minority leadership of the local Republican Party."

SOPER WAS NOT available for comment at press time last night.

Speaking to the issue of responsiveness, Zajonc said "I would like to thank all of the people of Palatine who reflected me to office, and I am thankful they believe I am responsive and realize I will continue to do everything possible to

The Unofficial Vote Totals

These are the unofficial totals for the village and library board elections yesterday. In the library election only 22 of 23 precincts are recorded.

Village Board
Soper	2,024
Zajonc	1,864
Brown	1,862
Phares	1,784
Collins	1,733
Kearns	1,555
Metivier	818

Library Board
Jessen	4,017
Eilering	2,487
Smith	2,232
Gamoran	2,041

make Palatine a better place to live."

The mayor added, "I'm sorry it couldn't have been a sweep but it proves that with the right ideas and our dedication to good government we can prevail."

Early in the evening all three VIP candidates were in the lead by a 2 to 1 margin and there was some surprise written on the faces of their supporters waiting final returns. It was not until votes from eight of Palatine's 23 precincts were returned that the pattern of Soper, Zajonc and Brown was established.

From there on the pattern did not waiver.

Zajonc speculated his running mate, Kearns, lost a lot of votes to independent candidate, Donald Metivier.

VIP CAMPAIGN manager and a member of the present board of trustees said, "This is a victory for Palatine, not only the VIP Party . . . and for Tom Kearns who helped make it possible.

Precincts where the VIP's carried the vote include No. 2, No. 17, No. 18, No. 22, No. 25, No. 26, No. 27, No. 37, No. 38 and No. 39.

In straight party line voting the GOP's had a slight edge on the incumbent party.

Palatine Girl Scouts Set Paper Drive

Palatine area Girl Scouts will hold a paper drive this weekend at Community Park.

Residents are asked to bring bundled newspapers to the park from 3 to 7 p.m. Friday and from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday. A receiving truck will be in on Saturday.

Scouts request that no magazines be included with the old newspapers.

JUST AFTER THE POLLS closed last night no one was sure who would be the winner as Merwin Soper, left, conscientiously studies the returns. At right, the VIP candidates add precinct results. The end of the evening showed Soper at the top with Brown, far right, and Zajonc, next to him, winning from the VIP ticket. Tom Kearns finished sixth.

Frozen Food Purveyor Has Des Plaines Office

Great Lakes Is 'Existent Company'

Great Lakes Foods Inc., which was criticized by a Hoffman Estates woman at Federal Trade Commission (FTC) hearings last month, does have offices in Des Plaines and Elmwood Park.

In Monday's Herald, it was reported that Great Lakes did not exist. The reports were based on the FTC testimony of Mrs. Clayton Winger of Hoffman Estates and futile attempts to locate the company by the Herald.

Grande Ronconi, manager, said his firm has been in business for nearly six years as a frozen food purveyor at 1517 Ellinwood, Des Plaines.

Ronconi said Great Lakes also has executive offices in Elmwood Park and that Great Lakes "has many satisfied customers and have enjoyed a good business for several years."

ON MARCH 22, Mrs. Winger testified before FTC hearing examiners holding public hearings on door-to-door sales practices. She said Great Lakes did not exist and that she unknowingly signed a contract with the "nonexistent company" which, without her knowing it, sold her contract to a private finance company.

Ronconi said this misunderstanding was due to a "mix up" with the telephone company in Des Plaines, which, he says, failed to change the Great Lakes phone number as requested by the food company management and failed to even list a number with the information service.

"This gave people the impression that we did not exist," he said.

He added that the sale of Mrs. Wiggins contract to Joyce Acceptance Co., a private finance company in Elmwood Park, is standard policy of Great Lakes. "We deal with private lending institutions, that's all there is to it, and this policy is printed on each of our contracts," he said.

"We have been licensed by the city of Des Plaines and certified by the U.S. Department of Agriculture," he said. "We feel this mix up has been most unfortunate."

A PALATINE WOMAN, who preferred to remain unidentified, said she has been a customer of Great Lakes since last March. "I'm satisfied, she said. You do pay more money for Great Lakes frozen food, but you get a much higher quality product."

Jerome Lamet, senior counsel for the FTC in Chicago, said the record is still open for public testimony on the hearings at which Mrs. Winger appeared. "I'm not in a position to reveal if Mrs. Winger's testimony will or will not be investigated by the FTC," he said. Lamet added, however, an investigation is the usual course of action following FTC hearings. The record of Mrs. Winger's testimony is open until April 24 at the Dirksen Federal Building in Chicago.

HE SAID GREAT Lakes has also come to the attention of the FTC through the FTC coordinating committee, which is composed of several agencies, including the Illinois Attorney General's Office and the Bureau of Consumer Fraud.

Lamet said this committee will probably review the Great Lakes operation. And James McPolin, assistant attorney general with the consumer fraud and protection division, said his agency is investigating Great Lakes Foods for 15 possible violations of the Illinois Consumer Fraud Act. He said the alleged violations range from misrepresentation to contract disputes.

Also elected to a six-year term was Thomas H. Smith, 680 N. Benton St. Robert H. Jessen, 155 E. Wood St., was re-elected to a four-year unexpired term he was appointed to fill last year. Jessen ran unopposed.

The only independent candidate seeking a six year term on the board was Mrs. Judith Gamoran, 617 N. Whitcomb Dr. While losing by nearly 200 votes, she said she received more votes than expected.

"This is not bad for a little girl from the cornfields," Mrs. Gamoran said. "I will consider running for the board again."

Although not expecting to win, Mrs. Gamoran said she will check the ballots for voting counting irregularities in the 26th precinct.

In winning, both Mrs. Eilering and Smith said the board's number one item of business will be constructing a new library facility.

Smith also complimented Mrs. Gamoran on the race she ran. She said she ran a very good race as an independent coming within 200 of winning ad 435 votes of the leader, Mrs. Eilering.

GOP Wins Library Seats

Three Republican-backed candidates for the Palatine Library Board were victorious in a tight vote in yesterday's village board elections.

Re-elected for another six-year board term was library board president Mrs. Mabel Eilering, 927 Marsha Dr. She was served on the board for eight years.

Also elected to a six-year term was Thomas H. Smith, 680 N. Benton St. Robert H. Jessen, 155 E. Wood St., was re-elected to a four-year unexpired term he was appointed to fill last year. Jessen ran unopposed.

The only independent candidate seeking a six year term on the board was Mrs. Judith Gamoran, 617 N. Whitcomb Dr. While losing by nearly 200 votes, she said she received more votes than expected.

"This is not bad for a little girl from the cornfields," Mrs. Gamoran said. "I will consider running for the board again."

Although not expecting to win, Mrs. Gamoran said she will check the ballots for voting counting irregularities in the 26th precinct.

In winning, both Mrs. Eilering and Smith said the board's number one item of business will be constructing a new library facility.

Smith also complimented Mrs. Gamoran on the race she ran. She said she ran a very good race as an independent coming within 200 of winning ad 435 votes of the leader, Mrs. Eilering.

Reelect Sundling For Schools Head

Walter Sundling, a Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 board member since 1950, was reelected last week as president of the school board, a position he has held for 15 years.

A resident of Plum Grove Woodlands Sundling is employed by John Nuveen Co., a Chicago investment firm.

Howard Meadows, a board member since 1956, was reelected secretary of the board. Meadows was elected to his sixth term as a board member in the school district contest April 10.

He is a partner of Hewitt Associates of Libertyville, a firm of actuaries and consultants on employee benefits programs, and is an Inverness resident.

In the official canvass of votes in the April 10 election, Meadows, J. Leslie Ehringer, Everett Charlier and Leland "Bud" Gibbs were formally declared winners. Meadows tallied a total of 1,285 votes, Ehringer also 1,285 and Charlier 864 for full three-year terms. Gibbs received 1,333 in his bid for the two-year unexpired term.

SPRING VACATION is over. Maybe your thoughts are now turning to what to have children do this summer. Here's a possibility!

School district 15 will offer a summer school program to children in the district. The program is organized so that it will be state supported. In order to qualify for state aid, each child will have to be enrolled for three hours daily.

Classes will be held from 8:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. A $5.00 book rental fee is required of each child. This will be used to provide books, workbooks, supplies, and other materials. There is no tuition. The transportation fee for those desiring it for the summer term is $10.00. Participating schools include Central Road, Kimball Hill, Plum Grove, Paddock, Virginia Lake, Winston Churchill, and Winston Park. Registration forms may be obtained at the office of any of the schools. Deadline to register is May 3.

Classes include continuing study in reading and math for children in grades one through four who experience no difficulty but wish to practice, maintain and extend their skills. Developmental reading and math will also be offered for children in the same grades who need additional work to strengthen their skills. Both groups will have time for physical education, art and music instruction.

Programs for students enrolled in grades five through eight include instruction in creative writing, journalism, math, reading and science. Lessons in guitar, choral instrumental and string instruments will be offered. A variety of physical education activities are also included.

Children who will be five years of age on or before Dec. 1, 1971 can register their child for kindergarten. Birth certificates are to be presented at the time of registration. Current kindergarten classes will be in session on registration day.

Student Gets Scholarship To Conservation Workshop

Palatine High School sophomore Christopher Conway has received a scholarship from the North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District to attend the Conservation Workshop in Oregon, Ill., this summer.

For a week beginning August 8, Conway will attend the workshop at the Loretto Taft Field Camp of Northern Illinois University. There, he will take courses concerning the natural resources and how they can be conserved.

Some of the courses will take him to nearby White Pines State Forest.

Conway's scholarship from the district is $55. This will cover his tuition at the workshop. He will have to supply his own transportation to Oregon, though.

HE WAS SELECTED for the scholarship by Village Trustee Clay Brown, who was asked by the district to select a student for the award. Brown has contributed toward similar scholarships in the past.

Brown selected Conway because of his work in local ecology and anti-pollution programs.

Conway is president of Palatine's Ecology Club. Last November, he appeared before the Village Board, asking that Palatine establish and conserve local wildlife areas. The Village Board is currently looking into the availability of state funds to acquire wildlife areas.

Currently, Conway and his friend Steve Lyons are working on a plan to collect used glass in Palatine for recycling.

Conway said he felt honored to receive the scholarship. He added that he hopes to get some new ideas at the workshop on conservation that can be applied locally.

Seaman Case Is Continued

Edward Seaman, 22, of 919 N. Fernandez, is to appear back in court on May 21.

He was released on a $5,000 bond on March 23 after Harper safety officers charged him with aggravated battery for allegedly striking a Harper security guard after a brief scuffle between students and officers at the community college.

He allegedly struck an officer identified as Sgt. Terry L. Strey.

Apparently, the scuffle broke out after Seaman supposedly tried to steal a police decal from a display which was part of the college's career day.

In addition, Seaman was charged under the student conduct code with failing to produce a student ID for a college official and failing to obey orders of a college official.

Creek, Fremd Are Reelected

Robert Creek and William Fremd were unanimously reelected Monday night as officers of the High School Dist. 211 board.

Creek, who was reelected to the board last spring and was elected board president at that time, was reelected as board president.

Fremd, a long-term board member who has the distinction of having a high school named after him, was reelected board secretary.

The board also canvassed the election returns from the April 10 election and certified Paul Hughes of Palatine and Robert Seger of Schaumburg as election winners.

Seger gained 1,535 votes and Hughes tallied 1,451 votes. The third candidate for the two board seats, John Sowa of Hoffman Estates, gained 914 votes.

Fremd, following his election as secretary, read a report on the history of Palatine High School, the oldest school in the district.

Jim Huddleston Reelected By 88 In 4th Ward

by DOUG RAY

Ald James Huddleston, who only last week decided to defend his 4th Ward aldermanic seat, was the lone independent candidate elected yesterday, turning back a challenge from two other ward hopefuls.

Huddleston was jubilant at news of his 88-vote victory over Citizens Action Party candidate Richard Schar and an even larger margin over independent Richard Blane.

This should show a machine cannot be built in Rolling Meadows. A candidate must go before the people and give his opinions on the issues," said Huddleston who attributed his election to his interviews and work from 4th Ward residents.

He called his win a "victory for the people of the 4th ward" and their faith in my job on the council.

WHILE HUDDLESTON was celebrating with campaign workers, Mayor Roland Meyer and his Citizens Action Party also talked of their victory.

CAP 1st Ward winner was Thomas Scanlan, who defeated independent Charles Boyer and in the other contested race John Rock beat John (Jack) Reif.

The closest race was in the 3rd ward where Rock edged Reif by 22 votes. With two precincts tabulated Rock was only a two-vote leader but the 3rd precinct gave their support to Rock and maintained his slim margin of victory.

In the 1st Ward, similarly, Boyer and Scanlan were close with the 1st and 3rd precincts counted. More than an hour after all other wards were finalized the 3rd precinct brought in their totals which gave Scanlan a more than 70 vote win.

Scanlan called the 1st Ward campaign hard fought but a good race. He and Boyer had clashed during the campaign on numerous issues.

Reelect Sundling For Schools Head

Walter Sundling, a Palatine Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 board member since 1950, was reelected last week as president of the school board, a position he has held for 15 years.

A resident of Plum Grove Woodlands Sundling is employed by John Nuveen Co., a Chicago investment firm.

Howard Meadors, a board member since 1956, was reelected secretary of the board. Meadors was elected to his sixth term as a board member in the school district contest April 10.

He is a partner of Hewitt Associates of Libertyville, a firm of actuaries and consultants on employee benefits programs, and is an Inverness resident.

In the official canvass of votes in the April 10 election Meadors J. Leslie Ehringer, Everett Charlier and Leland "Bud" Gibbs were formally declared winners. Meadors tallied a total of 1,285 votes. Ehringer also 1,285 and Charlier 884 for full three year terms. Gibbs received 1,333 in his bid for the two-year unexpired term.

The Unofficial Vote Totals

Here are the unofficial tabulations of the votes cast in last night's Rolling Meadows city election.

For the three top unopposed positions
Mayor Roland Meyer 1,500
City Treasurer Robert Cole 1,400
City Clerk Eileen Kornatz 1,463

For the aldermanic positions

Ward One
Thomas Scanlan 276
Charles Boyer 202

Ward Two:
William Ahrens 160

Ward Three:
John Reif 156
John Rock 178

Ward Four:
James Huddleston 235
Richard Blane 140
Richard Schar 147

Ward Five:
Kenneth Retzke 144

CAP HEAD Roland Meyer was elected without opposition tallying 1,500 votes. He called the election of himself, Cole and Kornatz "a good turnout for the top of the ticket."

"It was a good percentage," he said of the CAP near-sweep. "Hard work was the key and he cited the 4th ward as the best campaign."

"I would have preferred a contest in every ward," Meyer said. "Part of Huddleston's victory was undoubtedly his four years with us." Huddleston was elected as a CAP alderman four years ago.

Only about 14 per cent of the registered voters in the 2nd Ward turned out to reelect CAP candidate William Ahrens as their alderman.

Fewer than 700 voters cast ballots for unopposed CAP Kenneth Retzke in the 5th Ward with only 11 ballots cast at the Meadow Trace polling place.

Heavy voter turnout was tabulated in the 1st and 4th wards and slightly less in the 3rd.

Stereo Tape Decks Are Reported Stolen

Rolling Meadows police are investigating three reports of tape player thefts from cars parked in the city.

Doug Stohl reported a stereo-tape player stolen from his car while it was parked at 4655 Kirchoff Road Sunday night.

Harold Hildebrand, 4716 Arbor Dr., told police the tape player in his car was taken sometime Sunday night while it was parked in the lot at Meadow Trace apartment complex.

The tape player was also stolen from Bill Mezmaric's auto while it was parked at 2412 Algonquin Rd. Sunday night.

CHECKING VOTING RETURNS from Rolling Meadows last night is Mayor Roland Meyer who easily won his second term at the helm of the city council.

Unopposed and heading the Citizen's Action Party, Meyer watched all but one candidate on his slate win re-election to the city council at a victory party at the Rolling Meadows Bowl.

Report Expanded Sports, Crafts

Parks Announce Summer Activities

The six-week summer playground recreation program of the Rolling Meadows Park District will be replaced this summer with an eight-week sports and crafts program and a number of instructional activities.

The sports and crafts program open to youngsters in fourth, fifth and sixth grades, will be offered free to residents.

Expansion of the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 summer school curriculum caused a cutback in the park's use of school playground facilities, forcing the park district to alter its summer program.

"We feel we'll be offering a stronger program this year, despite the fewer number of playgrounds," Steve Person, director of recreation for the park district, said.

"The summer school program can't serve all the needs of the kids."

THE SPORTS and crafts program will be offered from 9:30 a.m. to noon Mondays and Wednesdays and from 1 to 3:15 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays at Cardinal Drive and Carl Sandburg Schools. Residents north of Kirchoff would attend the Cardinal Drive program while those south of Kirchoff would go to Sandburg.

Fun Time School, for children in first, second and third grades, which is a lead-in to the sports and crafts program, will be offered from 1 to 3:15 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays and from 9:30 a.m. to noon Tuesdays and Thursdays at the two playgrounds.

The way the summer program is scheduled, students who are enrolled in Dist. 15 summer school would still have the opportunity to sign up for park programs at least two times a week, Person said.

"The sports and crafts program involves a major, long-range craft problem as well as organized sports and athletic competition between the two playgrounds," he said.

THE PROGRAM will run from June 21 to Aug. 12 and will be staffed primarily by college students in the field of education or recreation and "people interested in working with kids," Person said. The summer program also will involve the doubling of the staff to approximately six recreation leaders to a playground.

Unlike previous years, the park summer program will not include seventh and eighth graders, although a number of activities, such as softball, field trips and dances, will be scheduled for them.

The program last year for first through eighth graders was too big to deal with the needs of each grade level," Person said. "You don't need to program much for older kids. They generally lose interest in scheduled activities and can usually find recreation on their own."

BESIDES THE free programming, the park district will offer several lessons to adults and youths on a fee basis. Horseback riding and bowling leagues and lessons will be offered to seventh and eighth graders, tennis and golf lessons for beginners and adults, and possibly a pre-school program and archery lessons.

Special events will be held throughout the summer, such as outdoor movies, a kite flying contest and a marathon basketball game.

Teen trips will also be held, one specifically to the Milwaukee County Fair. Person said. The Free Place Coffee House in the Sports complex will remain open and monthly dances will be held to finance it.

Registration for the summer programming, aside from the summer ice activities at the Sports Complex, will be held June 17 and 18 during regular business hours, and June 19 in the morning at the park district office, 1 Park Meadows Place, Sandburg School and Cardinal Drive School.

Mr. Steak Construction To Begin

Construction of a Mr. Steak family restaurant on Algonquin Road will begin this week, according to Donald Nelson of Rose Construction Company, general contractor of the project.

A representative of the Denver-based restaurant chain, appeared twice before the city plan commission before approval of the commission and the city council was given a month ago.

According to plans for the restaurant, seating capacity will be 128 and no liquor license will be applied for.

With the groundbreaking of Mr. Steak this week, Rolling Meadows' Algonquin Road has been picked as a site for three cafes to be built this year. The new restaurants include the Yodel Inn, and Don Moy Chinese restaurant — as well as the Allgauer's restaurant proposed for a site on Hicks Road.

Student Gets Scholarship To Conservation Workshop

Palatine High School sophomore Christopher Conway has received a scholarship from the North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District to attend the Conservation Workshop in Oregon, Ill., this summer.

For a week beginning August 8, Conway will attend the workshop at the Laredo Taft Field Camp of Northern Illinois University. There, he will take courses concerning the natural resources and how they can be conserved.

Some of the courses will take him to nearby White Pines State Forest.

Conway's scholarship from the district is $55. This will cover his tuition at the workshop. He will have to supply his own transportation to Oregon, though.

HE WAS SELECTED for the scholarship by Village Trustee Clay Brown, who was asked by the district to select a student for the award. Brown has contributed toward similar scholarships in the past.

Brown selected Conway because of his work in local ecology and anti-pollution programs.

Conway is president of Palatine's Ecology Club. Last November, he appeared before the Village Board, asking that Palatine establish and conserve local wildlife areas. The Village Board is currently looking into the availability of state funds to acquire wildlife areas.

Currently, Conway and his friend Steve Lyons are working on a plan to collect used glass in Palatine for recycling.

Conway said he felt honored to receive the scholarship. He added that he hopes to get some new ideas at the workshop on conservation that can be applied locally.

Seaman Case Is Continued

Edward Seaman, 22, of 919 N. Fernandez, is to appear back in court on May 21.

He was released on a $5,000 bond on March 23 after Harper safety officers charged him with aggravated battery for allegedly striking a Harper security guard after a brief scuffle between students and officers at the community college.

He allegedly struck an officer identified as Sgt. Terry L. Strey.

Apparently, the scuffle broke out after Seaman supposedly tried to steal a police decal from a display which was part of the college's career day.

In addition, Seaman was charged under the student conduct code with failing to produce a student ID for a college official and failing to obey orders of a college official.

Creek, who was reelected to the board last spring and was elected board president at that time, was reelected as board president.

Fremd, a long-term board member who has the distinction of having a high school named after him, was reelected board secretary.

The board also canvassed the election returns from the April 10 election and certified Paul Hughes of Palatine and Robert Seger of Schaumburg as election winners.

Seger gained 1,535 votes and Hughes tallied 1,451 votes. The third candidate for the two board seats, John Sowa of Hoffman Estates, gained 914 votes.

Fremd, following his election as secretary, read a report on the history of Palatine High School, the oldest school in the district.

Information concerning the nomination procedures may be obtained by calling the Chamber of Commerce at 358-3327.

All nominations must be postmarked by July 17, 1971, and be sent to National Volunteer Awards, National Center for Voluntary Action, 1735 Eye Street N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

Lyle, Schachner Elected To Park District Board

Max Lyle and incumbent Dennis Schachner were winners in the Prospect Heights Park District board of commissioners election yesterday.

Lyle was the big winner, receiving 257 of the 343 votes cast, followed by Schachner with 189 votes. Tom Talbot, the third candidate, lost with 147 votes. Both Schachner and Lyle were elected to 6-year terms. The other incumbent whose term ended this year, Rosemary Roth, chose not to run again.

Park Board pres. Bill Kuhns termed the election turnout "good," adding it was almost twice the turnout at the last board election in 1969.

"I am very happy Schachner won because he has been a good board member and knows what's going on," Kuhns said. "Now he will be around to help finish some of the things we started." He added, "I am also happy Lyle won because he has the total interest of the community at heart."

Lyle, who lives at 302 E. Willow Rd., is a controller and accounting manager for several companies. He said he was very pleased with the election results, adding he had "a lot of help." Last week he mailed 1,200 letters to almost every home in the district, outlining his goals.

LYLE'S PRIMARY goal is to provide "maximum recreation benefits at the lowest possible cost." He feels he can provide financial assistance to the district because of his professional background. In addition, he would like to establish better communications between the residents of the community and park board. He said he plans to encourage faster development of existing park plans. Schachner, 304 Waterman Ave., is an engineer for the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. He has been a member of the board since the park district was formed four years ago. He advocates developing the larger park sites first and offering more programs for teens and adults once the district has an indoor facility.

Talbot, who owns a company called Corporate Benefit Plans, was endorsed by the Prospect Heights Jaycees of which he is a member. He lives at 8 Marberry Place.

"AND THE LITTLE boy said to the frog . . ." Story School students who are volunteers at Head Start program, playing games and coaching in writing and telling, are some of the tasks of John Hersey High the Arlington Heights station each week.

Koester Resigns Post In Dist. 23

Arthur Koester has resigned as a member of the Dist. 23 School Board. His resignation came following a short executive session at Monday's school board meeting.

Koester, who lives at 201 S. Maple Ln., in Prospect Heights, indicated he decided to resign because he did not have enough time to spend on his board duties. "A school board member has no business being on the board unless he can attend the meetings. The best contribution I can make is to step aside."

Arthur

An American Airlines commercial pilot, Koester said his job forces him to be out of town about 15 days at a time. He handles flights to Mexico and Canada as well as to several cities throughout the United States.

No decision on how to fill the vacancy was made by the board at the meeting Monday. Mel Lacey said the board had two alternatives: to hold a special election to fill the vacancy, or to appoint a replacement.

LACE SAID the decision on how the vacancy would be filled would be made at a future meeting.

Koester, 37, has been a Prospect Heights resident for about 12 years. He was elected to the school board in 1969 after receiving General Caucus endorsement. He is married and has two children.

Koester said that at the time of his election he expected to have enough time for school board membership. He said, that in the last two years, however, the changing requirements of his job have forced him to spend less time on school board functions. "And I may have been a little optimistic about the time necessary," he added.

Who Cares? Hersey High Students Do, Help

by BETSY BROOKER

"About 90 per cent of the old people in the home feel no one cares about them."

"The biggest thing they get out of the program . . . is to just have someone sit and listen to them."

These are not the comments of a social worker or a nurse. They are the reactions of a high school football player Tom White, to a new volunteer program.

Tom and 75 other John Hersey High School students are working in local social service agencies for several hours each week. They are all members of Wilfred Kozlowski's practical sociology class.

Kozlowski introduced the new program at Hersey last fall. This is the first time High School Dist. 214 students have been able to earn academic credit for doing volunteer work on a regular basis.

THE STUDENTS were working at agencies in Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Palatine, Des Plaines and Rolling Meadows. They include Maryville, a home for dependent children; Holy Family Hospital; Little City for the retarded; the Northwest Opportunity Center; the Lutheran Home For the Aged; and three Head Start stations in Wheeling, Palatine and Arlington Heights.

Each student in Kozlowski's class is required to do a project. It may involve a one-shot effort, or, as in the majority of cases, several hours each week in the evening, weekends or during the students' lunch and sociology class time.

Kozlowski designed the volunteer program with two ideas in mind. First, he has faith in the students and believes they are "willing to sacrifice their own time." Second, he believes that education outside the classroom is important and that "the kids want to be a part of their community."

The program is not simply a "nice gesture" according to Kozlowski. "Being a do-gooder isn't enough. You also have to have something to offer." In the case of the students, they are offering tutoring for pre-school and retarded children, instruction in such areas as music and swimming, aid to nurses and hospital patients, clerical work and simple companionship.

"WE DON'T WANT to duplicate functions already in operation in these agencies," said Kozlowski. "We want to supplement existing services." If an agency views the volunteer program as a means to acquire cheap labor rather than as a learning experience for the students, that agency is withdrawn from the program.

Some of the students admit they joined the volunteer program "to get an easy grade." But once they became involved in the program, they said they enjoyed "helping out." And they believe they have become more tolerant and more understanding.

Tom White, a Hersey football player said his work at the Lutheran Home for the Aged has made him more sympathetic towards his own grandfather. He used to get on my nerves because he is hard of hearing, and we always have to yell at him. Now I just hope I am in as good of shape as he is when I am 89."

"Some of the old guys at the home can tell real whoppers," said Tom. "There is one old guy who can wipe the pants off anybody in pool. And another guy gets whistled at by an old lady everytime I walk down the hall with him."

Carol Witthoff has enjoyed her work at the home for the aged so much, she has decided to make social work her career. "I didn't want to go there at first. But the old people accept the kids so well, I changed my attitude. They love to talk to us. There is one man there who tells me about the horse and buggy days. And one of the women used to be Thomas Edison's nurse."

WORKING WITH A much younger age bracket, Scott Palmer said he has also acquired a lot of patience. Scott is helping out in a class for educable mentally handicapped children at John Muir School in Prospect Heights.

"It can get to be frustrating because these children have poor memories," said Scott. "I work with one child at a time and try to teach him something like the color chart."

"I feel satisfied as long as I can see a change in the child," said Scott, who holds a part-time job in addition to his volunteer work. He plans to join the VISTA Program as soon as he graduates from college.

Sheila Zombruski was asked to join the program because she has already served at Holy Family Hospital for three years as a "Cheeri-aide." Her works ranges from helping feed patients to working at the hospital reception desk.

"Since I began working at the hospital, I have grown up a lot," said Sheila, who has totaled more than 700 volunteer hours. "I gained a lot of experience in working with other people. You come across some real individuals in the hospital."

IN THE HEAD START program, Terry Smith is teaching pre-school children from underprivileged families "how to talk English and write their names. The purpose of the program is to make sure these kids aren't 16 when they get out of grade school."

"Some of the kids were really wild when I started," said Terry. "Now they seem like nice kids instead of little creeps. I think the program is a lot of fun and it has helped me learn not to make judgments based on first impressions."

Wheeling Police charged two youths for refusing to leave the grounds of Wheeling High School Monday afternoon. Barry L. Wagada, 20, of 1206 Crabtree Ln., Mount Prospect, was charged with criminal trespass, obstructing a police officer, and resisting arrest. Richard Reddish, 18, of 351 Mors Ave., Wheeling, was charged with criminal trespass.

The youths were arrested by police liaison officer Clarence Trausch after they refused to leave the school grounds. Police had to use force to get Wagada to a counselors office and to handcuff him.

A 15-year-old Wheeling girl was also involved in the confrontation with police but was not charged.

Parish Council Vote May 9

St. Raymond Catholic Church parishioners may soon elect a parish council to make decisions and co-ordinate various church and school organizations.

Copies of a constitution outlining such a council will be distributed Sunday at the church, 311 S. I-Oka Ave., Mount Prospect. Parishioners will then be asked to vote May 9 on having a council, according to Guy Marsh, member of the council information committee.

The council would consist of elected representatives, two from each of eight geographical districts that have been drawn up by the council planning committee. Some members of the clergy and the nuns teaching at the school would also be a part of the council, according to Marsh.

If the constitution is ratified, elections for representatives will be held early in June. Parishioners 18 years old and over will be eligible to vote and be a member of the council.

MARSH SAID the council would coordinate the activities of parish committees such as those on finance, adult education, and children religious education. He said the school board would also have to answer to the council.

"This way various organizations can do their work more effectively," Marsh said. "They have been doing their jobs in the past and doing them well but the council could make decisions that committees might not want to make themselves."

For example, if the economics of the parish would force us to close down the school, the finance committee would probably not want to be responsible for that decision," Marsh said. He said the council "would more democratically represent the whole parish."

He said generating of new ideas for improvement of the parish, presenting solutions to parish problems and serving as a forum for parish ideas would also be the job of the council. He said the council would first consider the recommendations of all committees before taking action.

MEMBERS OF THE parish are now conducting a "Make It Happen" information campaign to inform parishioners before the ratification date.

Marsh said a parish council has worked in various parishes in the Chicago area and lets every member of the parish "share in the authority and responsibility for the many decisions that must be made regularly by every parish." St. James Catholic Church in Arlington Heights currently has a parish council.

He said the planning committees and information are "optimistic" that the parish council will be ratified. He said he would like to see a large vote "to show parish support."

2 Prospect Students To Compete In Science Fair

Two Prospect High School students will compete in the Illinois state science fair May 8.

Freshman Robert Quinn and junior Rick Schultz can enter their projects because both won first places at the district science fair held at Wheeling Township High School recently. Schultz also won one of the four awards for outstanding projects at the district fair.

Quinn's winning project dealt with the effects of mutant bacteria. Schultz's project was a small computer to show memory core principles, according to chemistry teacher Paul Gates.

THE STATE SCIENCE FAIR will be held at the University of Illinois in Urbana.

Gates said if either of the boys place high in state competition, they will go on to the national finals.

Gates said ribbons are given as awards in state competition, but if a project is chosen as outstanding, industrial firms may present the winner with some form of college scholarship.

Two other Prospect students won awards at the district fair in competition with high schools from Cook County. Steve Scheibel, freshman, won a second place for his project on infant mice and Gary Kremer, freshman, won a third place for his project on infant mice and of colored lights on growing plants.

Prospect High School is located at 801 Kensington Rd. in Mount Prospect.

Students Step-Up Anti-Pollution Activities

Earth Week started Sunday and students in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 are stepping up their anti-pollution activities.

Yesterday students at Lincoln Junior High School, 700 W. Lincoln St., went door-to-door to deliver pamphlets with tips on conservation in the home. The pamphlets were made and printed by students in Mike Jetel's contemporary problems class.

A class collection drive started Monday at the school and will continue until Friday. Residents are asked to bring bottles, without caps and labels, to the containers that have been set outside near the entrances of the schools. The glass will be delivered to a recycling firm at a penny per pound. The money will be used to buy a tree for the school, according to Principal Dwight Hall.

AT WESTBROOK School, 105 S. Busse Rd., students are conducting a poster and slogan contest in their fight against pollution. Fifth graders in Harriet Reid's class will go on a scavenger hunt for visual pollution and clean up the school yard and a section of Weller Creek.

Students at Sunset Park School, 601 W. Lonnquist Blvd., will see films on water and air pollution this week at Lions Park School, 300 E. Council Tr., social studies and science classes will be "studying the earth, what man has done to it and what can be done to help," according to principal Robert Ferguson.

Paper Drive Slated

A paper drive will be held in the northwest portion of Mount Prospect the morning of May 8 by Boy Scout Troop 23.

The area where the drive will be conducted is bounded by Main Street, Kensington Road, Northwest Highway and Phelps Avenue.

Those who want to donate newspapers can leave them by the curb the morning of May 8. No magazines will be taken.

Rash Of Stereo Thefts Continue In Village

Stereo equipment valued at more than $300 was reportedly stolen from two cars parked in the lot behind the apartment buildings on 1100 Cottonwood Ln., Mount Prospect.

Mark Withey told police a stereo tape deck, seven tapes and a tachometer were stolen from his car. Value of the stolen property was estimated at about $250.

Police said burglars gained entry to Withey's car by breaking a vent window on the passenger's side of the auto.

Ronald Andrews told police 13 stereo tapes were also stolen from his car Monday night. Andrews estimated the loss at about $60.

Thieves jimmied a vent window to gain entry to the car.

Welfare Cases Double In Last Year

Township officials nearly outnumbered the electors Tuesday night at the annual meeting of Wheeling Township, conducted at Hersey High School, 1900 E. Thomas St., Arlington Heights.

In a brief meeting, Township Supervisor Ethel Kolerus and Assessor Marshall Theroux presented annual reports on township activities.

Mrs. Kolerus, noting controversy over centralized government for all of Cook County as opposed to decentralized local government in the suburbs, told the 14 electors in the audience that Wheeling Township "experienced a marked increase of activity" in the past year.

She reported that township welfare cases more than doubled, from 222 in 1969-70 to 469 in 1970-71.

She also reported that voter registration at the Town Hall, 1818 E. Northwest Hwy., had tripled during the year. Township Clerk Dorothy Hauff explained that this was due chiefly to changes in the law which allow year-round registration at the Town Hall, previously only allowed at the County Building in Chicago. Voter registration in the township is now closed only for a 30-day period preceding a general election.

MRS. KOLERUS reported that the township population was put at 119,218 in the 1970 census, as compared to 56,910 in 1960. This figure means that Wheeling Township now has a greater population than 92 of the state's 103 counties, according to Mrs. Kolerus.

Theroux reported that the assessor's office has established a complete file of assessment records on all 33,000 land parcels in the township. For the first time, he said, information on the size and value of land parcels, the assessed valuation and type and age of improvements on the land can be obtained without visiting the County Building.

He also said that land valued at more than $424,000, previously omitted had been added to the tax rolls, representing tax revenue of $45,000 not previously collected.

Theroux said this land had been included

School Land Can't Be Sold: Attorney

The Mount Prospect Dist. 57 school board cannot go through with plans to sell a small piece of land near Lincoln Jr. High School, 700 W. Lincoln St.

J. C. Busenhart, business manager told board members Monday night that the land has been designated for "public use only" and cannot be sold. The land was donated by its owner to the village. The village then turned it over to the school district.

Busenhart said the district would build a fence and bushes on the property, an approximately 40 by 60 foot easement from We-Go Tr. into the Lincoln School grounds. Residents living near the land had asked to buy the land from the district.

UVP Candidates Are Winners In Trustee Races

The three United Village Party candidates, George Anderson, Richard Monroe and Kenneth Scholten, have all won posts on the Mount Prospect Village Board.

In winning the three trustee posts in yesterday's election, the UVP candidates successfully stood off challenges from two independents, Richard Hendricks and incumbent Lloyd Norris.

Unofficial returns last night showed Anderson as the biggest winner with 2,344 votes. Second was Monroe with 2,178 votes. Scholten finished third with 1,969 votes.

Hendricks, who finished fourth, trailed Scholten by almost 400 votes. He received 1,569 votes. Norris, currently a village trustee, finished last with 1,148 votes.

In all there were 3,336 votes cast, about 21.5 per cent of the total number of registered voters in the village.

JOE GRITTANI, UVP campaign manager and a veteran of Mayor Robert Teichert's 1969 campaign, had predicted that about 20 per cent of the village's 15,641 voters would cast ballots. "I was really concerned about the apathy in this election. One thing it proves is that Bob's administration is doing a good job."

Teichert had been involved with organizing the slate and selecting the candidates. Last Friday he officially announced his endorsement of the slate.

Anderson, 35, of 1005 W. Isabella St., is the director of engineering for the Village of Niles. He has served on the Mount Prospect Clean Streams and Drainage Commission. Monroe, 45, lives at 1801 Bonita Ave. Monroe, a data processing manager, served as Mount Prospect's village clerk from 1965 through 1969. Scholten is currently the coordinator of the Community Action Plan, a project to deal with drug use and abuse in the community. Scholten, 26, lives at 1720 Estates Dr. He is a credit manager for Superior Concrete Inc.

Once the unofficial returns began coming in, there was little doubt the slate would win. When the first precinct totals were reported, the three United Village Party candidates jumped into the lead.

With three precincts, the third, eighth and twelfth, reporting, Anderson was the leading candidate with 492 votes. Second was Monroe with 442. Scholten had received 388 votes at that point. Running fourth in the early tabulations was Hendricks with 258 votes. Norris was trailing with 237.

AFTER THE UNOFFICIAL results were in, Hendricks, who was running as an independent, said, "All I can say is I worked as hard as I could in this election to become victorious, and I am not sorry for getting into the campaign as I did. The voters made their choices, and it proves that I was not as strong as the organization was."

"I am very thankful to the people who did help me in the campaign, and I want to thank them for the good showing I did make the comparison to the opposition I faced."

During the campaign, Hendricks had received the endorsement of Trustee Daniel Ahern who lives near Hendricks in the Fairview Gardens subdivision.

Norris in a statement last night after the results were announced, congratulated the winners, but criticized the voter apathy in the election.

NORRIS SAID, "The apathy to me is really appalling." He said he did not plan to run again: "If the voters aren't interested, neither am I." Norris had served as village trustee from 1967 to 1961 and was defeated in a reelection bid in 1961. He returned to the village board in November 1969 when he was appointed to fill a vacancy.

Also in yesterday's elections, two new members of the Mount Prospect Library Board were elected. They were Mary Ellen Brady and Robert Nordli. Running unopposed, they will replace outgoing board members Mary Berg and Mary Clark. Voting totals in that election were not available at Herald press time.

UVP Never Had Doubt Of Victory

No one at the United Village Party headquarters last night doubted that his three candidates would be elected to public office.

UVP teammates George Anderson, Richard Monroe and Kenneth Scholten were swept into office by a two-to-one vote margin over opponents Richard Hendricks and Lloyd Norris, an incumbent trustee.

Anderson, who scored highest in the five-man race for village trustee, earned himself an impressive political victory as well as one of the best birthday parties in 35 years. The 35-year-old trustee-elect turned crimson red as his colleagues, campaign workers and wife mixed choruses of "Happy Birthday" and "For They're Jolly Good Fellows."

More than 150 UVP-backers were on hand last night to cheer the slate to victory. They began gathering at the Anderson residence at about 6:30 p.m. — just 30 minutes after the 14 polling places had closed the doors on the 1971 election.

At 6:25 p.m. the first precinct reported in with a discouraging tally. Only six per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots in the election for village trustees. UVP campaign manager Joe Grittani posted Precinct 12's results on the election chart as Penny Anderson, George's wife, rolled up her sleeves above the elbow and prepared a buffet of boiled ham, potato salad and jello salad.

A crowd of 150 happy, UVP campaign workers drifted into the candidates' headquarters at varying intervals — depending on when the election judges in their precincts had finished counting the votes.

Grittani, perched on a folding chair, continued to scribble the vote totals on the UVP chart as campaign workers reported in to headquarters. Votes for Hendricks and Norris were graphed with concern but without pomp and circumstance. Votes for the three UVP candidates were accompanied by cheers from the audience.

At 7:25 p.m. and with the results of seven of 14 precincts counted, the UVP slate was within moments of a victory no one doubted. Six minutes later, Precinct Two put the race out of reach as voters handed all three candidates at least 200 votes each.

Tom Leo, UVP publicity chairman and official scorer, waited politely until Hendricks' territory — Precinct 13 — reported its count before claiming victory for the United Village Party.

At 7:36 p.m. with the victory on ice, Leo announced the results to an audience who was already busy partying and slapping the backs of the candidates as well as campaign workers.

School Evacuated; Fire Extinguished

Students, election judges and voters were evacuated from St. Emily's Catholic School in Mount Prospect yesterday morning when a small fire broke out in a closet.

The fire started in a rubbish barrel located in a janitor's closet in the southwest corner of the building. The cause of the fire is undetermined.

Fire Lt. Stu McKillop said the fire was extinguished within a few minutes. The fire was reported at 11:16 a.m. The closet and corridor were damaged by smoke, according to McKillop.

Everyone in the school had been evacuated from the building before firemen arrived on the scene. Classes and voting were resumed shortly after the fire was extinguished.

St. Emily's School was the polling place yesterday for residents of Precinct 13. Voters were casting ballots for three village trustees and two library directors at the time of the fire.

No one was injured in the incident, according to firemen.

Parish Council Vote May 9

St. Raymond Catholic Church parishioners may soon elect a parish council to make decisions and co-ordinate various church and school organizations. Copies of a constitution outlining such a council will be distributed Sunday at the church, 311 S. I-Oka Ave., Mount Prospect. Parishioners will then be asked to vote May 9 on having a council, according to Guy Marsh, member of the council information committee.

The council would consist of elected representatives, two from each of eight geographical districts that have been drawn up by the council planning committee. Some members of the clergy and the nuns teaching at the school would also be a part of the council, according to Marsh.

If the constitution is ratified, elections for representatives will be held early in June. Parishioners 18 years old and over will be eligible to vote and be a member of the council.

MARSH SAID the council would coordinate the activities of parish committees such as those on finance, adult education, and children religious education. He said the school board would also have to answer to the council.

"This way various organizations can do their work more effectively," Marsh said. "They have been doing their jobs in the past and doing them well but the council could make decisions that committees might not want to make themselves."

For example, if the economics of the parish would force us to close down the school, the finance committee would probably not want to be responsible for that decision," Marsh said. He said the council "would more democratically represent the whole parish."

He said generating of new ideas for improvement of the parish, presenting solutions to parish problems and serving as a forum for parish ideas would also be the job of the council. He said the council would first consider the recommendations of all committees before taking action.

MEMBERS OF THE parish are now conducting a "Make It Happen" information campaign to inform parishioners before the ratification date.

Marsh said a parish council has worked in various parishes in the Chicago area and lets every member of the parish "share in the authority and responsibility for the many decisions that must be made regularly by every parish." St. James Catholic Church in Arlington Heights currently has a parish council.

He said the planning committees and information are "optimistic" that the parish council will be ratified. He said he would like to see a large vote "to show parish support."

2 Prospect Students To Compete In Science Fair

Two Prospect High School students will compete in the Illinois state science fair May 8.

Freshman Robert Quinn and junior Rick Schultz can enter their projects because both won first places at the district science fair held at Wheeling Township High School recently. Schultz also won one of the four awards for outstanding projects at the district fair.

Quinn's winning project dealt with the effects of mutant bacteria. Schultz's project was a small computer to show memory core principles, according to chemistry teacher Paul Gates.

THE STATE SCIENCE FAIR will be held at the University of Illinois in Urbana. Gates said if either of the boys place high in state competition, they will go on to the national finals.

Gates said ribbons are given as awards in state competition, but if a project is chosen as outstanding, industrial firms may present the winner with some form of college scholarship.

Two other Prospect students won awards at the district fair in competition with high schools from Cook County. Steve Scheibel, freshman, won a second place for his project on infant mice and Gary Kremer, freshman, won a third place for his project on infant mice and of colored lights on growing plants.

Prospect High School is located at 801 Kensington Rd. in Mount Prospect.

Students Step-Up Anti-Pollution Activities

Earth Week started Sunday and students in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 are stepping up their anti-pollution activities.

Yesterday students at Lincoln Junior High School, 700 W. Lincoln St., went door-to-door to deliver pamphlets with tips on conservation in the home. The pamphlets were made and printed by students in Mike Jeter's contemporary problems class.

A class collection drive started Monday at the school and will continue until Friday. Residents are asked to bring bottles, without caps and labels, to the containers that have been set outside near the entrances of the schools. The glass will be delivered to a recycling firm at a penny per pound. The money will be used to buy a tree for the school, according to Principal Dwight Hall.

AT WESTBROOK School, 105 S. Busse Rd., students are conducting a poster and slogan contest in their fight against pollution. Fifth graders in Harriet Reid's class will go on a scavenger hunt for visual pollution and clean up the school yard and a section of Weller Creek. Students at Sunset Park School, 601 W. Lonnquist Blvd., will see films on water and air pollution this week at Lions Park School, 300 E. Council Tr., social studies and science classes will be "studying the earth, what man has done to it and what can be done to help," according to principal Robert Ferguson.

Paper Drive Slated

A paper drive will be held in the northwest portion of Mount Prospect the morning of May 8 by Boy Scout Troop 23.

The area where the drive will be conducted is bounded by Main Street, Kensington Road, Northwest Highway and Phelps Avenue.

Those who want to donate newspapers can leave them by the curb the morning of May 8. No magazines will be taken.

Rash Of Stereo Thefts Continue In Village

Stereo equipment valued at more than $300 was reportedly stolen from two cars parked in the lot behind the apartment buildings on 1100 Cottonwood Ln., Mount Prospect.

Mark Withey told police a stereo tape deck, seven tapes and a tachometer were stolen from his car. Value of the stolen property was estimated at about $250.

Police said burglars gained entry to Withey's car by breaking a vent window on the passenger's side of the auto.

Ronald Andrews told police 13 stereo tapes were also stolen from his car Monday night. Andrews estimated the loss at about $80.

Thieves jimmied a vent window to gain entry to the car.

Reception Attracts VIPs

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., are among the Illinois political figures expected to attend a May 2 reception honoring Elk Grove Township Republican Committeewoman Mrs. Florence Luckner.

GOP Committeeman Carl R. Hansen yesterday said he expects Ogilvie, Percy, U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-Ill., and Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott to help observe Mrs. Luckner's 30th year as Republican committeewoman.

The reception will be held at the Navarone Restaurant in Elk Grove Township between 2 and 5 p.m.

Mrs. Gordon Bairdin, reception chairman, announced formation of a reception committee which includes top political figures from the Northwest suburbs.

Among them are Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington; Rep. David J. Reigner, R-Mount Prospect; Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights; and Cook County Commissioner Floyd T. Fuller of Des Plaines.

ALSO ON THE committee are the mayors of five communities in Elk Grove Township: John J. Walsh, Arlington Heights; Robert D. Teichert, Mount Prospect; Herbert H. Behrel, Des Plaines; Jack Pahl, Elk Grove Village; and Roland J. Meyer, Rolling Meadows.

donald, a delegate at last year's Illinois Constitutional Convention; Harold Harvey, president of the North Point State Bank; and all elected township officials in Elk Grove Township.

Tickets for the reception are $10 and maybe obtained from arrangements chairman, Mrs. Marilyn Hetzel, 1707 Fernandez, Arlington Heights.

2 Youths Charged With Trespass

Wheeling Police charged two youths for refusing to leave the grounds of Wheeling High School Monday afternoon.

Barry L. Wagada, 20, of 1206 Crabtree Ln., Mount Prospect, was charged with criminal trespass, obstructing a police officer, and resisting arrest. Richard Reddish, 18, of 351 Mors Ave., Wheeling, was charged with criminal trespass.

The youths were arrested by police liaison officer Clarence Trausch after they refused to leave the school grounds.

Police had to use force to get Wagada to a counselors office and to handcuff him.

A 15-year-old Wheeling girl was also involved in the confrontation with police but was not charged.

Welfare Cases Double In Last Year

Township officials nearly outnumbered the electors Tuesday night at the annual meeting of Wheeling Township, conducted at Hershey High School, 1900 E. Thomas St., Arlington Heights.

In a brief meeting, Township Supervisor Ethel Kolerus and Assessor Marshall Theroux presented annual reports on township activities.

Mrs. Kolerus, noting controversy over centralized government for all of Cook County as opposed to decentralized local government in the suburbs, told the 14 electors in the audience that Wheeling Township "experienced a marked increase of activity" in the past year.

She reported that township welfare cases more than doubled, from 222 in 1969-70 to 489 in 1970-71.

She also reported that voter registration at the Town Hall, 1818 E. Northwest Hwy., had tripled during the year. Township Clerk Dorothy Hauff explained that this was due chiefly to changes in the law which allow year-round registration at the Town Hall, previously only allowed at the County Building in Chicago. Voter registration in the township is now closed only for a 30-day period preceding a general election.

MRS. KOLERUS reported that the township population was put at 119,218 in the 1970 census, as compared to 58,910 in 1960. This figure means that Wheeling Township now has a greater population than 92 of the state's 103 counties, according to Mrs. Kolerus.

Theroux reported that the assessor's office has established a complete file of assessment records on all 33,000 land parcels in the township. For the first time, he said, information on the size and value of land parcels, the assessed valuation and type and age of improvements on the land can be obtained without visiting the County Building.

He also said that land valued at more than $424,000, previously omitted had been added to the tax rolls, representing tax revenue of $45,000 not previously collected.

Theroux said this land had been includ-

School Land Can't Be Sold: Attorney

The Mount Prospect Dist. 57 school board cannot go through with plans to sell a small piece of land near Lincoln Jr. High School, 700 W. Lincoln St.

J. C. Busenhart, business manager of board members Monday night that the land has been designated for "public use only" and cannot be sold. The land was donated by its owner to the village. The village then turned it over to the school district.

Busenhart said the district would build a fence and bushes on the property, an approximately 40 by 60 foot easement from We-GO Tr. into the Lincoln School grounds. Residents living near the land had asked to buy the land from the district.

Arlington Heights Rd. Parking Ban OK'd By Trustees

The Arlington Heights Board of Trustees voted Monday night to prohibit parking on Arlington Heights Road, an action they had attempted to take at two previous meetings.

The ordinance will not be enforced until no-parking signs are erected.

The parking prohibition includes three exceptions proposed by Trustee Frank Palmatier. The village Safety Commission, after a series of hearings on the question recommended the board prohibit parking on the whole length of the road without exception.

At earlier meetings, Palmatier had expressed fear that absolute prohibitions on parking in front of two churches and some single-family homes would work a hardship on residents.

HE PROPOSED that parking be eliminated on Arlington Heights Road except Sunday and after 6 p.m. Saturday at three locations—Olive Street to 150 feet north of Oakton Street; between Frederick Street and Hawthorne Street and between Grove Street and Rockwell Street.

Elsewhere along the road, there will be no parking at any time.

The board, with Trustee Burt Thompson absent, had earlier deadlocked on the question of granting the exceptions to the parking ban. The action was postponed until Monday's meeting when all trustees could be present.

After brief discussion, in which trustee Dwight Walton said he believed the total ban was necessary and should not be "eased into little by little," Thompson said he thought the total ban was not necessary immediately and exceptions would prevent inconvenience to residents.

The measure then passed, 4-3. Walton, Charles Bennett and George Burlingame voted against the exceptions.

IN OTHER ACTION, the board upheld recommendations of the Village Plan Commission and the Zoning Board of Appeals to deny rezoning for construction of a car wash at 211 W. Rand Road.

Discussion on the car wash, centered on how that area, now entirely single-family homes, can best be converted to business use.

The area, trustees agreed, is bound to become a business district since it is directly across the street from the new Korvette store.

However, Walton pointed out a plan for Rand Road developed by Village Planner Joe Kesler proposed larger planned developments and retail shops for the area.

He said that in developing areas of the village, the trustees should not "give in too easily" by approving developments that they do not think are the best use for the land.

"Sometimes I think in the overall development of an area we just have to play the waiting game," he said.

Village Pres. Jack alsh also noted the car wash, which would also have gasoline pumps, required a variation from zoning ordinances. "I'm concerned that the first thing we do is grant a variation of special use," he said.

The board then voted to disapprove the proposed development.

Program Is Expanded

Panel To Save School Music Eyes 2 Steps

by WANDALYN RICE

Members of the committee seeking to preserve instrumental music in Arlington Heights School, Dist. 25 will be working this week to accomplish two things.

The committee, composed of teachers, parents and a representative of the National Guild of Community Music Schools, must find out how many students would be interested in continuing in music if it were financed by donations. A group of concerned parents must formally organize themselves, according to Al Holt, principal of Patton School and administrative member of the committee.

The steps will be in preparation for presentation to a meeting of the Board of Education next Monday night.

Also, Holt said, he will be meeting with instrumental music teachers now in the district to work out possible scheduling to continue for next year.

The biggest problem, Holt said, will be scheduling in the junior high schools, where students must be released from classes for music instruction.

THE BOARD voted last month to eliminate the entire instrumental music program for next year, including band and Suzuki violin instruction, after Circuit Court ruling that corporate personal property tax is unconstitutional.

The present music program has approximately 1,500 students ranging from kindergarten through eighth grade and costs the district approximately $100,000, district officials have said. Nine teachers, including four tenured teachers who are assigned to each junior high school, are now employed in the program.

A proposal tentatively submitted to the school board at its organizational meeting Monday night calls for instrumental music to be continued next year by cooperation between an interested parent group, the Music Center of the North Shore, a nonprofit organization located in Winnetka which is affiliated with the National Guild of Community Music Schools, and the school district.

The proposal, drawn up over Easter vacation by Holt's committee, calls for the parent group to collect donations for the program, the Music Center to screen and hire teachers and the school district to rent facilities for the program.

DONATIONS WOULD be voluntary and any child could take the music classes whether or not his parents had contributed, under the plan.

Supt. Donald Strong told the board that, in addition to small group instrumental instruction which would be provided by the voluntary system, it might be possible to assign the four junior high school instrumental music teachers, who will be staying in the district with other assignments, to band practices during junior high school activity periods.

Strong told the board, "I'm sure it's not as easy as it sounds," but added that he was sure the plan was legal.

Board members expressed concern the parents' group might start the program and then not have the funds to continue it for a full year. In this case, Strong said, "It would just dissolve. The district could not pick it up if it fails."

The administration and the committee working on the plan was directed by the board to bring in more information on how it would work.

Board member William Beck said, "We should put together the cons on the program. We need all the facts on the table before we make a decision."

Anti-Viatorian Forces 'Work Within System'

(Editor's Note: The following is the third article in a Herald Series entitled: "The Viatorian Proposal: One Year Later.")

by SANDRA J. BROWNING

During the months of preparation of plans for the 15 acres of Viatorian property, activity of proponents calmed down but the anti-Viatorian forces were hard at work.

In previous months, the Concerned Metropolitan Citizens Committee (CMCC) had played the role of advocate, issuing public statements and requesting the Arlington Heights Village Board to take action.

In the meantime, the anti-Viatorian forces hadn't been just sitting around. Apparently tired of merely reacting to CMCC proposals, leaders took matters into their own hands and decided to "work within the system."

The system was the Caucus method of selecting candidates for the village board and, in retrospect, it became a carefully planned procedure.

THE STAKES IN the election were high ones—a majority of the village board, four members, were to be chosen April 6. Apparently trying to assure the Viatorian project would never be approved, opponents worked towards controlling the Caucus system which had been successful in all instances except one in electing its candidates to the village board.

The first hint that Viatorian opponents would try to take over the Caucus came on Nov. 16 when a meeting of homeowner association presidents was held at the home of Howard Kagay, president of the Arlington Estates Homeowner Association, publicly opposed the project.

The leaders of homeowner associations were invited by Michael Murray, president of the Greater Eastwood Community Association, another group which had opposed the project.

The meeting was reportedly a strategy session to assure the election of certain individuals to the candidate recommendation committee and election of the chairman of that committee, according to one source. Various sources later confirmed that this was the reason the meeting was called.

Various individuals denied there was going to be such a meeting, including Murray and Eugene Griffin, then president of the Ivy Hill Civic Association.

LATER IN THE month, Murray was elected vice chairman of the Caucus and in January, Griffin became a Caucus endorsed candidate for the village board.

The showdown at the first Caucus meeting showed the anti-Viatorian forces to be strong and successful. Alfred Lindsey, 1819 E. Robinhood Ln., was elected

He Licked 'Em By Joining Them

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of three stories on the three newly elected members of the Board of Education of Arlington Heights Dist. 25. All three, who were endorsed by the nominating caucus, were unopposed in the April 19 election.)

by WANDALYN RICE

Four years ago Robert Kazlauskis began going to school board meetings as an "adversary" because he was disturbed by "all kinds of wild rumors" he had heard about what was going on in the schools.

He found out, he says now, that the rumors were unfounded and he stayed around the school district until someone asked him to run for the board himself.

"I was chairman of the school caucus then and I didn't think it would be appropriate at the time," he explains, "but I really began thinking about running."

So this year he ran and was elected to the board.

Although he had no opposition in the election, he did work hard in another campaign — the unsuccessful one to pass a tax rate increase in the district.

"I'M NOT SURPRISED that the referendum failed," he says, "but I am surprised by the margin. The defeat will definitely mean more work for the new board."

He and fellow candidate Joan Klusmann were invited to sit in on the executive sessions which followed the referendum defeat as the board wrestled with the problem of making budget cuts.

While he sat in on the meetings, Kazlauskis said, he occasionally thought about the voters he knew who say there is a lot of "fat" and "frills" in the district. "I wish the people who know where all the fat is would come forward," he says.

Participating in the meetings, he says, have given him a perspective an observer at board meetings does not get. "Each time I go to a meeting and have a chance to discuss things it opens new vistas."

HE IS SURE THAT sometime within his three-year term, probably sooner rather than later, the district will hold another referendum, but he has no specific date in mind.

"I've heard every month mentioned as a referendum date from now 'til the coming June. My own feeling is that unless the economy turns around I don't think we'll have much of a chance," he says.

Once, he says, he was a believer in the "three R's" type of education and was skeptical about many of the new programs in the schools. However, exposure to the district has changed his mind.

"YOU TEND TO think of some programs as, 'That's nice, but who needs it' until you realize that you are reaching kids in that program you can't reach any other way."

The cuts that have been made for the 1971-72 school year, are difficult to measure over the short-range, he says.

"The impact of some of these things, like the eight administrators, will be long-range," he says.

One thing that will be noticed immediately, he says, is an increase in class size. "There are different opinions about whether that's bad. Personally I don't like it because it gets away from individualized instruction," he says.

One of the biggest questions that came up during the referendum campaign was that of increased state aid to schools.

"WE HAVE TO convince the legislature of the need and we have to bring pressure through ordinary citizens as well as educators," he says. "It is going to take a public outcry to change the priorities of the state."

He says he isn't sure if the increased attendance at board meetings since the loss of the referendum means that long-term pressure groups are forming in the district but, "I like to see people interested. It gets lonely at board meetings sometimes."

Cultural Unit To Eye Theater Consultant

Members of the Arlington Heights Cultural Commission will meet tonight to decide whether they want to "beat a dead horse."

The meeting is the first official gathering of commissioners since the commission's request to hire a theater consultant was turned down by the finance committee of the Arlington Heights Village Board.

The commission will have to decide what it will do because of the village board's refusal to follow the commission's recommendation. The possible courses of action include the commission going into hibernation, meeting only occasionally until funds for a theater consultant, about $8,000, become available.

Commissioners could also decide to disband, recommending another commission be formed when and if a cultural center becomes a higher priority item on the village board's list.

THE COMMISSION originally made the request for funds to hire George Izenour, a renowned theater consultant who has worked on planning cultural centers throughout the country. After more than a year of research, commissioners discovered some type of rough plan for a center was needed before a study could be done on possible private sources of financing.

Previous to the refusal of funds, which was made because of other "pressing" priorities, the commissioners discussed what they might do if the funds were not made available. Commissioners generally agreed they had gone as far as they could without professional help. One commissioner said he didn't want to keep having cultural commission meetings "just to say we're having meetings."

Today's meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Penn Elected Board Head

James Penn, five-year veteran of the Dist. 25 Board of Education, will serve as president of the board for the next year.

Penn was elected to the position Monday night at the organizational meeting of the board. He is serving his second term on the board, which he joined in 1966.

Penn, who lives at 2211 N. Champlain, is a vice president of American National Bank and Trust of Chicago.

Also at the organizational meeting, the board abolished the year-old post of vice president of the board. The vice president presided over board meetings in the absence of the president.

Until last year the board elected a president pro-tem at any meeting where the president is absent and it will return to that system for the coming year.

Penn served as vice president of the board for the past year.

The election of the president and elimination of the vice president came after the 1970-71 board dissolved itself at 7:35 p.m. The new board convened at 8 p.m. following a private discussion among new board members.

The 1971-72 board includes newly elected members Joan Klusmann and Robert Kazlauskis and reelected incumbent Clayton Sauers.

Hospital Escapee

A 13-year-old Arlington Heights boy, who had walked away from Elgin State Hospital over the weekend, was apprehended by Arlington Heights police yesterday after an extensive search.

Police began their search for the youth, whose name is being withheld because of his age, after they received word that he was at Miner Junior High School and had threatened school officials.

Detective Rodney Kath, police juvenile officer, said the boy had purchased a knife at a store in the Arlington Market shopping center, but had it taken away from him after he left the school by an unidentified person.

Several police cars combed the area around the school for more than an hour after receiving the report in search of the boy. He was eventually found by Patrolman Robert Atkinson at the train station and was apprehended by plainclothes detectives.

Kath said the boy will be held at the police station until a decision is made at the hospital today on the best way to obtain proper treatment for the boy.

Anti-Viator Plan Arises

to the chairmanship of the candidate recommendation committee Lindsey was an active member of the Arlington Terrace Homeowners Association, the group which had sent a letter to the plan commission in the fall opposing developments such as Viator.

Previous to the November Caucus meeting, Lindsey was identified as the man who would be nominated and backed by anti-Viatorian forces.

The election of Lindsey was a surprise to old-time Caucus supporters, because he defeated Sidney Rosenfeld, an active supporter of the Caucus system.

The second victory for the anti-Viatorian forces was the passing of an amendment to the Caucus' statement of purpose which is binding on all candidates selected by the system.

NOW CALLED THE "Murray amendment" because Murray proposed it, the addition to the statement of purpose of candidates read, "To maintain the single-family nature of the community and to protect residential areas by prohibiting the use of spot zoning for multi-family units in these areas."

The wording of the amendment sounded like a power play by anti-Viatorian forces to assure that any candidates endorsed by the Caucus would be opposed to Viator. The amendment was passed by a close margin.

The events of the November Caucus meeting caused concern on the part of many long time Caucus supporters. However, they still felt the candidate selection committee was fairly composed and would not be aimed at just finding candidates who would oppose Viator.

Any doubt about the anti-Viatorian forces ability to rally support were put to rest at the Jan. 24 slating meeting of the Caucus.

ALTHOUGH A wide range of candidates were nominated, the slate was picked on an unprecedented first ballot. Also for the first time in Caucus history voters at the meeting rejected two incumbents, James Ryan and Charles Bennett.

This second meeting convinced the "old guard" of the Caucus that something had happened.

First, more than 827 ballots were cast during the session. In 1969, the Caucus slating session showed a total of 423 ballots cast for village board members. In 1967, the total was 541.

Also, in previous years, the selection of candidates had gone on for hours, with many ballots needed before the final slate was picked. The four candidates this year were selected on one ballot. In 1969, it took four ballots before the final candidate received a majority of ballots cast. In 1967, it took three ballots.

Another hint was the split of voting. There was a split of more than 100 votes between John Collins and James Ryan. Collins was the fourth man on the slate, receiving just one more vote than he needed to have a majority of the votes Ryan, an incumbent, was more than 100 votes below this point.

THE PLAN OF attack seemed to have worked perfectly for the anti-Viatorian forces. Their candidates included Griffin, Collins, Theodore Salinsky and Kenneth Banet.

However, the former Caucus "old guard" supporters rallied and quickly formed the Village Party. Leading the ticket were incumbents Bennett and Ryan. Added to the slate were Alice Harms, a member of the plan commission and Ralph Clabour, long-time resident of the village and local businessman.

Caucus campaigners were counting on a heavy backlash vote, hoping a large number of people would mark a straight Caucus Party ticket. However, when the election results were in earlier this month, they showed the anti-Viatorian forces had won a lot of battles but lost the war. Salinsky was the only Caucus candidate to win the election.

Interest in the election was high, and the voter turnout reflected this. For one particular village board post, a total of 9,612 votes were cast. In 1967, the total estimated votes cast was 5,300 and in 1969, the estimate was 6,585.

CAUCUS CANDIDATES failed to win heavily in what were considered to be "their" precincts. Also, voters split the tickets, picking Mrs. Harms, Clabour and Ryan from the Village Party and Salinsky from the Caucus Party.

While the anti-Viatorian forces gambled on working within the system to control candidates elected to the village board, CMCC succeeded in further widening the gap between itself and developers of the Viatorian project. Representatives of CMCC also managed to irritate the village board with its demands to the point where one board member charged them with "grandstanding."

Tomorrow: Part IV of the series, including activities by CMCC and the formation of the village's joint study committee on low and moderate-income housing.)

Incumbents Upset In Three Wards; Chase Elected

by BOB CASEY

Upsets were the rule yesterday in the Des Plaines City Council elections as three of the four incumbent aldermen in contested races were turned out by the voters of their wards.

In a surprise victory, B. Spencer Chase, 1969 mayoral candidate and outspoken critic of Mayor Herbert H. Behrel, was elected third ward alderman by an unofficial 41-vote margin over incumbent Ald. John Leer, a two-term veteran.

In the eighth ward, Ald. Edward Shillington was unable to turn back an organized challenge and lost to Alan Abrams, 514 Westmore Rd., an attorney who was backed by Behrel and the other eighth ward alderman, Robert Michaels.

Abrams had a 118-vote victory margin out of a total of 2,082 votes cast, according to the unofficial tally.

Also losing was Ald. Corvin Wagner (5th), a six-year council veteran who was defeated by Arthur Erbach, 1275 Prospect Ave., a Boy Scout leader with no political experience. Erbach racked up 636 unofficial votes, compared to 493 for Wagner.

IN THE SECOND ward, Kenneth Kehe, 1419 Forest Ave., triumphed over two opponents, beating his closest competitor, James Reilly, by 78 votes. The final unofficial tally was Kehe — 474, Reilly — 396, and George Olen, 1242 White St. — 240.

Ald. John Seitz (7th), the only opposed incumbent to win reelection, breezed to victory over two other seventh ward residents, defeating his closest challenger, George Brubaker, by an unofficial margin of 737 votes out of 1,084 votes cast.

Also winning reelection to four-year terms were unopposed incumbents Ald. Joseph Szabo (1st), Ald. Robert Hinde (4th) and Ald. Ewald Swanson (6th). In the fourth ward, Ald. Morgan O'Brien, also unopposed, was elected to fill the remaining two years of an unexpired four-year term.

Chase's victory in the third ward immediately raised speculation about whether he will make another try for mayor in 1973, when Behrel's current term ends. He lost to Behrel in 1969 by almost a 2-to-1 margin after being criticized by the mayor and his supporters for his lack of city government experience.

Behrel last night called Leer's loss in the third ward a disappointment but said he would not prejudice Chase.

"ALL ELECTIONS have their surprises, obviously," said Behrel, who saw three of the candidates he backed — Reilly, Leer and Wagner — go down to defeat.

"I'm disappointed to see Ald. Leer lose because I think he was an excellent alderman," said the mayor. But "you have to play the game with what you've got," he added.

Behrel said he was also disappointed at Wagner's loss because of his "great service to the people of his ward in the last four years." But, he said, "there's no question in my mind that Arthur Erbach has the qualifications to make a good alderman."

The mayor, who said he was pleased with Abrams' victory and pointed out that he supported Abrams "right from the word go," displayed obvious glee at one point when the returns from the eighth ward came into city hall showing a defeat for Shillington.

When asked about the prospect of Chase sitting on city council, Behrel said, "We have to wait and see. I'm not going to prejudge the man tonight. We'll have to wait and see how he conducts himself on the council."

IN THE EIGHTH ward, Shillington held Abrams to a narrow win, despite the support Abrams received from Behrel, Michaels, the Elk Grove Township Republican Organization and all three local newspapers.

The aldermen-elect will be sworn into office at the May 3 city council meeting. In all, there will be four new faces on the council — Kehe, Chase, Erbach and Abrams — when it sits down to do business after the swearing-in ceremony May 3.

VIPs Gain Piece Of City Action

by BARRY SIGALE
and CYNTHIA TIVERS

With the exuberance that only a winner can show, and with signs they have conquered the frustration of several years of trying, the Voters Independent Party (VIP) of Des Plaines now has a piece of the action.

But in another ward, the eighth, massive support from influential citizens helped defeat incumbent alderman Edward Shillington, an eight-year veteran of the city council, by a small margin.

And before it was all over last night, four newcomers earned the right to be sworn in May 3 while one incumbent, Ald. John Seitz (7th) will be back for another four year term after overwhelming his two challengers by more than an 8 to 1 difference in one of the strongest showings in the city's history.

Expressing their job over bringing an independent home a winner, the leaders of the VIP praised their victorious 3rd ward candidate, B. Spencer Chase, criticized Mayor Herbert M. Behrel and described the future of the city as full of promise.

AT A VICTORY celebration at Chase's home, 1140 Allini Dr., these sentiments were expressed by Chase; Dr. Gerald Meyer, his campaign manager; James Baker, chairman of the VIP; and John Dawson, member of the party's central coordinating committee.

—That Chase will provide a strong, independent voice for the people of Des Plaines, not only as an alderman challenging the issues of the day, but as a "check and balance" on what the party calls the "Behrel machine";

—That Chase's victory against incumbent Ald. John Leer, who was endorsed by the mayor as "a dent" in that machine, which they liked to the political situation in the City of Chicago; —And that Chase, an opponent of Behrel's in the mayoral election two years ago, "will speak out on the issues and provide the proper representation for the people of the third ward," something they said the incumbent failed to do in his eight years in office.

Chase said that based on his conversations with the people in his ward the thing they wanted most was a representative voice that "John (Leer) had been in office eight years and people didn't know who he was. He didn't work that hard."

CHASE SAID HE was not vindictive against Behrel and that he would like to sit down with the mayor and discuss some of the problems facing the city. A few minutes earlier Chase's backers said, the mayor called, offered his congratulations and said he wanted to sit down and meet with the alderman-elect and do just that — discuss the issues.

In the eighth ward, Shillington was as disheartened as Chase, and his followers were happy. Shillington, who in the past reportedly expressed a strong desire to become mayor of Des Plaines, refused to make any comments last night about his loss.

WHEN ASKED IF he had any further political aspirations, Shillington answered, "no comment."

Alan Abrams, the new eighth ward alderman, did have some comments to make about his victory and his future work in city hall.

"I'm happy at my win," Abrams said at a victory party at his home, 514 Westmore Rd. Abrams said residents in the southern portion of the ward contributed the most to his win. They were concerned with the construction of a sewage treatment plant in the area by the Metropolitan Sanitary District, the proposed new runway for O'Hare Airport and the new high rise buildings planned for the northwest corner of Algonquin and Elmhurst roads, Abrams said.

"The people responded by choosing an alderman with the professional qualifications to understand the problems and propose the solutions," he said.

Abrams, who is a patent attorney and chemical engineer, said it is his intention to serve faithfully and utilize fully his professional abilities in science and to help solve the urban challenges facing Des Plaines.

Other newcomers who won were Kenneth Kehe (second ward) and Arthur Erbach (fifth ward).

KEHE, WHOSE term on the Des Plaines Park District's board of commissioners has just expired, said his "personal contact with the people of the ward" gave him the needed push to edge out his closest challenger, James Reilly.

"I was out ringing doorbells, knocking on doors. I sent out about 900 post cards just before the election," Kehe, of 1419 Forest Ave., said, "and we conducted a telephone campaign just before election day."

Kehe said he had an optimistic attitude throughout the campaign and that, at first, his wife didn't believe he could win. "But now she does," Kehe said.

The new alderman said that he would bring "new blood, new ideas" to the city council. "Whether they (the other aldermen) will agree with us is something else."

Erbach, of 1275 Prospect Ave., said he was "gratified" and "out of my noodle" when contacted just after he received the results of the voting about 7:30 p.m.

"I'll take my time and do some thinking about what to push for when I'm sworn in May 3," Erbach said. "First I'd like to cure the very serious problem in the Douglas Manor area of the city. It's a mess with the problem they have had with the water mains and sewers."

Erbach said the election of four newcomers to the city council will result in new thinking. "For myself," he said, "I will sit and listen before talking. But I won't listen too long. I want to see some activity. We will move this town ahead."

Seitz, of 731 Polynesian Dr., was the only incumbent alderman to win in the five contested wards.

"All I can say is that a lot of good people helped me win," said Seitz, about his crushing margin of victory.

DuBrow On TV

by Rick DuBrow

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Justice In America," a three-part investigative series focusing on the nation's courts, begins on CBS-TV tonight with an impressively human hour about legal treatment of the poor and other disadvantaged groups.

"Some are more equal than others" is the name of the hour, and it is a program well worth making time for. In addition, followers of this season's television shows will undoubtedly note the lesson of how a professional journalistic effort can be 'relevant' in a much more effective way than entertainment series handling the same subjects.

Part of "some are more equal than others" deals with legal service offices — sometimes known as neighborhood, or storefront, law practices — which, of course, aid needy persons who can't afford attorney fees, or at least very much. And video watchers will naturally recall that two entertainment series this season — "The Storefront Lawyers" and "The Young Lawyers" — were built around similar legal help offices.

The difference, of course, is that these series, which failed when viewers rejected message-laden "relevance" offered by scriptwriters, unfortunately had to fall back on numerous dramatic clichés to be salable. This diluted the effect of what was good and true. Documentaries like tonight's "Justice In America" are immediately more trustworthy.

It is ironic, though, that the premiere episode of "The Storefront Lawyers" dealt effectively with a man threatened with loss of his home because a minor bill was escalated exorbitantly by parasitic middlemen — and tonight's documentary touches on the same subject. If "The Storefront Lawyers" hadn't tried to be "Mod Squad Goes To Law School" — and had been more adult in the way of "The Defenders" rather than crassly aiming at the young audience, it might have been a fine series. It finally changed its title to "Men At Law," but that didn't help much.

Tonight's documentary explores the American concept of equality under the law for everyone — and, to no one's surprise, finds that the reality is much less pleasant than the beautiful theory. Said the program's producer, John Sharnik,

"One of the most devastating effects of court congestion is the degree to which it has prejudiced the first principle of American justice: Equal justice under law."

We are shown some of the problems concerning bail, jury selection and detention. In a superbly human section, we hear nine of 12 persons who served on a jury during a Black Panthers trial discuss their experiences during the deliberations — and their individual reactions and soul-searching. In the words of the narrator, Eric Sevareid, the program tries to "cut through the rhetoric and get to the issues." It does this in first-rate fashion.

The Channel Swim: The entire final playoff series between pro basketball's Milwaukee Bucks and Baltimore Bullets will be carried live by ABC-TV, starting with Wednesday night's first game. "Southern Exposures," a half-hour of visual impressions of the American South by famed French photographer Henri Cartier-Bresson, will be broadcast by CBS-TV May 4.

Governor To Talk At CATS Council

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie will be featured speaker at a meeting tomorrow night of the Chicago Area Transportation Study (CATS) Council of Mayors at the O'Hare Inn.

Discussion during the session scheduled to begin at 7:45 p.m., will concentrate on the CATS Interim Transportation Plan and Program released earlier this month.

Bernard C. Cunningham, Park Forest village president and chairman of the council, said that Ogilvie would give the opening address to the group. Council membership consists of 253 mayors and village presidents from communities in the six northeastern Illinois counties.

Members of the CATS staff will be on hand to answer questions from members. County board leaders and railroad, transit and highway officials are also expected to attend.

Specific topics related to the CATS plan include a "General Overview," "Public Transportation Viewpoint," "Highways Viewpoint" and others.

Anti-Pollution Talk Is Slated

William L. Blaser, newly appointed director of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, will discuss the state's efforts toward combating pollution at next Monday's meeting of the Elk Grove Township Republican Organization.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Mount Prospect Country Club, 600 S. See-Gwinn. It is open to the public.

Blaser's appearance in the area is his first in the Northwest suburbs since his controversial appointment to the post by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie earlier this year.

Ogilvie nominated Blaser after firing former director Clarence Klassen and the executive committee of the Democratic-controlled Illinois Senate at first rejected the nomination.

Shortly after, however, the committee reconsidered and Blaser was confirmed for the position.

Blaser is a former management consultant and his Springfield firm, Blaser, Anderson and Co., was under contract to provide consulting services on management and organizational problems in the state government.

He also served a two-year term in the Illinois General Assembly and currently is president of the Lincoln Republican Forum of Sangamon County.

The Lighter Side

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Picked up a phone the other day and dialed a number. Don't remember the digital combination, but let's say it was 555-5555. At any rate, nothing happened. No busy signal. No squawking noise. Just dead air.

School Tax Hike May Be Sought Here

by LEON SHURE

Des Plaines residents may be asked this fall to raise their taxes for Maine Township High School Dist. 207.

Worsening financial conditions "may force the district" to seek an as yet undetermined raise in the tax rate through a referendum in late fall, John Means, board finance chairman, reported at the Monday night board meetings.

In other related financial actions: —Board members agreed to a combined meeting of the finance and educational committees to seek ways of cutting costs.

It was announced that 15 fewer new teachers will be hired than would ordinarily be hired to meet the rise in student population. Instead, 10 teachers will be hired and other teachers will be reassigned from schools where the population has not increased.

—The summer school counseling program will be reduced by one-half, at a savings to the district of $10,000.

—Ten studies of course revisions will be cancelled at a savings to the district of $30,000, without sacrificing educational quality, school officials said.

Means made his predictions in his final report as finance chairman before official canvass of the April 10 board election and seating of the new board. He cited as reasons for the raise, the increased costs caused by inflation and salary increases raises, the opening of Maine North High School, growth of student population, possible loss of the corporate personal property tax funds, and the unlikelihood of increased state aid.

Means told the Herald that the possible tax rate increase that the district would ask voters to approve has not yet been determined.

Present tax rate for the educational fund is $1.63 cents per $100 assessed real estate value. For the building fund, the rate is 30 cents per $100 assessed value.

Township voters last approved a 21 cent tax rate increase in 1968. The first two tax referendums that year failed to win voter approval.

Recent financial projections show that the district will need a 28 cent increase in the tax rate per $100 assessed evaluation by 1972 just to cover school costs.

The district which has run at a deficit for the last 10 years, except for 1968, goes $900,000 further into debt each year, according to district statistics.

Even without teacher salary increases now being negotiated, the district will be $3.2 million in debt in the next school year, according to financial projections.

Dist. 207's budget this year totaled $21,050,779 or 23 per cent above the 1969-70 budget. This reflects a seven per cent increase in teacher salaries to about $10 million and the opening of Maine North High School, school officials have said.

Township residents have the seventh highest tax rate of the 30 high school districts in Cook County, according to Wesley Hartzell, board member. The Maine school district spends an average of $1,308.15 per student per year, less than school districts in neighboring Niles, Evanston, and New Trier Townships, according to school reports.

The recent court decision declaring the corporate personal property tax unconstitutional would mean if it stands, that Maine would lose $1 million in revenue, which would "bring us down on our knees," financially, Means said.

Efforts by school districts to bring more state tax funds back to the districts have not succeeded so far, school officials said.

The public is "now aware of the extreme condition" of the district, board member Hartzell said. "This board has burned the midnight oil to meet the payroll," he said.

Board members agreed to his suggestion that the finance and education committees meet to seek new ways of cutting costs, which might include combining classes of less than 20 students. Administration efforts to cut costs were commended by board members.

Maine North principal Robert Wells said that the increase of 500 students at Maine North next school year, would ordinarily mean that 25 more teachers would be hired. But by examining the population changes in the district and classroom needs, it was decided that about 10 new teachers could be hired, and others transferred to Maine North from other district schools.

Merlin Schultz, director of student personnel services, said that to cut costs, only one counselor will be stationed at each of the four schools this summer. Last year two counselors served at each school during the six week summer session.

Supt. Richard Short said the educational quality could be maintained, and money saved by cancelling 10 study surveys, which would have been held this summer.

These surveys would have examined ways of updating courses, according to Michael Meyers assistant superintendent.

These surveys would have included a revision of the course work for general science, English, girls physical education, U. S. history, foods occupations and child care occupations courses.

Panel Named To Study Open Campus Plan

A fact-finding committee will be appointed to study open campus proposals for the Maine Township high schools.

The Dist. 207 board voted unanimously Monday night to create a 24-member committee representative of the community to gather information about possible plans for allowing students more freedom to leave school property during the school day.

The board adopted its education committee recommendation that the committee be formed, and instructed that a report be made at the mid-May board meeting as to what procedures the new committee will take in its investigation.

The committee will be headed by a board member. Township residents will be selected by two board members. It is hoped that the committee can make complete its research so that board members can make a decision before the next school year begins in September.

Student councils at three of the four

Maine Township high schools, including Maine West, 1755 S. Wolf Rd., and Maine East, Dempster and Potter, Park Ridge, which serve Des Plaines students, have discussed open campus plans and have sent petitions for its approval to school principals and Supt. Richard Short.

At the education committee meeting last week, an administration report stated, "The need to assess this matter has come about largely because of the increasing interest on the part of Maine students to make the open campus concept a reality."

The 24-member committee, to be appointed at a special meeting of the board, will consist of eight adults, selected from parents of Maine students, local business people, parents of elementary school students, and local law enforcement officers; eight students, two from each high school; four teachers, one from each high school; and four administrators from Maine schools and junior high schools.

This advisory committee would gather information and allow all involved to "have some say in the decision," Short said.

About 50 parents of students at Maine South High School, Park Ridge, attended the board meeting. Most were against allowing students to leave school grounds during school time.

They cited lack of supervision, safety hazards and diminished school quality as their reasons for opposing the plan.

A Maine East student said students could use their free time constructively, and that an open campus plan would diminish congestion in school corridors.

Car Hit By Train —Youth Is Okay

A 19-year-old Mount Prospect youth was listed in satisfactory condition yesterday after his car was struck by a Chicago and North Western Ry. train in Mount Prospect.

Robert H. Miller, of 7 N. Edward St., Mount Prospect, was taken to Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines, where he was treated for lacerations of the head and face. He was reported in satisfactory condition last night at the hospital.

Miller was crossing the railroad tracks, southbound on Mount Prospect Road, when a westbound train hit the rear of his car. The accident occurred at about 1:22 p.m.

According to police, the crossing gates were down at the time of the collision. However, according to witnesses, Miller said the gates were not down when he crossed the tracks.

Witnesses said construction crews were working in the area of the railroad crossing at Mount Prospect Road and Northwest Highway.

New School Board Members Seated

The three new Dist. 62 school board members were sworn in Monday night and began their three-year terms.

Mrs. Nancy Lee Sherdon, Glenn Glaser Jr. and Stuart Kisten took their oath of office and Robert Claus was reelected as the board's president. Robert Reinke was also reelected as the board's secretary.

Claus appointed the six board members to the board's four committees. Clayton McDonald will serve as chairman of the finance committee and Mrs. Kathryn Selez and Stuart Kisten were also appointed to the finance committee.

James Kremers was appointed chairman of the building committee to serve with Glaser and Mrs. Sherdon.

Glaser will chair the negotiations committee and McDonald and Claus will also serve on this committee.

MRS. SCHUEZ was appointed chairman of the board's policies committee and Kisten and Mrs. Sherdon will serve on the committee with her. Mrs. Selez will also continue as the board's legislative aid. The new board reappointed Kenneth Meyer as attorney for Dist. 62. It is Meyer's 37th year as Dist. 62 school board attorney.

The board authorized the sale of $400,000 worth of Tax Anticipation Warrants to the First National Bank of Des Plaines at an interest rate of 2.35 per cent per year.

According to Harold Brieschke, director of business services, the money from the tax anticipation warrants will help Dist. 62 meet its June payroll. He said the district doesn't expect any tax money from the county until September.

The board also discussed a letter from Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel which, according to Board Pres. Claus, "indicates the city's desire to discuss the use of the Thacker property for Senior Citizen housing."

The land, on the 1500 block of Thacker between Cora and White streets, is owned by Dist. 62 and was once the site of Thacker Junior High. The land has been designated, in the city's comprehensive plan, for a 125 unit low-income senior citizen apartment building.

Claus asked Kremers to look into the plan and make a recommendation to the board.

Kindergarten Signup Slated

Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 39 parents with children whose fifth birthdays fall on or before Dec. 1, 1971 may register next week for September kindergarten classes.

Sign-ups for next fall's kindergarteners will begin Monday through Friday. Registrations will be accepted from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 to 3 p.m. in each of the district's 16 elementary schools in four suburbs.

"If you know friends or neighbors living in Dist. 39 who have eligible children, please urge them to register now," said Supt. James Ervitt. "We need as complete a registration as possible in order to plan adequately."

Parents should bring their children's birth certificate at the time of registration. Hospital birth certificates and baptismal certificates are not acceptable as legal proof of birth.

ERVITT SUGGESTS that parents who do not have a legal certificate should ask for one immediately. Request forms for Cook County or out-of-state birth certificates are available at each of the elementary schools.

Parents will be given medical and dental examination forms when they register their children. The medical examination card must be completed before school begins in September.

DES PLAINES: Brentwood School, 280 W. Dulles; Devonshire School, 1401 S. Pennsylvania; Albert Einstein School, 345 W. Walnut; and High Ridge Knolls School, 588 S. Darr James.

TITLE WINNING SECRETARY. Mrs. Jeanette Krenk, 33, of Arlington Heights is the Secretary of the Year in her Lake Shore chapter of National Secretaries Association.

National Secretaries Week

A Time For Recognition

This week, April 18 to 24, is the week that National Secretaries Association (International) reminds management of the importance of professional secretaries in business, industry, education, government and the professions.

All secretaries are invited to join in this 20th annual observance of Secretaries Week, theme of which is "Better Secretaries Mean Better Business." Today, April 21, has been designated as Secretaries Day.

According to Mrs. Phyllis Bauer, CPS and the Secretaries Association International president, it's not the time for flowers, lunch or an afternoon off, but rather, she said, "recognition for the job we can do, are paid to do and that we have elected as a service career."

The national president added that the association is using this week to suggest ways to increase the productivity of secretaries.

"A GOOD SECRETARY can perform many tasks that the executive may needlessly be doing himself. This frees his time to concentrate on productive and creative problem solving."

NSA has many programs, three of which Mrs. Bauer said are of immediate benefit to management as it seeks qualified secretaries. These programs are:

1. The Certified Professional Secretary

program which expects to have the largest number of candidates in history for the annual two-day examination being administered May 7 and 8.

2. The Future Secretaries Association which assists business educators to provide realistic training for students who plan a secretarial career through FSA chapters in high schools, business schools and colleges.

3. The NSA Research and Education Foundation which has among its projects working with management on a research project to determine exactly what secretarial requirements will be in future years.

She's Sold On Education

by MARY B. GOOD

What would you do if your boss asked you to take dictation on his lap?

Her response to this question and others won Jeanette Krenk of Arlington Heights, the Secretary of the Year (SOTY) award.

SOTY is to secretarydom what Oscar is to the acting profession. Mrs. Krenk earned SOTY in her 350-member Lake Shore Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (NSA).

The tiny, 33-year-old brunette is the right hand "man" to the right hand man to the chancellor of the City Colleges of Chicago.

This engineer's wife went to work as a board of education steno fresh out of Kelly High School. Here and there at night Mrs. Krenk has picked up college credits — Northwestern, Bogan, Wilson, loop and southeast city campuses. This is mostly because she is sold on the company product — education. Slowly, Jan said, she'll get her degree.

"I USED TO BE quite shy," she said, "but career experiences have helped to a point where I really have got to like and enjoy people."

Through National Secretaries, Jan Krenk has had a taste of teaching. "Economics of management" was her subject, directed toward girls working on their Certified Professional Secretary (CPS) exam.

Mrs. Krenk has also coordinated a

Future Secretaries of America chapter at Jones Commercial High School and administered scholarship exams to the budding careerists.

When she tells about some of the NSA workshops, the SOTY award winner makes the occupation sound like a healthy shot in the arm. One such session dealt with sensitivity and awareness. "That one brought all the uptight-types squarely down to earth," she said.

Communications exercises and a secretary think-in are two other ideas dreamed up for workshops.

AND THEN THERE was this problem-solving workshop . . . which brings Jan back to the question about dictation on the boss' lap.

"I know my boss would never ask me to do that, but if I had a boss that did," she said, "I would run over to the closest chair and say, 'I'll take it from here.'"

Speaking Of...

Pick Your Red Letter Day

by KAY MARSH

My favorite present-of-the-year is a cake-baking pun shaped like the state of Texas. I'll use it at least twice a year: to treat friends on March 2, Texas Independence Day, and San Jacinto Day, April 21 commemorating the 1836 battle in which Texas won its independence from Mexico.

A career girl from Kentucky makes May 1 her day to invite friends over to watch the Kentucky Derby on television. Her party plan includes mint juleps, southern fried chicken and other plantation delicacies, along with racing silks and other track mementos that recall the "sport of kings."

A talented Hoosier hostess and her husband will have their annual Indianapolis 500 Brunch this year on May 29, complete with racing car motifs and even a modest betting pool to increase interest in what's going on at the Speedway.

But what if you're not from Texas, Kentucky or Indiana? Well, you Wisconsinites might have a Cheese Tasting Party on May 29 to celebrate your state's Admission Day. And you really don't have to be from Hawaii to have a luau on Lei Day, May 1.

IN SHORT, IT'S FUN to find your own red letter day to celebrate — one that concerns your state, your hobby, your career or simply an historical date or even a promotional event that you find interesting or amusing.

You'll find hundreds listed in Chase's "Calendar of Annual Events" (Special Days, Weeks and Months in 1971), a publication that's probably available at the reference desk of your library. It's fun to read, with all its historical and miscellaneous information. And it's a great reference source if you're looking for some special event to brighten up your entertaining, build a woman's club program or youth activity around, or just to add a little fun and interesting table talk to life at home.

Some events chase lists for May are very brief. Better synchronize your watches if you plan to do anything about the "Press Agents' Shining Hour," which recognizes "the contribution of publicists to American life through their promotion of special events for business and industry." This momentous event takes place May 5 from 3:15 to 4:15 p.m.

ON THE OTHER HAND, you can bake a sweet potato pie any handy day between May 1 and Sept. 30 in honor of something called "Yams for Summer-time Easy Livin'."

Space doesn't permit listing all the special months you might celebrate in May such as National Tavern, Car Care, Radio, Senior Citizens and International Air Travel. My own favorite is International Play-Your-Own-Harpsichord Month.

When you're not playing the harpsichord (your own or anybody else's), remember Be Kind to Animals Week (May 2-8) and International Pickle Week (May 20-29), designed to recognize "the world's most humorous vegetable." And save plenty of time for May 9-15. That's the special week for Let's Go Fishing (which starts a day earlier, on May 8) as well as Police, National Public Works and National Hospital. But you may want to ignore National Insectocutor Week, also May 9-15, which promotes the use "of insectocutors for the control of flying insects by means of electricity."

As to special days, you're probably already making plans for Mother's Day, May 9. But why not ask his mother to dinner on Mother-in-Law Day, May 2? Or write somebody on May 6, marking the 1840th birthday of the first postage stamp? Or give your May 21 birthday boy an airplane party in honor of Lindbergh's 1927 flight?

AS YOU SEE, the possibilities are endless. But there's one holiday I refuse to celebrate: Japan's Children's Day on May 5. That's because every day seems to be Children's Day with me.

How about a NO-Children's Day for all us Good Old Moms? If a whole day is too much, perhaps we can send the kids as special guests to the "Press Agents' Shining Hour," which also falls on May 5. Then I'll bet those press agents will settle next year for a 15-minute coffee break.

Or maybe just one golden moment of silence.

'A Career Not Just A Job'

by DOROTHY OLIVER

There've been some changes in the world of the secretary since Olive Schumacher entered the field 40 years ago. "Our jobs are much more diversified; we're paid better and are better accepted by management in business," she said.

And without his secretary the boss would not be able to do his job, said the 1971 Secretary of the Year for the Park-Plaines Chapter of the National Secretaries Association.

Miss Schumacher, who is executive secretary to C. H. Keene, central division manager of CIBA Pharmaceutical Co., Niles, looks at secretarial work as a career not "just a job."

"I've been very interested in secretarial work since I was in high school — I always wanted to be one," she said. "I know I'm happy where I am."

AND SHE PROVED her point when she left a meat-packing firm where she had worked for 22 years to take her present position as an executive secretary. In her former job she had risen to a position where only part of her work was secretarial and the rest in other areas. Her decision to change jobs included the desire to be a full time secretary again.

Olive's preparation for her job consisted of two years training in a business college. Today, however, she finds girls are receiving more diversified training in high school and at the junior college level.

"It's no longer just typing and shorthand. Training in data processing, accounting and a little legal knowledge are important. Since I've been in the field, I've had to keep up with new methods and new machines," she said.

A MEMBER OF THE National Secretaries Association since 1960, Miss Schumacher is currently president of Park-Plaines Chapter. "It's not a social organization," she commented. "Our function is to elevate the standards of the secretarial profession through better education and more diversified training for girls."

Listening to a dedicated career secretary like Olive Schumacher you are convinced of the importance of the job. "A secretary should maintain a friendly personal relationship with her boss and always have a sense of humor," she advises.

"After you reach the stage of being an executive secretary, you are not just a secretary or just a stenotypist. You are part of the team."

Secretaries Toast Bosses

Seventy-two executives, their wives and secretaries attended the 12th annual Executive Night of "Emerald Elegance" sponsored by the Park-Plaines Chapter of the National Secretaries Association last Wednesday in the Emerald Room of the Starlight Inn in Schiller Park.

Co-Chairmen of the event, Mrs. Fred Hertel of Des Plaines and Miss Gail Schmelzen of Buffalo Grove, welcomed those in attendance. Following dinner, Mrs. Clarence Kitto of Arlington Heights, presented the Secretary of the Year award to Chapter President Miss Olive Schumacher of Des Plaines, secretary to

Charles H. Keene of CIBA Pharmaceuticals in Niles.

Mrs. Kitto presented two other awards: one to the Retired Member of the Year, Mrs. Willard Balhatchet of Arlington Heights, formerly with Ekco Products, Inc. of Wheeling. The second honor was awarded to the charter member who had attended all 12 Executive Nights, Miss Virginia Darlington, secretary to James M. Buck, director of Insurance Company of North America, Chicago.

MRS. SHERELY ANDERSON of Des Plaines announced the Boss of the Year, Gordon Terry, president of Rothery Storage & Van Co., Elk Grove Village. He was presented with the traveling loving cup and BOTY Certificate by his secretary, Mrs. Hertel, who also placed the traditional crown on his head.

The evening concluded with a presentation by The Coachlighters, the Arlington Heights Chapter, S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A.

Secretaries residing or employed in northwest Chicago, Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine and Barrington are invited to join the Park-Plaines Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International).

Wanted: Panty Hose That Don't Sag, Develop Holes

by MARGUERITE DAVIS

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sagging panty hose that wrinkle around the ankles and develop holes or runs are breaking the budgets and morale of millions of American girls.

Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., says they are entitled to bitter complaints.

"The anguish is real, but solutions seem to be elusive," she said in a House speech. "Many women understandably believe the government should be doing more — or at least doing something — about it."

Manufacturers generally guarantee the product against runs, and it is true that few runs appear. But women who wear panty hose say that holes are fully as unsightly as runs, if not more so.

At $3.50 a pair, a woman wrote Mrs. Sullivan from Oakland, Calif., panty hose are the single most expensive article in her annual clothing budget.

MRS. SULLIVAN TOOK a hand early in the game, with a letter to the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) about a complaint she received from a college English teacher. It was the "guaranteed not to run" message which accompanied the panty hose that prompted her to write her congresswoman, who relayed the inquiry to the FTC chairman at that time, Caspar T. Weinberger.

"Do the words constitute misleading advertising if the stockings 'guaranteed not to run' go into holes?" she asked.

She said the reply apparently amounted to, "a 'hole' is not necessarily a 'run' or vice versa," so there appeared to be no violation of the fair packing law.

Next she appealed to the National Science Foundation, asking that a study of panty hose be included among NSF's research projects. She said success in this endeavor would save money for American women and permit them to be chic when wearing panty hose.

"THE NSF HAS NOT considered this matter one of the most serious confronting the scientific community," she reported. "But perhaps they have not been hearing from or listening to the right scientists. I am sure there are many women scientists who would consider this indeed a serious problem — those who wear panty hose."

Mrs. Sullivan acknowledged a suit against the manufacturers would require proof of a deliberate conspiracy by a group of firms to keep stronger materials off the market. She recommended that her irate correspondents urge manufacturers to finance research on the problem.

Equipped with brayers, brushes, burnishers, sanding blocks and scissors, four area store owners attended a recent three-day workshop sponsored jointly by Connoisseur Studio, Inc., and Allied Dealers Supply.

Lorraine Kunstman, Sugar 'n Spice, Des Plaines; Muriel Mills, Webber Paint, Arlington Heights; Sondra Elvir, Craft Castle, Arlington Heights; and Sheila Greville, Heirloom Decoupage Studio, Waukegan, spent March 14-16 at the O'Hareport Hotel, Northlake, for the workshop.

Sally Lutz, nationally known decoupage instructor and author, taught four projects — emerald cocktail purse, tailored border trim purse box, Papier Tole under paperweight and Decal-it.

Bar Association Hears Discussion Of Marriage-Divorce Law Reform

The Uniform Marriage and Divorce Act and the concept of "no fault" divorce were discussed by a panel at the recent April meeting of the Northwest Suburban Bar Association held at the Des Plaines Elks Club.

Members of the panel included: Richard A. Nelson of the Park Ridge firm of McLennon, Sklodowski, Nelson & White, Assoc., panel moderator; Hon. Robert C. Buckley, Judge of the Circuit Court of Cook County, Divorce Division; Stanton L. Ehrlich of the firm of Ehrlich, Bunden and Cohn, chairman of the Family Study Committee of the Illinois State Bar Association; and J. Michael Bollman, formerly an attorney in Park Ridge, now practicing with the firm of Smith, Biggins and Bollman in San Diego, California.

ALTHOUGH THE Uniform Marriage and Divorce Act contains many marriage and divorce reforms, the most controversial is the "no fault" concept of divorce, according to Judge Buckley. The Uniform Act, drafted by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, provides for divorce based on irretrievable breakdown of the marriage. Decisions for division of property, maintenance and child support are all provided for under the Uniform Act without regard for the guilt or innocence of either or both of the parties.

The Uniform Act has not been introduced into the Illinois legislature, and according to Stanton Ehrlich, it is doubtful that such legislation will be ready during the 1971 session. The reason for the delay is the feeling of the Illinois State Bar Association that the Uniform Act needs some revisions before it can be recommended for adoption in Illinois.

EHRlich REPORTED that following a meeting with the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, he is now rewriting and revising the proposed Illinois State law. The revised law will then be presented to the State Bar and sent to every lawyer in Illinois for comments.

"It had been my wish to get this law before our legislature this year," Ehrlich told the members of the Northwest Suburban Bar Association, "but now that does not seem possible, and we are directing our efforts toward the next legislative session."

An outspoken advocate of the "no fault" concept of divorce, Michael Bollman came from San Diego to explain to Bar Association members how the concept works in California. Although California has not adopted the Uniform Act, it was the first state to adopt the "no fault" concept. (Iowa has since passed similar legislation.)

"I FIRST WANT to point out," Bollman said, "that the purpose of the 'no fault' concept is to try and preserve the marriage by removing the bitterness and accusations of the grounds system of di-vorice. By removing the need for placing blame in the divorce, it is hoped that couples will be able to keep communication lines open for a possible reconciliation."

If the California court feels that there are, in fact, irreconcilable differences, the couple is granted a dissolution of the marriage. Divorce is a term no longer used in the California system.

Bollman stated that the dissolution without fault made the divorce no more unpleasant than necessary and far less harmful to the family, particularly the children. He also felt that the "no fault" concept increased respect for the law by eliminating the need for perjured testimony to establish sufficient grounds for divorce.

Although the Northwest Suburban Bar Association has as yet taken no official position on the Uniform Marriage and Divorce Act, members are reading the act for further discussion.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: My kitchen linoleum is so old it should have been thrown out long ago. Luckily, I saved a hint sent in by a reader some time ago. Though some of the instructions are highly unorthodox, I had nothing to lose. We stripped the floor completely of every bit of wax, then doing a small area at a time, applied a coat of paste wax and buffed it within 10 minutes. This was followed by a coat of floor wax that is considered so tough it's detergent-resistant. Let that dry for about four hours, then put on another very thin coat. This was followed by a thin coat the second day, and one more thin coat the third day.

It's been a whole year now and the floor still looks good. During the year the floor was washed with a gentle detergent solution, but not often. Spills were wiped up immediately with a wet sponge. When an experiment like this works on a floor that was going to be replaced, it's certainly a plus and the work involved seemed almost minimal, considering the results. —Mrs. Robert S.

Dear Dorothy: We keep a small cassette tape recorder set up in the dining room and some of the family conversations, especially with the 3-year-old, are gems. It is so much more delightful when they don't realize they're being taped. —Maggie.

hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Sportsman's Notebook

by Bob Holaday

ONLY THREE YEARS AGO, fishermen were heading out into Lake Michigan, on no particular course except "out," trolling at no special speed and fishing, without much regard for depth or temperature, and catching coho salmon. Which are a few of the reasons why you have to classify the coho as one whole of a sports fish.

A few more reasons are that he is dependable in his feeding and spawning habits, he reproduces with fury and passion, and he is none too bright.

But as time progressed, we learned a lot about this fish and his chinook cousin, and while this column does not come to you with a money-back guarantee, I would venture to say that an attentive angler can almost guarantee himself success.

First of all, the coho is a deeply devoted school fish. Any coho you take almost certainly came out of a pack of fish that were pretty much carbon copies of each other. To answer the question before you ask it, the reason you may have caught one fish in a location and no more doesn't mean there wasn't a school. It means that either the school moved out on you, or you didn't hit the right spot when you went back for another run. (That's what fish marker buoys are for.)

The nearly exclusive food supply for both coho and chinook salmon in Lake Michigan is the alewife, or shad, same thing. And they don't bother the ones you see floundering on the surface. They want their dinner swimming with vigor and health below the surface. Don't disregard the areas of the lake where you see numbers of alewife wriggling on the surface, however. This generally indicates the presence of a school of alewife below and therefore, the good possibility of a school of coho below them.

Remember, too, that the coho, as well as the chinook, and all the trout family, are "up" feeders. They swim, when feeding, in a kind of "poised" position on an angle with their tail lower than their head so they can see up. They will never, or hardly even, find a bait or lure that is below them, because they aren't looking down. That's also why you can't catch a coho from the shoreline by letting your bait sink and lie on the bottom. It must be above him, because he can't look down.

And they are most active, or comfortable, in water that is in the mid 50's, preferably 54 degrees to 57 degrees.

And there are almost no other variables to control the habits of the coho, although at times it seems that everything affects him. Wind in the evening can make fishing dreadful only a day after it has been beautiful. But still, the standards apply, because the wind has merely moved the surface water of the lake, stirred it, and changed all your temperature locations. Westerly winds, for example, blow the warmer shoreline and shallow water out into the deeper part of the lake — and the fish go with it.

For consistent success on the big lake, you're going to need, in addition to a big, safe fast boat, a temperature gauge that can make readings at depths to 100 feet. Next you need a good, reliable fish locator sonar so you can accurately read the depths you're fishing. Besides showing you the depths, of course, the better sonars also show you fish as you pass over them.

The value of the depth sounder can't be over-stated. Without it, you are fishing blindly. What's more, without one you can't take advantage of good information like this: Off Waukegan, the fish are swimming at depths ranging between 3 feet and 14 feet, depending on temperature. In water that is between 25 and 30 feet deep.

Lure color is a changing fascination for fishermen but again, the coho is proving to be a very dependable fish. He likes orange. And if it's fluorescent or "hot" orange, he likes it better. He also likes silver in both metal and plastic and he won't object too much if it's tinged with blue.

This week, and probably for the next two weeks, use a Tatpolly, or a Spoon-ping, a Rebel or a Rapala. The first two are available in orange, or you can paint them yourself. The Rebel and the Rapala are best in silver and silver-blue. These you'll have to wait for the next couple of weeks to get them deep enough.

The best alternative to weighting these, or any other lure, is the down-rigger, which is a heavy line with a cannon-ball weight of six or eight pounds that has a line-holder attached. Your line is carried down, to whatever depth you want to cover, in a release gimmick. When a fish takes the lure, the line from your rod releases from the down line and you play the fish without weight ahead of him. Those outfits are expensive, but for the serious Lake Michigan fishermen, they are an absolute necessity.

The biggest fish produced so far this year is a 21 pound chinook salmon taken from the electric company warm water pool just north of Waukegan. But day by day the catches from the piers all along the lakfront are growing. Children and adults alike are taking good sized coho right off the shoreline, dangling a big chunk of nitecrawler under a bobber.

For those who prefer to get the guidance of an expert their first time out, there are plenty of charter boats available. In Chicago, call 425-7234. Northern suburbs and the Waukegan area, call 425-FISH. Prices range from $10 per person, half day, and up. Boat sizes run all the way from 19 footers to houseboats. Charter captains furnish all the equipment and even clean the fish for you.

But most of all, they'll also teach you some things perhaps you didn't know before about salmon.

Tops Doyle's-Striking In Classic Playoff

Lattof Chevrolet Is Women's Champion!

Lorrie Koch

by JIM COOK

It was only fitting for the playoff race in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League to conclude in a photo finish.

After all, Doyle's Striking Lanes posted a 15-length victory in the first round of play while Lattof Chevrolet romped to an eight-point spread in the second half.

And now, the teams engaged in a head-to-head collision course with the overall championship trophy waiting to be claimed at the finish line of a six-game playoff derby.

The two-night suspense boiled down to the final contest as Lattof protected a slim 3-2 edge in games upon entering the climax of the eight-month campaign.

And after the final-game totals were calculated, re-figured and perhaps double and triple checked, Lattof Chevrolet emerged as the 1970-71 Paddock Classic League Champion by a mere eight-pin margin!

The slim difference was all that prevented runner-up Doyle's from forcing a sudden-death one-game shootout since it would have evened the score at three games apiece.

But Lattof, on the strength of Lorrie Koch's pace-setting clutch 200 game in the finale, settled the issue in regulation play.

It marked a sweep by Lattof on their home lanes at Thunderbird and capped a Herculean effort by the quintet since they trailed two games to one after Saturday night's action on Doyle's home grounds at Striking Lanes.

Doyle's, sparked by Bette Laurance's 577 series in the opening night dramatics, appeared headed for the crown as Lattof sputtered to sub-par totals in both the first and last games.

Bette fired a sizzling 212 in the opener and got ample support from teammates Judy Croston (189), Lu Schoenberger (182), Alice Nichols (171) and Eunice Whitmore (154) to hang a 908-829 defeat on Lattof.

In the middle contest, however, Lattof rallied behind Lorrie's 220, Marlis Pleckhardt's 177, Rose Kraft's 162, Isobel Kosi's 152 and Donna Reinhardt's 151 to even the series, 862-795.

Doyle's retired with a one-game edge, though, as consistent high scores produced a 918 total as compared to Lattof's 851.

Sunday was a new day and Lattof turned over a new leaf. Lorrie opened with a 232 en route to the playoff's high series of 608 to deadlock the derby at two games apiece.

The magic didn't stop for Lattof as the quintet fired a 918 middle game to offset Judy's 209 for Doyle's, thus swaying the advantage to Lattof's side, 3-2, with one game remaining.

Neither team was able to muster a big total in the finale, so the outcome remained in doubt down to the wire. A recap showed Lorrie's 200 game as the difference, 851-843.

It will be next September before the scratch league rejoins for their 15th season of champion-style bowling.

That gives Lattof five full months to enjoy the trophy they climactically earned.

Another Tie For Warriors In Central Suburban Play

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

Officially, Maine West's record in the Central Suburban League baseball standings is 3-1. Yet, the Warriors have not lost a single game.

Monday night against Glenbrook North, Maine West played its second tie of the season with darkness ending the game with a 1-1 count.

Maine West has won two and tied two against CSL competition but under CSL rules a tie counts as a half a win and half a loss. That turns the Warriors' 2-0-2 record into an official 3-1 mark.

Perfect, on-the-mark throws by Glenbrook North in the bottom of the seventh inning prevented Maine West from pulling out the victory.

Keith Moranz got the bottom of the seventh going for Maine West with a single. Warrior coach Al Carstens then inserted Dave Arnswald as a pinch runner for Moranz.

With Bill Besenhofer at the plate, Carstens put the hit-and-run sign on and Besenhofer slapped a single down the left field line. Glenbrook North's left fielder, Jerry Pohlmeier juggled the ball as Arnswald rounded third base so Carstens, who was coaching at third, sent Arnswald in to the plate.

Pohlmeier fired the ball toward home but it was cut off by Spartan first baseman Larry Lozar who then whirled and fired a perfect strike to catcher Dan Thake who put the tag on Arnswald split seconds before Arnswald reached the plate.

Besenhofer reached third on the play but the Warrior threat was snuffed out when Dan Moss hit a line drive to right field which was caught with a running catch by right fielder Ray Prizer to end the inning. Moments later the plate umpire ended the game because of darkness.

Besenhofer went the distance on the mound for Maine West and extended his streak of innings pitched without giving up an earned run to 24.

Glenbrook North's only run came in the second inning and that was unearned.

Mike Steinback, who pitched a fine game for the Spartans, started the second inning by reaching first on an error. Prizer then hit a ground ball which was errored to put runners on first and second with nobody out.

Besenhofer then threw a wild pitch to move the runners to second and third and, after Steve Howett struck out, Jack Newmayer laid down a perfect suicide squeeze bunt to score Steinback.

Maine West scored its only run in the bottom of the third inning but had an opportunity to score many more.

Moranz got the frame going with a single and then stole second base. Besenhofer slapped a single to right-center field and Moranz scored and Besenhofer advanced to second when the center fielder missed the cutoff man on a throw to the plate.

Dan Moss singled to more Besenhofer to third and Mike Bistany walked to load the bases. But Steinback got out of the inning by striking out two batters and forcing a lineup.

Maine West, which is now 6-1-2 overall, will travel to New Trier West for a Central Suburban League game today at 4:30 p.m.

Boat And Sports Show At Randhurst

"Summer's Super Sports" . . . from boating, swimming and waterskiing to fishing and camping . . . will be previewed at the Randhurst Boat and Sports Show, Wednesday, April 21, through Sunday, April 25, in the Randhurst Mall.

A 20 ft. by 32 ft. Cavaleade swimming pool for backyard fun is being set up in the mall to demonstrate the newest construction and installation features of family pools, according to Margaret Irwin, promotion coordinator at Randhurst.

"This is a new highlight of our show," Mrs. Irwin said. "We hope it will give interested families a precise idea of the costs, limitations and advantages of family pools."

"Fans of all outdoor sports can get a foretaste of summer recreation at this show, as well as obtaining information about the latest equipment," Mrs. Irwin added.

The Sports Chalet of Rolling Meadows and Randhurst will display dozens of boats, ranging from inexpensive "board" sailboats to sleek "tunnel-hull" racing boats.

"These small Aqua Cats and Sunfish may be the hits of our exhibit," one Sports Chalet spokesman commented.

"The Aqua Cats are 12-foot catamaran sailboats whose pontoon hulls make them doubly safe and maneuverable; and Sunfish are not only inexpensive . . . they're fast, too, because of their shallow depth."

A new part of the Sports Chalet's exhibit will be the introduction of the Arena Craft line of inboard-outboard stern-drive boats in the economy class.

"A full line of Winner boats (from 14 to 23 feet long), Johnson tents, Evinrude motors, dinghies, and all-terrain Max vehicles will also be shown," the Sports Chalet spokesman promised.

"An interesting part of our exhibit will be the Evinrude Theatre, where films of recent boat races will be shown. Also, we will display a tunnel-hull racer to explain the latest design features of these racing boats."

On Thursday and Friday evenings, a demonstration of flycasting techniques

It Takes Five Scores For Win

It went down to the fifth golfer's score for Maine East to pull out a non-conference victory over Niles West 220-222.

Normally, four golfers' scores are used but after the four scores from each team were added, it was 173-173.

Bob Rolston paced the Demons by firing a two over par 38 on the Park Ridge Country Club course. Joe Daneluk shot a 44, Doug Duvall a 45, Tom Heenan a 45 and John Burke a 45. Rolston played consistently throughout the match, getting seven pars and two bogies.

Maine East will go against Evanston at the Wilmette Country Club Friday at 3:50 p.m. and will compete in the Maine South Invitational golf meet at Villa Olivia Saturday at 11 a.m.

will be presented for fishermen from 7:30 until 9:30 p.m.

Ralph Brown, former National Fly-Casting Champion, will also advise individuals about their flycasting techniques after his own demonstrations, and will show a film on fishing.

One of Montgomery Ward's most popular displays is certain to be the new umbrella tent which has largely supplanted the pup tent as a favorite of children.

"The children really flip over this one," a Ward's spokesman commented. "It's a small tent, basically, but they have plenty of headroom and don't feel crowded."

The umbrella tent and others which Ward's will show have a new "self-repairing" zipper flap which only needs to be re-zipped if the nylon track is disengaged.

In addition to its tents, Montgomery Ward is showing its new Sea King fiberglass runabout, a convertible 14-foot semi-V-hulled boat with 35 HP motor; two Western Field capers which can sleep 6 adults on slide-out beds; and a screen house (12 ft. by 10 ft. 8 in.) with new easy-installation features.

"The Randhurst Boat and Sports Show is for the whole family," Mrs. Irwin concluded. "Instead of informing only the outdoorsman a summer sports show can now appeal to women and children as well."

The Randhurst Boat and Sports Show will be open from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. on weekdays, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday. There is no admission charge.

Just Dogs

by Dave Terrill

Unwelcome guests . .

Almost every breed of dog has worms at some time in his life, according to the Gaines Dog Research Center. No breed is more susceptible than another to intestinal parasites, nor is there a particular age at which the dog is likely to become infected.

Dogs usually can be successfully treated for intestinal worms and the condition cleared up in a reasonable amount of time without after-effects. Prolonged bouts with worms, however, can weaken the dog's health and leave him vulnerable to other kinds of infection.

Sometimes there are symptoms and these, of course, call for a veterinary checkup. Worm infected dogs often have an "unthrifty" appearance. The dog is thin but may have a bloated stomach. His coat is dull and dry. Other indications may be listlessness and a poor appetite. Or, he may eat ravenously and still lose weight. There may be vomiting and/or diarrhea. Worms or worm segments may be passed in the expelled matter or in normal stools.

If the dog has fleas or has been heavily exposed to mosquitoes, there's good reason to have him checked for worms. Fleas can transmit tapeworm, an intestinal parasite, and mosquitoes can carry the dreaded heartworms.

On the subject of heartworm, reams of pages could be written. More and more people throughout this part of the country are becoming aware of the problem. Indeed, the parasite which has been common in the southern states has now spread to the point of where dogs throughout the country are infected. Your editor was in Denver, Colo., last Sunday, judging obedience at the Colorado Kennel Club show, and while there he asked various people if the problem was in the area. The answers were all positive and in some cases rather sad because some owners had dogs that died from the infestation.

As for symptoms of heartworm, it is a toughy. The dog may be in good health and then start to slow down. He will appear to run out of breath after exercise and have no pep. It all calls for a trip to your veterinarian where, if he checks for heartworm, a blood test is taken from the dog. Some people are now taking their dogs in for a blood test every six months.

The other types of worms which are in the intestinal tract can be checked by having the dog's stool sample checked and then following your veterinarian's prescribed treatment if the dog is infected.

The International K.C. has announced that they will expand their shows to a two-a-year with a brand new one-day un-benched show on Saturday Nov. 6, 1971, in the Amphitheatre.

More information about the new show will be announced later and as soon as received, it will be mentioned in this column.

Kurzydlo Fires Shutout But Can't Get Victory

The sports saying goes, "You can't lose if you're not scored upon." But, it does not mean you are guaranteed to win, either.

Just ask Notre Dame pitcher Doug Kurzydlo.

Kurzydlo fired a three-hit shutout, fanned seven batters and walked only one but the Dons had to settle for a 0-0 Suburban Catholic Conference tie with Montini Monday night.

The game will be replayed entirely, according to Suburban Catholic Conference rules.

The Dons had an opportunity to win the contest in the bottom of the seventh when they had runners on first and second with one out but a strike out and a pickoff snuffed out the rally.

Montini's only threat came in the second inning with a walk, an error and a line single but the Dons escaped the threat without giving up a run.

The Dons turned over their first double play of the season, Rich Luzinski, to Randy Kamowski to Mike Weides — short to second to first.

The Dons, which have a 1-2-2 Suburban Catholic Conference record and a 3-5-2 overall mark, will travel to Holy Cross for a league contest today at 4 p.m.

The Racing Scene

by John F. Klussmann

POINTMENOW CAME blasting down the stretch last Saturday at odds of better than 9-1 and the Chicago Thoroughbred racing season was off to a flying start at Arlington Park. The large crowd of 27,375, thoroughly enjoying the bright sunshine, poured $2,201,786 into the mutual machines.

Later in the afternoon, Richard Hazelton, perennially the leading trainer here, sent out the powerful entry of Moon-splash and Honest Effort in the featured Balmoral Inaugural Handicap, and they finished first and second. Hazelton will probably come right back with that dynamic duo in this Saturday's one mile $15,000 Crete Handicap.

Loco Kid and Fleet Wing, also Hazelton charges, were scratched from the Inaugural but are reported ready for the Crete. It could turn out to be the strongest four-horse entry ever witnessed, with Loco Kid insuring a fast pace, while Moon-splash, Honest Effort and Fleet Wing come charging past everyone in the stretch.

Trainer Robert Ballis is preparing Elegant Heir for the Crete. For the past two seasons the horse has been one of the gamest, most consistent runners ever to answer the call at Arlington; however, he will really need a maximum effort Saturday to defeat that group of Hazelton speed demons.

Back East last weekend, Good Behavior won the Wood Memorial at Aqueduct to place the outcome of the 1971 Kentucky Derby deeper in doubt. In his wake were the top two Derby contenders, Eastern Fleet and Jim French. Executioner, who has not been nominated to the Derby, finished third in the Wood.

As time draws near to the first Saturday in May, I will try to keep you posted on some of the events leading to the first leg of the Triple Crown. Meanwhile, it's back to Arlington Park and:

Horses to Watch

Geelong — Six-year-old gelding has speed. Ready for the big run in a $4000 claiming sprint.

Super Change — Fast out of the gate and capable of lasting through the stretch. Run a nice race last week to finish third. With a favorable post position will be right there next time.

Tuscan — Will come up out of the mile chute and go all the way soon. Runs for a low claiming price but out-classes most other $2500 animals.

War Darter — Very slow starter but comes roaring through the home lane. Made up acres of ground in last start. He's prepared for the score.

Classy Admiral — Bishop charge will run past other $9000 claimers in his next few races. Should win at nice odds.

Nervous George — Oldtimer is being primed for the longshot hit. May need another race but could be there at any time.

Jester D D — High-flying three-year-old can really pour on the coals. Belongs in $6000 claiming class.

Improve Your Racing Knowledge
Information concerning the horses currently receiving treatment from the veterinarians is regarded as a deep, dark secret at most race tracks. No wagering establishments publish a list of sore or injured animals, but they take your money when you bet on one.

The player must learn to distinguish the signs. Watch your horses in the paddock and post parade. When walking, do they nod their heads excessively when pressure is placed on a sore limb? When standing, do they shift their weight to one side to avoid placing tension on another aching leg?

A horse going postward in bandages is the most obvious sign of soreness. Bandages on the front legs are worse than in the back. Bandages on all four legs mean the end of your hard-earned cash if you bet on that animal. Keep your own performance record of horses who run with wrapped legs, they usually finish among the also-rans.

Elk Grove Posts 3rd League Win

Elk Grove, taking advantage of pitching wildness, broke open a tie game with a four-run inning and then received one-hit pitching by Dave Hilderbrand and Jeff Stewart to defeat Forest View Monday, 6-1.

The Grenadiers, now 3-1 in the league, loaded the bases on singles by Neal Noga and Gary Proehl and a walk sandwiched in by Hilderbrand, the starting and winning pitcher. Two outs later, Nick Adams and Steve Schellen drew run-producing walks and Scott Pruitt finished the big inning with a two-run single.

Forest View, now 1-3, tried to rally in the bottom of the fifth but Stewart, the Grove's hard-throwing reliever, stopped the threat.

Both teams scored once in the third with Tony Tringali driving in one of the winners with a single and the Falcons' marker coming on an error. The Grove scored one more in the sixth on a sacrifice fly by Stewart.

Tringali had a double to lead both teams with a 2-for-4 day.

Hilderbrand went 4 1/3 innings, struck out three and walked six. Bob Sobieski, the losing hurler, went five innings, fanned four and walked four. Larry Monroe finished out in relief.
